Mrs. Whittig Hostess At Bridge

Members of the Round-up club and several additional guests were delightfully entertained yesterday when Mrs. J. T. Whittig was hostess at bridge in her home.

The living rooms were lovely with holly, poinsettias and red candles in silver holders. High bridge honors were won by Mrs. John L. Rand. During the tea hour Mrs. Joseph Albert assisted Mrs. Whittig.

Additional guests were Mrs. Max Duren, Mrs. F. G. Bowersox and Mrs. Axel Eoff.

Members of the club are Mrs. Joseph Albert, Mrs. J. C. Griffith, Mrs. R. E. Downing, Mrs. W. G. Allen, Mrs. John L. Rand, Mrs. Edgar Hartley, Mrs. John Scott, Mrs. S. P. Kimball, Mrs. John Albert, Mrs. E. Cooke Patton, Mrs. C. K. Spaulding, Mrs. C. H. Robertson, Mrs. Lena Westcott, Mrs. T. B. Kay and the hostess, Mrs. J. T. Whittig.

The club will not meet again until after the Christmas holidays.

The conservation committee of the Salem Woman's club recently completed the task of sending out five thousand little bulletins issued by the United States forest service and the Oregon state board of forestry on the subject of Christmas trees. Mrs. F. A. Elliott, chairman of the Salem club's committee on conservation, is also chairman of the Oregon federation conservation division. Members of the local committee who assisted Mrs. Elliott in her estate work in sending out the bulletins were Mrs. B. E. Carrier, Mrs. John E. Brophy, Mrs. Frank Myers, Mrs. W. E. Crews, Mrs. J. M. Clifford and Mrs. W. J. Willert.

The bulletins were sent to all clubs in the federation, to other organized bodies and to a number of individuals in various parts of the state.

Government and state forestry officials are heavily in favor of retaining the old custom of using Christmas trees at the Yuletide season but the bulletin has been issued for the purpose of asking the people to cut the trees for this purpose according to scientific forestry methods. They do not approve of wholesale cutting of trees to be placed along the streets before business houses but favor instead the large living Christmas trees such as large lawn trees which are cut from thickets where thinning is necessary and not from open spaces where the little trees have a better opportunity to grow symmetrically. They oppose Christmas tree vandalism in all forms and decry the practice of cutting tops off larger trees. Fire prevention is stressed also.

Beautiful Myrtle Wood

Myrtle wood is as rare as it is beautiful and with its unusual nature coloring and grain, the wood when carefully selected and finished with a high polish maintains its nature coloring and grain. This wood as far as known is only found in America in the very northern part of California and southern part of Oregon near the coast on the low lands and very best fertile soil.

Each piece is a poem in wood. In the depths of its lustrous surface you may read of the dance of the Nymphs and the call of the wild things of the forest and mountain and the song of the ocean wave.

The mystery of the origin of these trees, the long years of growth, commencing even before the coming of Columbus spells Myrtle Wood. Fitting it as the wonders of the past, being preserved by the art of the Almighty for the pleasure of those who appreciate these beautiful gifts of nature.

Palestine is the only other place in the world where Myrtle wood grows. And as that country is some distance from here, and even southern Oregon or northern California is not as near as might be—we would tell you that a very fine assortment of gift pieces of this extremely beautiful wood can be found right here in Salem—at
