

BEARCATS OFF FOR TACOMA TO PLAY LOGGERS

Nineteen Willamette university gridsters and Guy L. Rathbun, coach, departed early this morning for Tacoma, where they will meet the College of Puget Sound in a tilt in the municipal stadium Saturday afternoon. The locals are making the trip by automobile, having been refused special rates on the train going north from Portland, according to Rathbun.

For four successive years the College of Puget Sound has defeated Willamette at football, the last time the Bearcats coming victorious in an encounter with the Loggers being in 1921, the last year Matthews was coach at the local institution. Critics concede that the outcome of Saturday's game is an uncertainty, with little to go by for comparison of the two teams.

Fans who have watched recent practices of the Bearcats are of the belief that the team, consisting largely of green men, has been greatly improved since the start of the season. In scrimmages with the second team this week, the varsity for the first time began to show an aptitude for completing forward passes.

Of individual players, perhaps Herrman, end, and Clive Zeller, full, have shown the most marked improvement in practice. Zeller, brother of the illustrious "Fat" Zeller, the outstanding Willamette star of recent years, first broke into the limelight when he went straight through the line for a 40-yard run in touchdown in the alumni game last Saturday. Herrman is showing considerable ability as an end and a punter. Both men are new in football circles.

According to reports reaching Salem, College of Puget Sound has played three games this season, defeating the University of British Columbia; losing by a close margin to a fleet team from Bremerton, and defeating Linfield college 22 to 0. In Wellman, quarterback, and Stevens, lineman, C. P. S. is conceded to have two dependable veterans. Both are in their fourth year of college football. The rest of the team is not so well known.

Saturday's game marks the end of the preliminary season for both Willamette and the College of Puget Sound.

Those making the trip north from here are: Backfield, McMullan, Zeller, Collingsworth, Waddell, Todner and Winslow. Line, Herrman, Mumford, Reidel, Rhodes, Mudra, Mort, Woodworth, Stolzheise, Evans, Huston, Scott, Ferguson and Necano.

Fitzgerald, a local automobile dealer, will act as head linesman.

SALEM TO PLAY ASTORIA TEAM HERE SATURDAY

Tomorrow afternoon the Salem high school football eleven will clash with the Astoria team on Sweetland field. The locals are depressed over the outlooks as they have been unable to work at all this week owing to the players being vaccinated. The vaccination has left all of them pretty sore and some of the players have been sick in bed. Hollis Huntington, coach of the red and black eleven, said yesterday that he had had nearly all of his first string men out of the lineup with no scrimmage and no hopes of getting in any practice before the game.

Only fourteen or fifteen men of over thirty are out each night and they have not been able to do any more than run through signals.

and practice punting. J. Drager, who has been sick but has struck it out, will be feeling better by the time of the game it is thought. He was vaccinated on top of having a sore foot.

This outlook is not very bright as the locals need considerable brushing up on their plays. The Indians, who defeated them in the last game the locals played, showed them that they needed more practice in blocking and completing passes. The line plays were also a little weak but promise to pick up with practice. The locals expect to have one of their best teams in years and are hoping to wrest the Willamette valley championship crown from Corvallis, who has held it for the last three years.

The locals are confident of taking the long end of the score Saturday, no matter in what condition they are in. Oregon City defeated them in a game played earlier in the season. The Oregon City team has a fairly strong aggression this year, however. The game will start at 2:30 o'clock.

LODGE TELLS OF LEAGUE'S DEFEAT

Washington, Oct. 22.—How republican leaders in the league of nations fight escaped what they considered a trap to commit them beforehand to support of the covenant is one incident of the historic struggle disclosed for the first time by the late Henry Cabot Lodge, one of its dominant figures in a book written a month before his death and given to the public today.

