SEWER REPAIRS TO BE FINISHED EARLY IN WEEK

Final preparations for actual laying of the pipe extending out into the water of the Willamette river from the present opening of the city sewer under the Marion-Polk county bridge, were completed today. Several lengths of heavy concrete pipe were laid, and gavel for mixing concrete to connect the pipes run down the bank in a trench prepared especially for the purpose.

All indications were that the sewer would be completed next week, giving the city's crew an opportunity to go ahead and repair the other lines near the north end of Salem.

The state sewer, a few hundred feet north of the city sewer, under the Marion-Polk county bridge was finished this week. The former job, which brought the sewage across the gravel on the river bank and deposited it neatly on the water exactly at the shore line, was completely torn out. A ditch was dug, the pipe laid lower down and more line added to it, so that now the sewage enters the water below the surface, abolishing the foul odor that the sewer has given off for more than a month. The whole new pipe line has been covered over with a heavy coat of concrete.

The addition to the city line, when completed, will amount to about 30 feet in length, and extend diagonally out from shore. It will be covered with huge pieces of concrete, part of an old bridge foundation having been broken up for that purpose, and the concrete joined together with new concrete. It is believed that even during the highest and swiftest water the new pipe will not be washed away.

Meanwhile the level of the Willamette river has risen a foot and a half due to the rains early in the week. If the river should rise another foot and a half the opening of the sewer in its present condition would be under water.

When completed the sewer will not give off the stench that has been a nuisance to nearby residents, it is believed. The repairs are purely temporary, however, so far as a permanent and lasting solution to the sewage problem for a growing city is concerned. The question of sewage disposal here and at other points along the Willamette river will be taken up at a meeting called by Frederick Stricker, secretary of the state board of health, for the chamber of commerce at 10 a. m. September 10.

MARKET SITE SELECTION IS

Idea as a location was suggested because free rental on the proposed space would be secured. But free rental is not necessarily to be desired, members of the committee pointed out. If other considerations over-balance that advantage, and the advisability of curtailing the meagre park facilities possessed by the city must be seriously considered. Since last night several complaints against defacing the appearance of Marion square as a park have been under way.

Townsend said today that the availability of other privately owned sites in the downtown district, more centrally located than the Marion square site, have not been thoroughly investigated as to rentals and lease terms that could be secured, but that this would be done immediately with a view to having further information ready for consideration of the committee when it meets again next Wednesday evening.

Some members of the committee, including Townsend, favor a more central location even if a nominal rental would be required, if it can be secured. A reasonable rental, they point out, would be a legitimate expense to be charged to operation of the market, and increased business accruing to those using the market through a better location would justify the item of rental expense.

While neither the committee nor the city council has given official consideration to the proposed suggestion that a public market, which now looms as a probable result of the present committee's work, and the operation of such a market should be vested in the hands of a public market commission, and it is considered certain that if the existing committee is able to work out a satisfactory plan the council will be asked to empower that committee to establish the market in conformity with their plans and constitute it as an operating commission.

BRIDGE ON MT. HOOD LOOP OPENED AGAIN

The bridge across White river on the Mt. Hood loop highway, washed out by freshet waters during the rains of the first part of the month, will be repaired by tonight and the loop road will be completely open to traffic Sunday. It was announced this afternoon by Roy Klein, secretary of the state highway commission.

Klein said that the water in White river had subsided sufficiently to allow the repair crews to get to work today, and that they would have the bridge in passable condition by night.

ELIZABETH RYAN WINS SEMI-FINALS

Browne, to gain the final round of the women's national tennis championship, 6-1, 6-3, qualifying to oppose Molla B. Mallory. Mrs. Mallory qualified for the finals by defeating Miss Martha Bayard of Short Hills, N. J., 6-2, 6-3.

