Conrad Dillman, an old-time real-estate man of Salem, just recovered from the effects of an accident which occurred over a month ago, is looking for the others who featured in the accident, he stated yesterday. Mr. Dillman was proceeding east on State street on his bicycle, and when attempting to turn north on High street, was hit by an approaching auto going west down State street. The force of the collision wrecked the bicycle, and knocked Dillman prostrate on the pavement, rendering him unconscious for a few moments. Dillman states that he does not even know the identity of the passer by who picked him up and took him to the office of a physician. He still feels occasional pains in his head as a result of the accident, he says. He seeks anyone knowing any of the details of the accident to let him know at his home address, 2011 Maple avenue. 248

based on the theory that all were equally guilty in the conspiracy, and that because Willos and Kelley hung back and allowed Murray to do the killing that cleared the way for their escape over the walls is no lawful reason why they should not pay with their lives for the crime.

The large percentage of woman who are exercising their right of exemption from jury duty is causing much difficulty in the selection of a jury to try Willos and Kelley.

Yesterday a special venire of 29 was ordered, but the dozen women on the list all claimed exemption, with the result that the venire was again expanded today and a venire of 15 ordered. Attorney Will R. King, for the defense, has two peremptory challenges remaining and the state has two.

Dan J. Fry Jr., was excused by stipulation, and also Edward F. day to the disclosure that President Coolidge hopes that the success of the security agreement has opened the way for a new disarmament conference in this country.

In the absence of following knowledge of the terms of the group of pacts worked out to give Europe its first real prospect of security since the war, however, definite steps toward the calling of such a conference are unlikely.

The Washington government has received from time to time as the Locarno conference took shape, advice from its diplomatic representatives in the capitals of the countries concerned which satisfied observers here that European statesmen entered that recent table discussion firmly determined to make progress toward a permanent peace status along the troubled frontier. Care has been taken, however, not to send any observer, official or unofficial to keep an eye on the proceedings. Since the Washington
