GIRL ACCUSES FOR IMMORALITY

Developed into even more serious and unnatural relations upon several occasions, for which, she avers, Steinbock at times gave her small sums of money.

Early in the summer, she declares, Steinbock induced her to as a "promiscuous" man to bring other girls and women to his place of business, soliciting her particularly to bring the 17-year-old girl whom he is now accused of seducing. Steinbock, the younger girl says, had seen her with the older girl on the streets and expressed an insistent desire to meet her. She then told of taking the older girl to Steinbock's store where, she asserts, he made improper advances to her friend.

About August 15, the girls both allege, they again went to Steinbock's store where the older one desired to purchase some clothes for her picking. The younger girl alleges that on this occasion Steinbock gave her $1.50 to leave her and the other girl alone and that she left the store. The older one declares that he took her into a rear room of the store and seduced her.

Other details of the relations of the 17-year-old girl with Steinbock, including her declaration that she took two girls, whose names she did not know and who were living in a West Salem camp ground while evangelical tent meetings were being held there, to Steinbock are being investigated further by the authorities.

Following his arraignment this morning Steinbock was released under bonds of $500.

AIR FULL OF FLIERS RACING TO SPOKANE

populated plains and bad lands of the Dakotas and Montana today, nearing their goal in eastern Washington.

Class C planes which will attempt to fly across the continent without a stop started from Roosevelt Field, N. Y.

In another race from San Francisco to Spokane, six Class B craft and five Class A were speeding northward toward the common goal.

Of the Class B, six were keeping close to schedule. They reached Cleveland, Ohio, for the scheduled overnight stop, while their rivals were forced to wait at Fargo, St. Paul and other cities. Six Class B left Fargo early this morning, on the slim chance of catching their rivals who were a full state ahead of them in the trans-country flight.

NON-STOP RACES

Roosevelt Field, New York, Sept. 21.—(AP)—The non-stop flight from New York to Spokane feature event of the national air races and Spokane air derby started this afternoon at 3:01 p. m.

At 3:01 p. m. Eddie Stinson's orange colored monoplane rolled down the famous "run-and-Atlantic runway" of this flying field, raised gracefully into the air, headed west for Spokane where Stinson expects to eat his dinner tomorrow.

Promptly at 3 p. m. the starter's flag dropped beside Stinson's monoplane and its machine roared away. It lost momentum as it left the incline but gathered speed as it whirled along and after a dash of 3000 feet went into the air and was away.

As Stinson's plane faded from view, E. A. (Duke) Schiller's Stinson monoplane, "Royal Windsor," was taxied to the starting position, its motor roaring and its pilot eager speed forward and was off at 3:13. As the flag dropped Schiller for the starting flag.

BALLOUGH LEADS

Miles City, Montana, Sept. 21.—(AP)—E. E. Ballough, of Chicago led the Class A planes into Miles City this morning in the air derby between New York City and Spokane. He arrived at six Class A planes had stopped here on the next to the last lap of their New York to Spokane flight.

Their arrival and departure times follow: No. 4, C. W. Hohman, St. Paul, 10:51:30 and 11. No. 11, N. B. Mamer, Spokane, 10:52:20 and 10:59. No. 12, James S. Rae, Philadelphia, 11:23 and 11:45:50. No. 7, E. H. Lee Chicago, 11:45:45 and 11:47:45. No. 2, E. K. Campbell, Wausau, Wis., 11:17 and 11:23:30. No. 8, John P. Wood, Wausau, Wis., 11:17 and 11:23:30.

Tex Rankin of Portland, Ore., in fourth place when the planes left Aberdeen, landed at 9:30 a. m. at the Lennon's, S. D. airport with a defective motor. He expected to take off again late this afternoon.

CLASS B DERBY

Billings, Mont., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Led by Miller and Meyers, a flock of seven Class B planes landed here this morning from Cleveland on their way from New York to Spokane in the air races. Miller still led, with Meyers just half a minute behind.

The arrival and departure of the planes follows: Miller 10:21 and 10:26. Meyers, 10:22 and 10:28. Charles, 10:23 and 10:29. Bettmer, 10:27 and 10:43. Knapp, 10:38 and 10:50. Emery, 10:45 and 11:02. The planes took off after their five minutes rest on a 300 mile trip to Missoula, which they expected to reach within three hours.

Jack Ashcroft, Towanda, Pa., has been forced down by magnets trouble 50 miles west of Glendive it is reported here.

LANGDON LEADS

Swan Island, Portland, Ore., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Cecil Langdon, piloting an international biplane, was the first aviator to reach Portland in the Class B division of the Can Francisco to Spokane air race. He landed at 11:16:50 a. m.

Langdon forced ahead of Vernon Bookwalter, pilot of the Travel Air biplane, "City of Vancouver," by flying over fog at Medford. Bookwalter, who had been leading, went under the fog.

Langdon led the field for Spokane at 11:22:40.

First of the Class A planes to arrive here was the Travel Air biplane piloted by R. C. Lippett. It landed at 11:23:25 a. m. and took off again for Spokane at 11:24.

AVIATION FIRE

Fort Hill, Okla., Sept. 21.—(AP)—One soldier was blinded and considerable property was damaged in a fire of undetermined origin which was discovered at the aviation camp here today.

