140 Attend Dinner at Church

Members of the missionary society of the First Congregational church entertained their husbands at an attractive dinner in the church dining room last night. Covers were laid for one hundred and forty at long tables centered with autumn leaves and gladioli. Yellow and bronze candles in silver and crystal holders shed a soft glow over the tables. No other lighting was used. Miss Oda Chapman was in charge of the decorations.

Following the dinner hour a program was given with Mrs. T. S. McKenzie, missionary leader, in charge. Mrs. Treval Powers and Miss Josephine Broes gave a vocal duet and Mrs. J. J. Roberts sang a solo. Mrs. C. H. Fox led the devotional. A delightful feature of the evening was the telling by each of the members of the society how they had increased the quarters with which they started last January to make money for the missionary work. These quarters and their dividends were turned in and netted in all $141 which by contributions last night was raised to a total of $150. Many of the answers were given in verse.

A Sunday school rally will be held at the church tonight. Frank Neer, leader, has arranged a number of parodies on songs for the program.

Members of the Salem O. A. C. club will be hosts at a reception next Wednesday evening honoring the deans of men and of women. Dean U. G. Dubach and Dean Kate Jamieson, Mrs. Gertrude McElfresh of the English department, Miss Florence Blazier of the home economics department, and Miss Florence Erant of the physical education department at the college. The program is being arranged including numbers by Miss Lena Belle Tartar, contralto.
