State C. A. R. President Honored

The state director of the Children of the American Revolution, Mrs. James G. Walker Jr., of Portland, several leading members of Columbia chapter of the C. A. R. and a number of prominent members of the Daughters of the American Revolution in Portland and in the state of Washington, were the guests of Chemeketa chapter of the daughters at an interesting meeting at the home of Mrs. B. L. Steeves on Court street, on Saturday afternoon. Hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Cecil Hawley, Mrs. J. P. Fritzel, Mrs. C. A. Holmstrom, Mrs. S. C. Dyer, Mrs. Asa Fisher and Mrs. James G. Heltzel.

This, the Christmas meeting, was given over entirely to the Children of the American Revolution. Mrs. Walker, head of the organization in the state, gave a talk on the aims, ideals and purposes of the children's organization. Miss Margaret Heltzel of Salem, gave a piano solo and Almore Newton of Portland, the young boy who is president of Columbia chapter, gave a piano solo also. An attractive dance followed by a reading, was given by Miss Mabel V. Dowlin of Portland, who wore a Colonial costume.

Mrs. Seymour Jones, state regent of the daughters, and Mrs. U. G. Shipley, honorary chapter regent, presided at the tea table arranged in the dining room. A lovely basket of bronze chrysanthemums and four tall yellow tapers in crystal holders centered the tea table. Assisting in the serving were Miss Margaret Heltzel, Miss Annabelle Hawley, Miss Jane Harbison and Miss Grace Elizabeth Holman.

Honor guests of the afternoon were in addition to Mrs. Walker, Mrs. F. Lewis Stoeckle of Portland, director of Columbia chapter of the C. A. R.; Miss Margaret Moos of Portland, senior president of Columbia chapter, and Almore Newton, junior president; Mrs. William McCreatie, regent of Willamette chapter of the daughters; Mrs. J. Thorborn Ross, who brought greetings from Multnomah chapter in Portland; Mrs. Harry D. Hurley of Seattle, vice state regent of Washington; Mrs. Alexander H. Workman of Portland, and Miss Mabel V. Dowlin of Portland.

Mrs. James G. Heltzel, director of Old Glory chapter of the C. A. R. organized here several years ago. Plans are being formulated at this time for the active functioning of the Salem chapter.

Miss Cornelia Marvin was hostess at a delightful gathering at her attractive home at Bala yesterday when she entertained members of her class in modern thought, a section of the Salem Art League, at Sunday afternoon. A quaint old piece of pottery filled with yellow chrysanthemums and ferns centered the serving table arranged in the dining room. Mrs. J. M. Devers presided with Miss Marie Roberts and Miss Audrey Bunch assisting.

After enjoying short rambles about Miss Marvin's garden the little groups gathered together in the living room before a crackling fire on the hearth. For more than three hours impromptu talks were given by various members of the class on Greek literature, Greek mythology and Greek legends. The class closed with the reading of the chapter on the Greeks in William Van Loon's new book, "Tolerance."

More than twenty five members of the class and several additional guests enjoyed Miss Marvin's hospitality during the afternoon and early evening.

Miss Alta Jones was hostess at an attractive affair at the Jones summer home at Neekowin last week when she entertained members of her bridge club, the D. U. C. club, at a three day house party. Among the guests who returned over on Wednesday and returned Friday evening were Mrs. V. McKenzie, Ernest Skeley, Mrs. E. Eckerlin Jr., Mrs. Lester Schloberg, Mrs. Art Wallace, Mrs. R. McDevitt of Albany, Mrs. Ernest Zingman of Portland and Mrs. Earl Simmons of Eugene.

On Thursday afternoon the group enjoyed several hours of bridge. High honors were won by Mrs. Lester Schloberg. The rooms of the Jones home were lovely with holiday decorations for the occasion.

The woman's foreign missionary society of the First Methodist church will meet on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. M. Durkheimer. The meeting will open at two thirty with Mrs. Charles J. Lisle leading the devotions. Mrs. M. B. Baronngian will be in charge of the lesson on the second chapter of the mission book chosen by the class for the year's study. During the afternoon Miss Aldene Smith will sing. This will be the annual Christmas offering meeting of the society.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Dyer left yesterday for San Francisco where they will set sail for the Hawaiian Islands. They plan to spend several months in the islands. Later they will be joined by Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Kamm of Portland. Among the friends they will visit in Honolulu is Major Malcolm Cox, son of Harrie Cox, who formerly made his home here.

The Christmas ceremonial of Willamette Shrine No. 2, Order of the White Shrine of Jerusalem, will be held in the Masonic temple tomorrow evening.

Jinx Hits Opera

JEANNE GORDON (above) and M. MATZENAUER

The grand opera season opened in New York with the jinx present for the premiere. Jeanne Gordon was taken suddenly ill at the last moment and Mme. Matzenauer was called in to fill the breach, which she did nobly.

Members of the Brush college grange met in the Brush College school house on Friday evening for the annual Christmas dinner meeting. Dinner was served at six thirty at long tables centered with tiny Christmas trees and baskets of holly. Long red streamers were suspended from the lights to the tables. The Christmas idea was cleverly carried out in the menu.

Following the dinner the girls and boys glee clubs and the orchestra of the Chemawa Indian school gave a program of songs, recitations and instrumental numbers. Mr. and Mrs. Ruthyn Turney of the music faculty of the school directed them.

