JEFFERSON CLASS PLAY BIG SUCCESS

Jefferson, May 21.—The senior class play, "A Poor Married Man," which was given at the Masonic hall May 19, was a decided success. About $80 was taken in at the door.

Lloyd Marlett as John B. Wise, the poor married man, acted his part exceedingly well. Genevieve Wied, the overbearing mother-in-law, Mrs. Iona Ford, who has taken a leading part in other plays and performances, also showed great ability in this play. Elizabeth Kothoff, who took the part of Zoie the ruled daughter, with the aid of her mother, Mrs. Ford, eventually succeeded in getting rid of her first husband, John B. Wise, to capture the willing Billy Blake.

The part of Billy Blake was taken by Darrell Farlow, who proved an ideal college boy. Martha Gilbert as June, the daughter of Dr. Matthew Graham, and the second wife of John B. Wise, the now contented husband, Rudolph Lisa, as the country doctor Mathem Graham, looked and acted his part very well. Melvin Clodfelter, the negro servant, Jupiter Jackson, won much applause by his clever acting. Also his dog which took the part of Socrates, was a scream.

Much praise is being given the actors, directors and managers of this play. Professor F. A. Gallagher and Mrs. J. O. Van Winkle were the directors and Frances Goin the manager.
