To the Editor:—Thou shalt not kill, is interpreted and accepted by all law abiding people to mean—"Thou shalt not commit unprovoked murder". And all normal minded people know full well that if they respect and obey that commandment then the law applying to murderers does not in any way interfere with their enjoyment of any reasonable personal liberty; but is a shield to them against evildoers.

A person could probably make more headway in getting "fool" laws changed by pointing out defects and suggesting remedies instead of slurring and stabbing at it. Under present conditions the law apprehends despots and provides them with better food, clothing and shelter; and even luxuries; than thousands of law abiding people ever enjoy; where upon they take human life in order to escape such intolerable conditions; boast thereof; sign and fingerprint a written statement of the heroic deed; but according to law, they must be tried in court, and an immense sum of money be paid to establish the truth of the fingerprint statement; is this one of the "fool laws" referred to in the open forum of Nov 9th?

The statement: "You'll never make me hold up my hand and swear away a man's life"; is so utterly silly that I shall not try to qualify it; but will say that there never was, and never will be, such a law, that required a person to do so; but the law requires that a person testify to the truth; but if he testifies falsely, and thereby liberate a murderer, then he is in the same class with those who slobber and sob to have the murderer set free; and their classification and reward are set forth in "Holy Writ." Come over and help make this hanging law obsolete by obeying both the civil law and the Golden Rule.

Editor Journal:—"A Subscriber" as he signed his "open forum" article in your issue of the 18th inst; possibly should be excused for his outburst, because where ignorance is bliss, 'tis folly to be wise.

"A Subscriber" writes, using his words, The state game law states it is always unlawful to shoot from a blind. Perhaps "A Subscriber" is more familiar with this law than the writer, however I'm somewhat like the fellow from Missouri.

Since "A Subscriber" styles himself a hunter we question his position as being consistent, inasmuch as he hides behind a blind to take a shot at his superiors. Why, "A Subscriber," if you have a grievance or any criticism to offer are you not man enough to sign your name?

As I am one of twenty or more so-called (by you) rich fellows who have purchased property and leased land for hunting privileges, it is our pleasure to notify you and other poachers that further prosecution will be our endeavor should you and your friends trespass upon our property either by day or night, as you

Whole World Contributes to Medicine

Ginger from India—iodine from Chile—Olive Oil from Italy—Epsom Salts from England—Menthol from Japan and roots and herbs from almost every country in the world contribute their share towards alleviating the ills of the race. No other medicine, however compounded from roots and herbs has ever attained such a marvelous record for success as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For over fifty years it has been overcoming some of the most stubborn ailments of womanhood, and is constantly growing in popularity and favor.—Adv.
