DEER DESTROY CHERRY ORCHARD

Dallas, Or., Oct. 9.—While local hunters have been scouring the wilds of Oregon for a radius of 200 miles or so with more or less success, N. L. Guy and W. L. Seelton would welcome their attention to a bunch of deer within 2 1/2 miles of Dallas. During the late summer and early fall this bunch, thought to include two bucks, a doe and fawns, have practically ruined between six and seven acres of young cherry trees owned by the two men on their farm northwest of Dallas.

The damage was not discovered until prune-picking time when it was found that the tender sprouts of the trees had been eaten and limbs torn off. Complaint was made to the game commission and authority secured to kill the animals, but this proved a difficult task. Since the season opened it is thought that the two bucks have been picked off. A damage claim will be presented to the game commission amounting to several hundred dollars. The orchard is near a dwelling and traveled road.
