

EGG PRICES HOP ONE CENT ALONG ENTIRE RANGE

Portland, Oct. 15—Fresh egg values continue their upward trend in all markets. On the local exchange all grades are up a cent for the day with fresh extras posted at 53 cents, firsts at 47 cents, pullets at 46 cents, and peewees at 31 cents. Current receipts continue steady at previous levels.

The fresh butter market continues to display a firm undertone although quotations on the dairy board are unchanged. Fat prices being paid now are so extreme that few of the creamerymen are making any money. Little effort is being made to get the price of prints up.

Front street commission houses are well supplied with poultry and the demand is now too keen. Prices on all grades in all lines but broilers and dressed turkeys.

Country meats still show a weak undertone, especially on calves. Choice light veal sell at 15 cents with 1 1/2 cents the extreme top. Good calves have been bought as low as 14 cents during the past 24 hours. Hogs hold barely steady at 18 to 18 1/2 cents for the best.

Keep It Secret

For six months Dixie Boatwright, New York show girl, was the secret bride of a wealthy Cornell student. But she couldn't keep the secret any longer, so told it in confidence to a girl friend, and then everyone knew it. Dixie is now Mrs. John Ingalls and says the stage will know her to more.

ONIONS HIGHER BUT SALES SLOW

Indications are that onions will be moving out of the Lahish district all winter, according to Ronald Jones in charge of the district. Jones states that the outlook is for rather slow movement although six or seven cars a day are now going up. The market has moved up to a $1.30, but he ventures no prediction on the outlook as to market, which he states is an exceedingly unknown quantity as far as forecasts are concerned. So far about 100 cars of onions have rolled out with about 500 cars in sight, according to present estimates. Over 100 cars of celery have rolled out of the Lahish district out of an estimated 200 carload crop. The celery market is picking up a little he reports, although the market is not quite so good as last year. At the same time the quality is not considered quite up to last year's average.

NURSERY FIRMS SAY BUSINESS IS IMPROVING

With advance sales better than usual, especially on walnut and filbert trees, the nursery business is showing indications of an upward tendency as a reflection of increased interest in horticultural production, according to Harry Peary of Peary Brothers.

Walnuts, filberts and cherries are the three horticultural lines of which there is an indication of new plantings for the coming year. Walnuts are showing good and John J. Roberts is contemplating planting of about 50 acres south of town, having made reservation of 1000 trees for the purpose.

The demand for walnuts will be in excess of the supply of trees in the northwest and not alone to the demand but the fact that nurserymen experienced hard luck, with only about 15 per cent of the grafts getting through the winter in northwestern nurseries, when last year from 40 to 45 per cent got through in the various sections.

Interest in filberts is also running strong and increased plantings will be evident in that line. The demand for cherry trees is heavy. Seedlings will make up the main plantings to be grafted in the orchards. Indications are that Lambers will make up the largest section of the new plantings due to recent successes in fresh shipping. One big planting will be that of the new cooperative orchard near Macleay.

Ornamentals also are big sellers this year. So far there has been a bigger sale on them up to this time than last year. People are more and more realizing the value of ornamentals in landscape design, estates Peary, and in addition the modern style of architecture does not demand an ornamental setting. This coupled with the vast amount of home building going on, all has led toward heavier demand for ornamentals each year.

PEARCY BROTHERS NOW IN MODERN QUARTERS

Pearcy Brothers, nurserymen and handlers of sprays and various lines of agricultural and horticultural products, have become fully established in their new place of business on South Commercial street near Ferry after being established on Court street for a number of years.

In their new place they have a specially arranged addition on the rear for the handling of their nursery stock and in addition have put in a number of new lines not handled at the old place. The store was remodeled and renovated especially for the purpose of the new business.

PRICES OF WOOL SLOW ADVANCE

Boston, Mass., Oct. 16—The Commercial Bulletin will say tomorrow:

"While the volume of business transacted in the wool market this past week probably has been smaller than that done a week ago, there has been nevertheless a fair business and prices show a rising tendency, which has been heightened as the week advanced by the stronger tone in Australia and more especially in Bradford. It has seemed significant that England has been the leading buyer in Melbourne this week.

"The manufacturers are evidently in need of wool and there has been evidence to show that the mills are running very close to the wind, in a number of instances at least, on supplies.

"Some offerings of fall Texas wools are expected to be made late this month in San Angelo. Early samples indicate rather short wool.

"Mohair is firm. Texas is cleared, practically of the fall clip at big prices."

AGGIES ALL SET FOR WHITMAN

Corvallis, Oct. 16—One backfield and one line change in the first team are shown in the Oregon Agricultural college starting lineup against Whitman in Portland tomorrow as announced this morning by Coach Schuster. One change is due to an injury to Holbins, end, in the Gonzaga game, and the other to the reorganization of two backfields into heavy and light starters.

The starting lineup will be: Ward, L.E.; Liebe, L.T.; Bradley, L.G. Halcom, C.; Richert, R.G.; Dickerson

Logan, R.E.; Backfield "heavy" Edwards, Q.; Schulerich, L.H.; Denman, R.H.; Solter, F. Denman, Solter and Schulerich can kick or run with the ball with more than average success. Substitute lineup on line will be: Carr, L.E.; or Savory, L.T.; M. Dixon, L.G.; Wernmark, C.; Olmstead, R.G.; Paine, R.T.; Ployhart, Patrick or Jarvis, R.E. In the backfield will be Lassiter, Q.; Qinn, L.H.; Luby, R.H.; and Bell P. Two lettermen are in this backfield and two are on the line, making the team not a "second string" in the usual sense. Luby will probably do the kicking for this light, speedy combination. The team leaves this afternoon for Portland. # THE NEW UNIVERSAL SUPERHEATOR

Again Cribben & Sexton makes another step toward perfect and economical heating large and small homes, garages, halls, schools, churches, etc.

The Universal Superheator is the key to this better heating. The Superheator, while a beautiful, walnut-finished cabinet heater, is unlike others you may be familiar with. It is announced by Cribben & Sexton Company only after exhaustive experiments and research. In it are combined only those principles which are demonstrated successes. In it, the shortcomings or defects of other cabinet-type heaters have been avoided.

Here is Cribben & Sexton Company's latest contribution to heating science. It is this handsome, walnut-finished Universal Superheator. This improved cabinet heater utilizes natural laws of warm air circulation—uses these laws to give any home all the comfort of the finest basement heating plant.

The Universal Superheator automatically forces a lively circulation by drawing cold air from the floors into the bottom of the beautiful cabinet to be humidified, purified, vitalized and rapidly superheated in the extra-large heating chamber. Then this warm, healthful air rushes out of the top and travels to the furthestmost corner of every room.

Easy Terms No Interest

Trade In Your Old Heater

No hot spots. No cold spots. It equalizes comfort in every part of every room.

Don't confuse the Universal Superheator with ordinary cabinet heaters. Cribben & Sexton Company have worked on it for years—announcing it only after they were sure it was a SUPERheator, superior to any other method of heating small homes.

You can use any kind of fuel in the Superheator—soft coal, hard coal, wood or briquettes—because it contains Cribben & Sexton Company's patented, duplex grate and because it is an engineered heater throughout.