Entitled "The Senate and the League of Nations," the volume, placed on sale by Scribner as copy right holders is in the main a record for posterity of the already known history of the bitter-end struggle between Woodrow Wilson and the senate opposition. But the opposition leader is outspoken in his personal characterizations of the war president, upon whom he lays full responsibility in his unflinching attitude for the league's defeat.

Although he had worked and voted for ratification of the league with reservations, in the end, Mr. Lodge says, he was thankful that it had been defeated. He views the league as having in practice thus far proved futile for the ostensible purpose of its creation.

ELKS WILL HOLD OPEN HOUSE FOR VISITORS SOON

The privilege of seeing the interior of one of the most artistically furnished Elks temples in the west is extended to the public at the public reception to be given next Tuesday evening at the Salem Elks' temple, from 7 until 11 o'clock.

Entering the vestibule the visitor is impressed with not only the richness of the furnishings but with the harmony of colors.

The floor of the vestibule and approach to the grand stairway are covered with a rubber tiling especially adapted to public buildings. It is resilient, noiseless and for the benefit of those who want to know, is one of the most expensive floors laid. Twenty-one tons of this rubber flooring was used in the temple. On each side of the grand stairway, leading to the second floor, may be seen a statue of Italian sculptured alabaster marble. To the left, the statue represents the Goddess of Day and to the right, the Goddess of Night. These two pieces of statuary are valued at $1000.

The color scheme of the main lobby is of a soft neutral shade of buff in colors harmonizing with the light fixtures, draperies and carpets. All furnishings of the lodge are in mahogany. In the main lobby are two imperial Wilton rugs of the finest quality.

The main lounge room is furnished with over-stuffed furniture, all mahogany fixtures and an imperial Dundhar Wilton carpet, one of the finest made. This carpet cost the lodge $2100 and is built up on Callifelt. In this room may be seen a massive fireplace with mahogany mantle and massive home made andirons.

In the opposite end of the lobby may be seen the buffet, of Tennessee marble, trimmed with Belgian marble. In this part of the main floor are the six pocket and billiard tables, all of mahogany, and ten mahogany card tables.

The ladies room, adjoining the dining room, is reached from Church street. This room is furnished in Dundhar Wilton carpet with walls in golden tiffany. The furniture is of old English mahogany.

On the second floor of the temple, to the right is the auditorium or banquet hall with a floor of English inlaid linoleum. The ceiling has a border frieze of garlands in natural colors of fruits and flowers.

The stage in this room has a curtain of green silk velour. The walls of the room are stippled in green and buff. Just off the auditorium is a ladies' parlor, finished with Lloyd fiber wire furniture and Wilton carpet. Fixtures in this room are of the Italian type.

On the second floor to the left is the main lodge room where sessions are held each Tuesday evening. The walls of this room are in cane stone, shades in blocks of stone. The frieze and cornice is in old ivory and high-lighted.

In this main lodge room, the flooring is of rubber tiling, and opera chairs and all fixtures in mahogany. Draperies are in stripes of gold.

The furnishings of the lodge cost approximately $35,000. Much time and attention was given by the house furnishing committee in furnishing the temple in colors that would harmonize. This committee, for which all credit is given, is as follows: Henry W. Meyers, chairman; Dr. H. H. Olinberger, Roscoe Shelton, Frank T. Wrightman, Homer H. Smith and Joseph Adolph.

HELD FOR THEFT OF CLOVER SEED

McMinnville, Or., Oct. 23.—Lee Jangway, said to have been a resident of Amity for the past 6 years, is being held here today on a charge of having robbed the Perrydale warehouse Monday night, taking some half dozen sacks of cloverseed, valued at nearly $500. Jangway, who is in his early thirties, is said to have a wife and family at Amity.

Officers say that he admits robbing the Perrydale warehouse. He was apprehended, according to the officers, through his sale of one sack of clover seed to a McMinnville firm. He is thought to have sold about 5 sacks of the seed to a firm at Carleton.

Jangway is being held here for Sheriff Hooker of Dallas, Polk county sheriff.
