BRITAIN TAKES STORAGE EGGS; BUTTER FIRM

Portland, Oct. 5—The local egg market is generally steady on fresh stock. Although eastern markets are showing an easier tone the situation here shows little change over the week end. A new outlet has been found for cooler stocks here. Shipments are now being made to the United Kingdom. One lot of 1400 cases are reported going out on the British motor ship Loch Monar for the London market. This is to be followed by additional shipments on later steamers.

No change is shown in the local butter market over the week end. prices on prints and cubes remain steady at current levels.

Arrivals of country dressed meats and live poultry were moderate in the local market this morning and quotations remained steady.

OREGON WALNUTS SENT TO SHOW CALIFORNIA

Pearcy brothers have received an order for two sacks of choice Oregon Franquette walnuts to be shipped to California. The idea of the shipper is to show California just what real walnuts look like and taste like. While California has considerably the edge on Oregon as far as quantity is concerned, there is no question that Oregon quality is far superior to the California quality and it is only a question of developing sufficient quantity here to get into the eastern markets for the Oregon nut to sweep those markets.

NEW PRUNE FOR CALIFORNIA TO BE INTRODUCED

George C. Roeding, the eminent nurseryman and horticulturalist of California, is just now actively introducing, through the California Nursery company of Niles, which he operates, a new prune for California growers, says the California Fruit News.

This is called the Burton prune, having been propagated by R. E. Burton of Vacaville, a plant breeder of this state. The California Nursery company calls this the latest, the best and the most profitable prune known to horticulture. It is a very large prune, averaging in size twenty to thirty to the pound, and dries most satisfactorily and has a slightly tart flavor prune in that. Some other of the resembling somewhat the Italian prunes which have been put on the market in California because of their average large size have not been satisfactory.

This new prune, the Burton, Mr. Roeding finds to supply a prune having the requisite qualities of size, flavor, productiveness and drying characteristics to have much value in future development here. The Burton prune has been developed from a seed from a tree where Mr. Burton in 1896 grafted a part of a Tragedy tree into one of John Rock's Imperial Epineuse.

SALEM HEIGHTS PLAN EXHIBIT OF LOCAL PRODUCTS

Preparations are under way for the Salem Heights Community club local exhibit which will be held November 17, just prior to the Salem Corn and Industrial show put on by the Salem chamber of commerce. Winners at the community club show will have their offerings exhibited in the big show in Salem.

Blue ribbons will be offered at the Salem Heights show on the following classes: 6 potatoes, 3 table beets, two mangels, two feed carrots, 3 table carrots, 3 turnips, 10 ears corn, 10 ears popcorn, 6 ears sweet corn, grains and garden seeds 6 apples, 6 pears, dried fruit, plate or similar quantity, table squash, feed squash, summer squash, field pumpkins, pie pumpkins, quart each of walnuts, filberts and chestnuts, cabbage, kale, 6 tomatoes, beans, peppers, etc. Ribbons also will be given for the best display of canned vegetables, grains and garden seeds, fruits and nuts. Sweepstakes will be awarded for the highest scores. Quality will count more than quantity in awarding ribbons.

The show committee is made up of R. F. Stolzheise, R. D. Hulsey, A. N. Fulkerson, Mrs. Myron Van Eaton and Mrs. L. Farrington.

NUT GROWERS EXPECT BUYING TO BEGIN SOON

With the California Walnut Growers association prices out for this year's crop at a little lower figure than last year, it is probable that within a short time local activity will be apparent in buying up the crop in this section. While some of the crop here is handled by the local branch of the state association, there is a large part of the crop, especially in small lots, which are sold to independent buyers. It is expected Robert C. Paulus will be out after some walnuts this year, and Fred Brooker of Vancouver who in recent years has been the largest independent buyer, will be back again.

The California Walnut Growers crop quotations on the opening are f. o. b. California: No. 1 soft shell 24c; baby soft shell, 15c; large budded, 29c; medium budded, 22c. These figures are 1 cent lower on both grades of soft shell than last year's opening prices of the association; large budded are this year the same as last year, and medium budded are this year 3 cents lower than last year's opening. Crop estimates have been falling down a little in the view of the association lately in walnuts and there does not appear to be quite so heavy an output as earlier estimated, but still materially above the short crop of last year. In 1924 walnuts went out so quickly that there was immediate scarcity and remembering this and taking into account the high prices and general scarcity of all nuts this year in the important markets, the association probably figured that these conditions rather balance the somewhat larger tonnage in California in walnuts that is to be marketed this year.

The California Walnut Growers association named prices on "Diamond" brand shelled walnuts a few days earlier at $9 a case f. o. b. California, for 8-ounce cans, 24 to the case, and $3.85 for 3-ounce cans. This is the same basis as last year and the price is favorably viewed by the trade under present conditions in the nut market.

LOOK TO EUROPE TO ABSORB BULK OF APPLE CROP

Present indications are that Europe may absorb as many American and Canadian apples this year as last, reports Edwin Smith, foreign market specialist of the U. S. department of agriculture, who has just returned from abroad. While it is true that the English apple crop is better, both as to quantity and quality, than in 1924, yet it is scarcely more than half of a full crop and the varieties that show the best promise are cooking varieties.

