

EGGS RECOVER RECENT LOSSES BUTTER STEADY

Portland, Ore., Nov. 12.—(A.P.)—Recent losses in the fresh egg market were recovered in the trading on the local exchange yesterday afternoon and today fresh standard extras are back up to 55 cents with firsts at 52 cents. Current receipts also advanced and are set at two cents higher today at 47 cents.

Locally the situation is none too firm but fresh receipts are light and outside markets are holding steady which is expected to prevent the market from breaking very badly.

Cube butter is generally steady although prime grades are a point lower for the 95 cents while firsts advanced a half to 50 cents. Top grade butter remains steady and unchanged.

Country dressed meats are scarce along the street and the market is displaying a healthier tone. Choice light veal readily brings 15 to 15 1/2 cents, with an occasional sale as high as 16 cents. Choice light hogs bring 15 to 15 1/2 cents.

A strong undertone is showing in the poultry market and prices are slowly working higher. Today light hens are bringing 18 to 19 cents with heavy hens 26 to 27 cents. Live turkeys are firm at 31 to 32 cents with fancy dressed birds quoted at 40 to 41 cents. The supply is limited and the demand keen on all lines of poultry.

Prayers of Friends Cured Him Is Claim Of Chauncey Olcott

New York, Nov. 12.—(A.P.)—Now convalescent in his "lucky house," to which he was rushed when taken ill two weeks ago at Ann Arbor, Mich., Chauncey Olcott, actor, is attributing his recovery to the prayers of his friends.

He also ascribes a part in his recovery to healing qualities in the hands of his wife, a seventh daughter. She has just presented him with a marble reproduction of her hands done by a sculptor who felt inspired by St. Theresa, the poetess "little flower of Japan."

"There is no doubt at all that I have been healed through prayer," said Mr. Olcott, greeting friends in his home, where he recovered from illness five years ago when he was supposed to be dying.

Displaying a sculptured pair of hands rising out of a block of a block of marble, Mr. Olcott said: "I wouldn't take a million dollars for those hands. The Detroit museum wants to buy them, so does my friend John McCormick, but I would not part with them."

UPWARD MARKET SEEN FOR WOOL; MOHAIR IS QUIET

Boston, Mass., Nov. 12.—(A.P.)—The Commercial Bulletin will say tomorrow:

A broader, stronger market has ruled in wool during the past week. The tendency of wool values is upward in this market and the market is more generally active and strong. Australia has been again the buyer. Demand is reported quiet but firm. Competition in the foreign primary market is more general than at any time previously this season.

Scattered buying is reported in the west at about eastern market parity. The Texas and California markets are quiet. In the Argentine market Tuesday was a sealed bid sale.

Mohair is rather quiet but firm. The Commercial Bulletin will publish the following quotations tomorrow:

Secured bales: Oregon; eastern No. 1 staple $1.25@1.27; fine and medium $1.10@1.15; valley No. 1, $1.15@1.17.

Mohair: best combing 75@80c; best carding 65@70c.

STOCK PRICES SOAR ON MARKET

New York, Nov. 12.—(A.P.)—Stock prices bounded upward today in another wild outbreak of bullish enthusiasm, engineered by the retention of the New York federal reserve bank 3 1/2 per cent rate, the Italian debt settlement and a series of favorable dividend announcements after the close yesterday.

Enormous blocks of stocks changed hands in the early trading. The opening sale of American safety stock, a block of 10,000 shares at 7 1/2. United States Steel common opened with a block of 4,000 shares at the "spread opening" price of 12 1/2 to 13 1/4, an upward 2-4. A string of 23 transactions in Marland Oil, totalling 15,000 shares, appeared on the tape, towards the end of the hour, the stock attaining a new 1925 record price at 58.

Dupont, which will benefit materially from the 15 extra cash dividend on General Motors stock, of which it holds a large block, was the spectacular individual performer, soaring 11 points to 259.

