Mt. Angel, Or., Oct. 26.—The history, organization and purpose of the Marion county child health demonstration will be outlined in detail before the people of the Mt. Angel district at a meeting tomorrow evening beginning at 7:45 o'clock, in the music room of the public school.

"I have never seen the equal of Tanlac in my life. It has more than doubled my appetite, my stomach feels great and my general health is so improved that I can not praise Tanlac enough for what it has done and is still doing for me."

POLICY OF GAME BOARD SHOWN IN AVERILL LETTER

An exchange of letters between R. W. Macy, attorney of Salem, and Edgar F. Averill, state game warden, throw light on the policy of the state game commission in liberating Chinese pheasants, a policy that was criticized by Macy in a letter to Averill. Macy wrote: "A few days ago, I read in one of the daily papers a statement that the game commission of Oregon had turned loose this year, over nine thousand Chinese pheasants for the hunters to shoot at next Thursday.

"It occurs to me that this method of handling game birds is largely a waste of energy and money. A few weeks ago I visited the Washington (at Watta Walls) state game farm, and was convinced that their plan of propagating Chinese pheasants is far superior to that followed by the game commission of Oregon. The Washington commission does not liberate the young pheasants until the season is closed. Hence, if the Washington commission released nine thousand birds in a season, there would be nine thousand birds for propagation purposes the next spring. I think it safe to assume that they would produce from forty-five to fifty thousand young birds.

"I doubt if more than a thousand or fifteen hundred of the nine thousand birds released by the Oregon commission this year will survive the slaughter beginning on the 15th. The survivors will not produce as many birds next year as were turned loose this fall.

"I am sure that anyone who gives the matter a moment's reflection would be convinced that the Washington method is far the better. It secures to me that the matter is worthy of the attention and consideration of the Oregon game commission. There would be far more birds each year for the hunters to shoot at, if the Oregon commission adopted the Washington plan."

Mr. Averill replied as follows: "Replying to your letter of October 19 regarding the liberation of Chinese pheasants, I am pleased to advise that your views are thoroughly in accord with the writer's. However, the statement in the press is not so bad as it sounds. It is true that 9000 birds have been liberated this year, but approximately 1000 of these were female birds that had been held over from last year and liberated early this spring in time to nest and rear their young. It is true that several birds have been released in territory in which the season opened yesterday prior to the writer's taking this office. The release of birds from the state farm at Pendleton was made necessary because the space they occupied was required for younger birds. It was also necessary to liberate a good many birds from the Corvallis game farm because of the poor condition of the pens, making it impossible to hold them after they reached a certain stage. For the most part these birds were liberated in counties in which there is no open season or in closed areas in open season counties. Immediate action assuming this office I issued instruction to the effect that no birds be liberated in any territory in which there would be an open season until the close of the hunting season. All the closed areas of the state suitable for Chinese pheasants have now been stocked and we are holding 7000 birds to be liberated in the open areas as soon as the season closes.

"I am very glad to have your letter and to know that you are interested. Constructive criticism of this kind is always welcome and I hope you will keep in touch with this office. When in Portland call so that we may get acquainted."