New officers to be installed after the first of the year, were elected during a brief business meeting late in the evening. F. C. Ewing will be master of Brush College grange during the coming year. Other officers chosen were as follows: Roy Barker, overseer; Ralph Scott, steward; Mrs. W. E. McCall, lecturer; Wayne Henry, secretary; Elmer Cook, treasurer; Mrs. Oliver Whitney, chaplain; Charles McCarter, assistant steward; Mrs. Claude Rice, lady assistant; Mrs. Ralph Scott, seers; Mrs. Roy Barker, flora; Mrs. McKinley, pomona, and Mrs. Charles Wright, gate keeper.

Plans were also made for a benefit program which the grange members will give next Friday evening in the school house for the children's farm home at Corvallis. The program will include a play to be given by the girl scouts of the First M. E. church of Salem under the direction of Mrs. R. T. M. Hester.

The west side ladies aid society of the Jason Lee church will hold a special meeting with Mrs. Hockett, 1603 north Commercial street Friday afternoon, December 11, to pack the regular Christmas box for the orphan home at Corvallis.

These articles and many more have been asked for. Bibles, good reading books and magazines, all kinds of games, good records for Victrola, pictures for the walls, toys, paint books, crayols and water colors, pin cushions, sewing baskets, crochet and embroidery thread, scissors and thimbles, wash cloths, tooth brushes and paete, canned fruits, vegetables and fish, dried fruits and apples.

The woman's home missionary society of the Leolia Methodist church will meet on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. C. Baker, 890 Sarinaw street. The assistant hostess will be Mrs. T. R. Moorhead and Mrs. D. C. Miller will give a report of the national convention which she attended in Pasadena, Cal., recently. A number of other reports will also be given at this meeting.

Miss Ruth Davison entertained the members of the Just for Fun club on Thursday evening. Miss Hazel Todhunter was admitted as a new member. Toasting marshmallows, sewing and music were the diversions of the evening. Later refreshments were served by the hostess.

Members present were Mrs. Dorothy Van De Walker, Mrs. Lorraine Kleinke, Mrs. Cecil Clark, Miss Thelma Carey, Miss Viola Lottie, Miss Lila Kleinke and the hostess.

The music teachers' association will meet this evening with Miss Elma Weller, 695 north Liberty street. Mrs. Mollie Styles is in charge of the program which will consist of a study of art songs.

The Eastern Star social club will meet tomorrow afternoon in the Masonic temple for an afternoon of sewing. Mrs. M. C. Pettit is in charge.

Miss Lancel Entertained Saturday

Following the concert given in Waller hall on Saturday evening by the MacDowell club chorus and Miss Emilie Lancel, prominent mezzo soprano, the social committee of the MacDowell club honored Miss Lancel at an informal reception at the home of Miss Dorothy Pearce on north Winter street. W. H. Boyer of Portland, director of the chorus, was an additional honor guest.

The living rooms were lovely with baskets of holly and with red candles placed about. Mrs. George J. Pearce presided at the serving table arranged in the dining room. Those assisting in the serving were Mrs. G. C. Bellinger, Mrs. C. B. Webb, Mrs. T. H. Galloway, Mrs. George E. Allen, Mrs. J. E. Law, Mrs. G. R. Bonnell and Mrs. Charles Sherman.

Saturday evening's concert was considered by many of the local music devotees to be one of the best ever given by the local chorus. Their appearance Saturday evening, the first of this year, was awaited with considerable interest and each number given was a distinct success, from the first, Noel Bresean's "Harken, Every True Believer," to the last, a Deeme Taylor arrangement of a Czech-Slovakian folk song. Last year Mr. Boyer showed himself to be a director of merit, but this year the chorus proved itself to be even better balanced and capable of both greater power and greater sweetness. More than a bit of the success of Saturday's concert was due to the assisting artist, Miss Lancel. This was her first appearance on a Salem concert stage and she won for herself a host of admirers. Miss Lancel possesses a voice of unusual sweetness and volume which she handles with the skill of a true artist.

Moroni Olsen himself played the part of the proud builder of ships and of a name, whose yards were greatest in the world, whose new ship was queen of the seas, and whose son, was (so he planned) to carry on where he left off.

Byron Foulger was the son, finding the everlasting dominance of the parental mind irksome, hating the age of machinery which had made men slaves, determined, whatever came of it, to be a man rather than a servant of steel and power.

The annual Christmas ceremonial of Willamette Shrine No. 2, Order of the White Shrine of Jerusalem, will be held in the Masonic temple tomorrow evening beginning at eight o'clock.

Outstanding among the theater attractions of the month is the play "The Ship" by St. John Ervine which the Moroni Olsen players will give at the Heilig on Wednesday evening. The dramatic excellence of the Moroni Olsen players was demonstrated here early in the fall when they gave Bernard Shaw's Pygmalion. Their second coming is awaited with much interest.

A Boise, Idaho, paper, where the Olsen players gave the ship on Thanksgiving eve, gave the following account of the play: St. John Ervine's "The Ship" sailed its majestic way to soul stirring disaster at the Plinney theater Wednesday night under Moroni Olsen's skillful pilotage. A Boise audience which several times forgot its antipathy for hand clapping and cheered some excellent acting, forgot again and showed its feelings with stifled sobs and teary eyes when a broken father left the stage and a little grandmother, slowly crossed a room and turned out a light plunging the stage into darkness as the curtain fell.

"The Ship" was another triumph for Janet Young in character. The grandmother she portrayed in the backbone of the Ervine play.

Reservations should be made immediately with Mrs. J. M. Chipford or with Dr. Mary C. Rowland by those members of the Salem Arts league who are planning to attend the general meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harwood Hall at Chemawa tomorrow evening. Cars will start at seven thirty tomorrow from Court street between High and Liberty.

FALLS CITY

Falls City, Or., Dec. 7.—Mrs. Lois Gardner and children of Valselt are visiting Mrs. Gardner's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Wingo.