BARKHURST FREED ON FRAUD CHARGES

Portland, Aug. 21.—(AP)—On motion of Deputy U. S. District Attorney Joseph Helgeson proceedings for the removal from Portland to Tacoma of Ray Barkhurst, Portland business man, on charges of fraud in connection with the Ruby Beach Mining company, were dismissed. Government attorneys were unable to show any fraud on the part of Barkhurst in relation to the mining company enterprise.

The removal proceedings arose out of indictment in Tacoma of 21 persons on charges of using the mails to defraud. United States Commissioner Frazer, who dismissed the proceedings ordered release of $1000 bail put up by Barkhurst.

HOOVER SEES BRIGHT OUTLOOK FOR LUMBER

Seattle, Wn., Aug. 21.—(AP)—Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce, arrived in Seattle today and proceeded to Tacoma, Wn., on a private car furnished by Ralph Burt, president of the Great Northern railway, to address a noon lunch.

Hoover predicted a strong lumber market for the next six months. "The really important question is how long will the present large demand for lumber continue," he added. "We are now doing more building than ever before in our national history. This year's building program is larger than that of last year, which set a high record. Of the next six months we are certain, for the contracts have already been let. This business is assured, but that is about as far ahead as anyone can see."

Hoover praised North Pacific coast lumbermen for cooperation with his department in lumber standardization and wood waste utilization.

After speaking in the stadium Hoover leaves for Portland, to spend 10 days or more in the Willamette valley, his old home country.

4 TAXI DRIVERS BEATEN IN PORTLAND

Portland, Ore., Aug. 21.—(AP)—Four taxicab drivers were attacked early today in different parts of the city and police suspected the assailants were sympathizers with striking taxicab drivers.

Two men, identified by Harold Church, one of the victims, as his assailants, were arrested. They gave their names as William Myers and Fren Hansen. Assailants of other drivers escaped.

AUTOISTS WANT STATE CONTROL OF ALL ROADS

Eugene, Aug. 21.—(AP)—That the state highway commission should take over all state roads, both for construction and maintenance, and cease to require county cooperation, is the consensus of opinion of representatives of state and Portland automobile associations, brought out at a meeting yesterday at the Portland Chamber of Commerce when Judge C. P. Barnard of Lane county, met with representatives of the automobile groups to talk over proposed road legislation, according to word brought back here today by Judge Barnard.

Judge Barnard's proposal that one-half instead of one-quarter of the state receipts from automobile license should be turned over to the counties was one of the principal topics taken up, and the Lane county official explained his view of the value of this plan.

The automotive group, he said, holds the opinion that the state should not be hindered in any way at the present time in completion of its program of road building, and the fear is expressed that if there is any proposal to change the state motor laws, there will be a deluge of bills in the legislature that might not all be advantageous to the state.

The opinion voiced at the meeting was that there should be no reduction in motor vehicle license rates until there has been a substantial reduction in the bonded indebtedness of the state and counties for road work.

MEEKER HERE IN INTEREST OF

permanently mark the line of the Oregon Trail as far as possible; to erect suitable monument or memorials at or nearby sites of historical events, trading posts and important landmarks along the trail; to restore the Whitman mission to its state at the time of the massacre November 27, 1847, and to promote the establishment of a park or other suitable memorial to Marcus and Narcissa Whitman and other victims of the historical tragedy; to encourage moving pictures recording the emigration over the Oregon trail and to collect and preserve written accounts of objects and things pertaining to the history of the winning of the northwest and to deposit these with historical societies, preferably in states where found or in museums and to erect a suitable memorial to the pioneers in Washington, D. C.

Mr. Meeker and Maue left New York July 15, traveling as far as Boise in a special car on an one-ton Ford chassis. When the Idaho city was reached a trade was effected whereby the party obtained a complete equipment including hot and cold water and a radio. This was wrecked on the Columbia highway on Friday the 14th of this month and abandoned. The remainder of the trip is being made in a Packard club coupe. Mr. Meeker celebrated his 56th birthday on December 29, 1925, and is the only surviving adult who emigrated to the Oregon country in 1852, crossing by wagon train. Since that time he has crossed the United States by train, airplane and automobile.
