Dallas Loses Civic Builder In Death of James Carey Hayter

Dallas, Or., Dec. 18.—James Carey Hayter, who died Wednesday night, December 17, following injuries sustained a few hours previously when struck by an auto driven by Raymond Miller in Dallas, was born on the Hayter farm east of Dallas, September 25, 1870. He was a son of Thomas J. and Mary I. (Embrée) Hayter, prominent Polk county pioneers. He went to school at the La Croix academy in Dallas, graduating with the class of 1887. He then engaged in the mercantile business, working in Dallas, The Dalles and Portland. In 1892 he purchased a half interest in the Polk County Observer from G. C. Doughty, who had founded the paper four years previously. In 1899 Mr. Hayter bought out Mr. Doughty's interest and published it until 1911 when his health required him to retire from the newspaper business. As a newspaper man Mr. Hayter found his true calling and for 20 years he devoted to that work in Dallas marked him as one of the most enterprising and outstanding editors in Oregon. He was fearless, far sighted and courageous in his views, yet gifted with a personality that compelled respect even from his opponents. Many other editors have come and gone, yet the people of Polk county will always link the Observer and Carey Hayter as one and inseparable. He served as president of the Oregon Press association for a time. In civic life he served as councilman of Dallas and was mayor of the city from 1902 to 1904, a period when, largely through his efforts the city water and sewage system were installed. He was one of the first and strongest advocates of the extension of the public school system in Dallas to include a high school course, and worked to secure and build up the local library. At the time of his death he was a trustee of the La Croix academic institute, which still owns the campus of the old school, now used as an athletic field for the Dallas schools and public. Mr. Hayter was a member of the Royal Arch and Scottish Rite Masons and of Aleazar Temple of the Shrine. He was a member of the Salem Elks lodge and of Marston lodge, Knight of Pythias, of Dallas. Mr. Hayter had lived with his mother at the family home in Dallas until her death last August. Since that time he had been living in apartments. He is survived by three brothers, Dr. Mark Hayter, Eugene Hayter and Oscar Hayter, all of Dallas. Funeral services were held today at 2 p. m. at the Methodist church with Rev. H. Charles Duns, more officiating. Masonic services were held in connection with the ceremony. The body will be taken to Portland for cremation Saturday.

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGED TO BOY WHO HIT HAYTER

Dallas, Or., Dec. 18.—A charge of involuntary manslaughter was filed against Raymond Miller, 17, by District Attorney J. N. Halgeron, following the holding of an inquest Thursday afternoon over the body of J. C. Hayter, who died from injuries received when hit by Miller's auto Wednesday night. The inquest, conducted by Coroner A. L. Keeney, found "That the said J. C. Hayter, on the 17th day of December, 1925, in Dallas, Polk county, Oregon, came to his death by being struck by an automobile driven by one Raymond Miller and that the cause of said death of J. C. Hayter was the careless negligence, and reckless operation of said automobile by the said Raymond Miller." Witness of the accident placed the speed of the car making the turn at from 20 to 30 miles an hour. Three eye witnesses were examined. They were Mayor Staufin, Gladys Skinner and A. J. Farrington. The car Miller was driving belonged to Wm. H. Broyles of Dallas who claims the boy took it without his permission. Miller is in the county jail awaiting a preliminary hearing.

New York, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Babe Ruth, admitting to 225 pounds, plans to fight, slap and run his way into his old prominence on the nation's baseball diamond. Babe crunched his way in to a New York gymnasium yesterday, took off his coat and announced that the baseball season was on. Then he tossed a medicine ball a couple of hundred times, puffed through two three minute rounds of boxing and defeated an opponent at handball. Then a blow fell upon Ruth, for there came an announcement from the New York Yankee's offices that the warm baths and green golf links of Hot Springs were not for the Babe this season unless he wanted to pay his way. For several years Ruth has grappled with influenza and other foes in the Arkansas resort. The former home run champion says that he will work indoors until the Yankee host sets forth for Florida and that he will be in condition for the campaign, hoping for health and homers.

BEARCAT BABES LOSE TO INDIANS

Chenawa, Or., Dec. 18.—The Chenawa Indians won over the Willamette freshmen on the Indian floor last night by a score of 28 to 6. The Willamette five accounted for four of their six points by free throws, only caging one field goal. The score does not indicate the strength of the babes, however, as both teams were forced to extend themselves at all times. Several substitutions were made by both coaches in an effort to try out the different men. Poor passing and failure to break cost the Willamette five several points. The freshmen scored four free throws out of a possible ten, while the Redskins converted four out of eight. Dewey Matt, forward for the Indians, was again a shining star although Coach Downie depends mostly on team work rather than individual playing. In the first game of the season Matt scored 23 points and was again high point man last night with 10 points to his credit. DePoe and Charlie George followed closely on his heels. A. Collingsworth, captain of the freshmen five, was the star for the losers, although White, substitute for McCully, played a good game. Numerous fouls were made on both sides. Rasmussen, guard for the Indians, was taken out of the game with four personals. The next game for the Indians will be with the Franklin quintet on the Chenawa floor, December 26.