The continental crop is very short and will scarcely be a factor. In every European country the pear crop is one of the smallest on record. No doubt pear prices will be sufficiently high to attract some of the harder American varieties.

Germany will start taking volumes of American apples earlier than last year and if the market is handled judiciously, Mr. Smith advises, will take steady consignments in greater total volume than in 1924. A heavy crop in Nova Scotia will somewhat offset Virginia's shortage, while in the boxed apple deal British Columbia's reduced crop will ease up on the competition with our Pacific coast states.

What American apple growers must work for in expanding their markets abroad are: Constant and adequate supplies, less waste and lower costs to the consumer and better quality upon arrival.

One of the topics of conversation among members of the fruit trade in Great Britain relates to the tremendous strides made during the past year by grapefruit in the British Isles. It has jumped from one of the rare exotic fruits seen only in large centers to a regular article of the trade, stocked by all progressive wholesalers and most retailers. Mr. Smith points out that were American producers to get behind it with a continuous educational program it seems certain that grapefruit might be absorbed in European markets in large quantities. At present only a very few people know what the fruit is or how it should be eaten.

SUMMARY OF NUT MARKET EASTERN STATES

The Hills brothers company of New York City, in its circular of September 25, has the following to say on the general market situation under the head of "Nuts":

Fall is here and buyers who have not yet covered a portion of their requirements for the holiday trade realize that they can not put it off very much longer. Looking over the different kinds of nuts which we handle we can not find one on which a lower price is likely to be seen this fall. Almonds: The new crop of Tarragonas is very short and the market is very firm at 23 cents. We now have California Nonpareil almonds for prompt shipment. Brazils: It is doubtful if there will be sufficient stocks to take care of the spot business in October and November. Either the jobbers will be sold out or prices will have to advance. Filberts: Our first shipment of new crop Long Naples filberts has arrived and further shipments will continue to come in each week. With a very firm market abroad on all filberts we can not look for any lower prices. Walnuts: New crop Grenobles and Cornes could hardly arrive in any quantity in time for the Thanksgiving trade. The trade will, therefore, have to take care of the demand for imported walnuts with the mountain Naples, which are now en route and which will probably have to be sold at 20 cents in original condition, and Sorrentos, due here the end of October. As all walnuts, especially Grenobles, were of unusually good quality last year, we do not think that the trade can go wrong in placing their orders now for their fall requirements for these.

WHEAT HIGHER CORN UNSETTLED

Chicago, Oct. 5—Stormy weather in Canada likely to delay threshing had a quick stimulating effect on the wheat market today. A material upturn in values took place.

Opening prices ⅝ to 1¾ cents higher, new style, September $1.35 to $1.35¾, and May $1.36½ to $1.36⅝, were followed soon by moderate further gains.

Corn and oats sympathized with wheat strength. After opening ¼ to ⅝ up, December 77⅞ to 78, the corn market underwent something of a reaction, but then rose higher than before.

Oats started at ½@⅝ to ⅝@½ advance December 39⅝ to 39½ and held near to initial figures.

Lower quotations on hogs weakened the provision market.

Wheat closed firm, 1⅝ to 2⅞ net higher, December $1.36⅝ to $1.36⅞ and May $1.37⅝ to $1.37⅞.

Corn closed unsettled at the same as Saturday's finish to ⅝ lower, December 76⅞ to 77.

WELLS UNABLE TO GET APPLES

L. W. Wells, with his foreman, Charles Anderson, were here today for the first time in several days and stated while he had endeavored to buy apples in the Salem district this year he has had no success this far as growers with light crops are refusing to sell for shipment believing they can make more money by selling locally. As a result, from present indications, Young & Wells will make no apple shipments from Salem this year.

However, the firm expects to send about 50 cars out of the valley, shipping from Creswell, Alpine, Corvallis, with about eight cars from Dallas and eight from Newberg.

The Creswell deal was closed up Saturday night and Anderson will leave for Dallas today to pack Mrs. Hammel's apple crop near there directly from the orchard.

Young & Wells also have been after onions in the Labish district not making any buys so far as growers are holding for higher prices than have been offered. The firm, however, expect to get some onions from the district before the season is over.

300 YEAR OLD RULE HOLDS IN COMMONS

London.—When Sir Harry Hope rose in the House of Commons to speak from one of the front benches he was greeted with loud cries of "Order." He sat down, puzzled, but rose again only to be greeted with more shouts of "Order."

A member pointed out that he had violated a 300 year old rule by putting his foot beyond a red line at the edge of the carpet in front of him. These lines, on either side of the chamber, were placed there in Stuart days, when the Roundheads in Parliament were bitterly attacking the Cavalier supporters of Charles I. Members in those days were armed and it was feared that debates might end in violence, so the red line was placed beyond which they were not supposed to pass during debate.

SCOTCH ATHLETE GOES INTO MISSIONARY WORK

Edinburgh, Scotland.—After winning several events at an athletic meeting recently, Eric Liddell, the "flying Scotsman," and Scottish Olympic 400-meter champion, left Edinburgh on his way to China for missionary work. Liddell was hauled through the streets in a decorated carriage by fellow students and a large crowd at the station sang a hymn, "Jesus Shall Reign," as his train moved out of the station.