Three Old Salemites Met By Judge D'Arcy On Southern Visit

Judge Peter D'Arcy, a short time ago while in San Francisco, met three persons, one of whom was formerly a resident of Portland, and the other two residents of Salem in the early seventies.

One of these, Alfred Holman, editor of the San Francisco Bulletin, a paper which was established in 1855, seventy years ago, by James King of William, who was killed by Charles Cora on account of which he was hanged by the vigilance committee on the 22nd day of May, 1856.

This paper has been published ever since the above named year. It still maintains its prestige and standing under the editorial management of Mr. Holman. Mr. Holman was born near Carlton, Yamhill county, State of Oregon. His first editorial work was on the Oregonian. He was the editor of the San Francisco Argonaut for a number of years until he was called upon to take the position of managing editor of the San Francisco Bulletin. His brilliant accomplishments as a newspaper editor and writer are well known throughout the East, California and the North west. He was a frequent visitor in Salem in the early seventies. For a number of years he was the legislative correspondent of the Oregonian. His grasp of the affairs of state and of the legislative assembly was discriminating. Few could rival the qualities of mind and critical observation which made him a noted correspondent of events which transpired in our capital city. Mr. Holman's tribute to Mr. H. W. Scott, editor of the Oregonian, after Mr. Scott's death, is of the highest literary character and indicates his ability to write of Mr. Scott as his talents deserved.

Mr. Holman is a nephew of Chief Justice McElride, and a cousin of Dr. W. H. Stone of our city. Edward C. Alexander, a printer of Salem in the early seventies, I found in a somewhat dimmed condition on account of a slight stroke of paralysis. He is now seventy-five years of age. His mind is clear and I had a very pleasant visit with him talking over old times and the changes which have taken place in Salem in the last fifty years. There are now very few people in Salem who were acquainted with him when he lived here. As a boy I set type with him in a printing office where I was employed. His wife and son are taking good care of him. His wife is an excellent woman, and his son, Leo E. Alexander, is one of the bright young business men of San Francisco. Mr. Alexander is one of the acquaintances of my youth that I am pleased to call my friend.

Edward J. Thurman was employed as a printer in Salem in the early seventies. He moved to San Francisco in 1874, and married a lady eighty years older than himself. She lived as his wife for thirty years after her marriage when she died. He then married the daughter of a Methodist minister. Upon the death of his second wife, he married a French Canadian lady. This marriage occurred four months ago. His first wife was a Catholic, and for thirty years he espoused and was a member of the Catholic church. His second wife was a Methodist, and he became one. His third wife is a Presbyterian and he is affiliated with the Presbyterian church, and now is an elder in that church. Notwithstanding his eccentricities and change of ideas in the matter of religion, Mr. Thurman is a useful and law abiding citizen, interested in the welfare of his state and nation. He was one of my fellow competitors in the printing business in my younger days.

Another person my visit to San Francisco recalled and who was born and lived in Salem many years, and who has departed this life, and whom I did not have the pleasure of meeting was Bliss D. Riecke. He was cashier of the City Department of San Francisco for more than thirty years, in the early seventies he was the "Dean Drummer" of our city. His was a manly and generous nature. He was my school boy friend, and my knowledge of his noble qualities endeared him to me. I remember quite well his week end visits to Jefferson to call upon one of the noted belles of Marion county. Circumstances were responsible for his moving to California, where he married Miss Mulerevy, a native daughter of that state, an accomplished woman of rare intelligence. Their married life was unusually happy, full of romance, and equal to the pleasant days of their courtship.

Mr. Riecke's standing in San Francisco, and the respect of the community was of such a character as to meet the approval and commendation of all his friends and acquaintances. The end of his career and the thoughts of the other friends of whom I have written remind me:

Ne'er tell me of glories serenely adorning
The close of our day, the calm eve of our night—
Give me back, give me back the wild freshness of morning,
Her clouds and her tears are worth evening's best light.
