Christmas Joy Rules In Salem Homes

Of all the days in the year Christmas day, throughout the centuries, has been synonymous with happiness, joy and unselfishness. It is a time when troubles and cares are pushed in the background, when families are reunited, and when the thought of bringing happiness into the lives of others is paramount.

Delightful secrets that have been whispered about for weeks will be exposed tonight. Many families have their "Christmas" on Christmas eve when brothers and sisters, cousins and uncles and aunts and grandmothers, and of course, mothers and fathers and granddads, get together to open their gifts. Others wait until Christmas morning to open the stacks of mysterious looking parcels underneath the Christmas tree. But the mere matter of time is immaterial during the Yuletide season—the degree of happiness and pleasure which the day brings to each one depends, after all, upon the individual himself.

Family reunions and family dinners will be the rule in Salem homes tomorrow. Errant sons and daughters are returning by the dozens today and others who come from greater distances will arrive Christmas morning.

Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Bishop will be hosts at a family Christmas dinner in their home tomorrow. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bishop and their son, Clarence Morton Jr., will come down from Portland for the day. Chauncey Bishop will arrive from Pendleton tonight and his two sons, Robert and Charles Kay, will also be guests of their grandparents tomorrow.

Colonel and Mrs. E. Hofer will be dinner hosts on Christmas day to Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Hofer of San Francisco, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Hofer and their children, and Mr. and Mrs. Allan Bynon and Allan Jr., of Portland.

Mrs. J. Shelley Saurman will have as her holiday house guest her mother, Mrs. Anna Roach of Portland. Additional dinner guests of Dr. and Mrs. Saurman tomorrow will be Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Holman of Portland and Miss Edith Burkhalter.

Dinner guests of Mrs. Ida M. Babcock tomorrow will be Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Maulding of Portland, Mrs. Rose Babcock, Miss Amelia and Miss Bertha Babcock, Mrs. James Woodruff, Mrs. Mary Hane, Oliver Jesup of Portland and Miss Grace Babcock.

Members of the choir of the First Christian church sang Christmas carols to shut ins and at hospitals for several hours last night. Later they enjoyed a social hour and hot lunch in the church parlors.

A farewell reception for Rev. J. J. Evans who resigned the pastorate of the First Christian church several weeks ago, and his sister, Miss Evans was held in the church on Monday evening. A great many members of the church attended and outward expressions were made of the deep regret felt at the loss to the church and Salem of both Mr. Evans and Miss Evans. Mr. Evans will give his farewell sermon at the church on Sunday and will leave Monday for southern California to take up new church work. Miss Evans left yesterday for San Francisco where she will be the guest for a short time of her sister, Miss Tib Evans.

Mrs. R. H. Baldock entertained eight members of her bridge club at luncheon and cards in her home on Tuesday afternoon. Two small daughters of Mrs. Baldock distributed gifts during the afternoon and a Santa Claus and Christmas tree furnished much amusement.

The next meeting of the club will be held in two weeks at the home of Mrs. McKnight.

Mrs. and Mrs. H. H. Vandervort will be hosts at one of the largest and most elaborate Christmas dinners of the year when they will entertain thirty guests in their home. A large basket of holly and Oregon grape and red candles in crystal holders, will center a large round table in the dining room with covers placed for Mr. and Mrs. Walter Winstow and their three daughters, Gertrude, Norma and Genevieve; Miss Ella Deyou, Mr. and Mrs. U. J. Lehman and Russell and Robert Lehman; Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Whitney, and Ruth and Lloyd Whitney; Mrs. E. A. Moorhead, George Moorhead and Lois and Cecil Moorhead; Mr. and Mrs. Dan Moorhead and small son, Danny; Miss Mary Smith and Miss Florence Hawes of Portland; Mr. and Mrs. Archie Caspell, and John and Louise Caspell, of Stayton; Mrs. E. M. Vandervort, Mrs. Grace Lehman, William Lehman, Miss Jennie Vandervort, and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Vandervort.

An immense Christmas tree in the living room and other decorations appropriate to the Yuletide season will furnish a festive background.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Emmons on north Commercial street will be the scene of a simple home wedding at noon tomorrow, Christmas day, when Miss Olive Lindle will be married to Mr. and Mrs. Emmons' son, Dr. Carl W. Emmons. Dr. Norman Kendall Tully, of the First Presbyterian church, will perform the ceremony.

Miss Anne Lindle of Portland will be her sister's only attendant. Ralph Emmons will serve as best man for his brother. Miss Lucille Rose will play the wedding march and Mrs. Merle Rosecrans will sing.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Pettit was the scene of a merry Christmas party Tuesday evening when the members of the young mothers club entertained their husbands and children. The rooms were beautiful with Christmas decorations including a tree, which was surrounded with gifts for all, which were given out by Santa Claus.

The quilt which the club members made was exhibited and it with other gifts was wrapped to be sent to the children's home at Corvallis for Christmas.

Several selections were played by the club orchestra. At a late hour lunch was served to the following: Mr. and Mrs. Leo Barber, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Huddleston, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. McLeod, Mr. and Mrs. K. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Kilinger, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Bacon, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Pettit, Shirley and Leland McLeod, Romona Huddleston, Glen Smith, Juanita Kilinger, Norman Bacon, Roena McDonald and Billy Ray Pettit.

Mr. and Mrs. Chris A. C. Hansen (Fred Hoover) will arrive Christmas morning to spend the holidays with Mrs. Hansen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Hoover.

Mrs. Lenta Westacott will entertain members of the Gideon Stolz and Walter T. Stolz families at Christmas dinner in her home on Court street.

Mrs. R. H. Baldock entertained eight members of her bridge club at luncheon and cards in her home on Tuesday afternoon. Two small daughters of Mrs. Baldock distributed gifts during the afternoon and a Santa Claus and Christmas tree furnished much amusement.

The next meeting of the club will be held in two weeks at the home of Mrs. McKnight.

Mrs. James E. Godfrey and Miss Emma Godfrey were hostesses in their home on north Liberty street last night at an attractive thirty cover Christmas dinner. Tiny Christmas trees centered the dining table and red tapers and mistletoe and holly added an additional Yuletide touch.

Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. Milton Meyers, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Denton, Mrs. M. Steiner, Miss Hattie Reader and Miss Velma Gillen.

A Christmas tree was lighted during the evening and gifts distributed to all of the guests.

House guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Glover on Christmas day and Saturday will be Mrs. Glover's sister, Mrs. C. R. Thompson of Portland, and Nancy and Richard Thompson.