RINEHART FORCED DOWN AT CAMAS

Portland, Ore., Sept. 21.—(AP)—James C. Rinehart, flying the Travel Air biplane "City of Roses" in the San Francisco-Spokane air race, telephoned to Rankin Field from Camas Valley, Ore., at 10:40 a. m. that he had been forced to land with a broken wheel.

He said he wanted his father, Dr. J. C. Rinehart, to call him. Rinehart was entered in the Class being flying close behind Vernon Bookwalter, who is leading.

STUDENT BODY PICKS MEMBERS FOR COUNCIL

Student body activities at Salem senior high school started with a bang this morning when Ed Nash, student body president, called a meeting of the entire school to make nominations for student council elections. Principal J. C. Nelson spoke on school spirit and cooperation.

The report was made that the enrollment at the senior high school at 9:53 last night.

Two members of last year's student council who are up for election this year are Marvin Hendrick and Floyd Altin. Five other seniors nominated with three places to be filled are Leo Cole, Tom Duffy, Homer Lyons, LaVada Carter and Rose Folger. The junior "hold-over" members up for reelection are Gerald Simpson and Maxine Myers. Only two names were submitted for the remaining two positions of junior representatives—Wesley Heise and George Becher, and they were declared elected. The places on the council go to sophomores and only two were nominated, Winfred Giese and Floyd Day. They also are automatically elected.

Announcement that he will offer a special optional class in debate was made by Ralph Bailey, new debate coach this year. Selection of debaters will be made from the class, said Bailey. An entire period will be given to the debate work.

Larry Brown, Clarion editor this year, announced that Clarion tryouts will be held tomorrow. The first issue will appear September 29.

The senior class meeting will be held tonight, the junior class meeting tomorrow, and sophomores will meet later.

'Y' TO PLACE BUDGET UPON PAYING BASIS

Correlating with the general movement among Salem business men is the latest action taken by the Y. M. C. A. and its board of directors who seek to discontinue anything that resembles a drive after 1927 by putting their budget on a paying basis through effective membership.

This year a membership campaign has been scheduled for two weeks in October. It is hoped that it will be the last.

Tuesday night, at a banquet attended by 26 members of the association, the first active step towards the new system was taken in their organization as a nucleus for a new fellowship in the Salem Y.

After a spirited discussion led by James Nicholson, chairman, it was decided that the group then assembled organize as a self-perpetuating membership club, having for its main purpose the promotion of a fellowship which will make association work self through its members and not by the countenourance of the drive which brings members who are of no benefit other than for financial support.

Membership pins were distributed to indicate that the wearer is one of the charterers of the movement to better conditions over the present status. The group will meet again within a month for consultation with directors and members of the employed staff.

BOOK CONCERN MAKES DISPLAY

Always an interesting section of Methodist annual conferences is that filled by the displays of the Methodist Book Concern, with its array of the late books and modern supplies for the pastor and his work.

This year the exhibit and sales to ministers and visitors are under the direction of J. J. Brauer, head of the Portland branch. With him is Dr. O. G. Markham, general agent from the central zone in Chicago, who has never been on the coast before. Dr. Markham reports that he is highly pleased with the work that has been done.

While in the northwest Dr. Markham will investigate the advisability of establishing the Portland branch as a depository rather than continue to handle all northwest accounts from the San Francisco office.

All plans made by the book concern revert to the fund for retired ministers, to which many thousands dollars are turned each year.

MILLS FUNERAL SERVICES HELD

Funeral services for John A. Mills, Salem realtor, and prominent Odd Fellow and Woodman, were held from the Webb chapel Tuesday afternoon with Dr. Avison, of the Rose City Park Methodist church of Portland, former Salem pastor and a lifelong friend, giving the funeral address, assisted by Rev. P. C. Taylor, pastor of the First Methodist church. Vocal solos were given by Mrs. Ray Simser, of Camas, Wn., a friend of the family. The chapel there were no other objections to be considered.

MA KENNEDY TO TELL STORY OF HER LIFE

The Great Northern's position is in connection with its line now building from Bend to a junction with the Southern Pacific at Cascade. The Oregon Trunk proposal concerns a branch line under construction from Deschutes to the Southern Pacific junction at Chemult in Klamath county.

Mother Kennedy will tell the story of her life. She made this promise today following two well-attended evening meetings with herself as the principal speaker at the Evangelistic tabernacle.

Mother Kennedy's life has been connected with evangelistic work for many years. She has been a Salvation army captain. More lately by her connection as executive manager of her daughter's meetings and the events at Angelus temple that evolved around Almee Temple McPherson have brought her into national prominence. The story of Mother Kennedy's life must necessarily include something of these events.

It seems only fair to grant the request of the thousands of Oregonians who have extended in such a whole-hearted welcome and shown such sympathetic interest which encourages and inspires me to continue in the work of the Lord," Mrs. Kennedy said today in announcing that she would tell her life story at her final meetings in Salem next Sunday at three and eight o'clock.

Her subject for tonight's services at the Evangelistic tabernacle will be "Prayers answered or unanswered." The tabernacle pastor, Mr. Hansen, said today that six evangelistic churches in Salem were attempting to arrange a union meeting Sunday at which Mrs. Kennedy would speak.

NEW SCHOOL BOUNDARIES BRING PROTEST

Difficulties which have followed the change in boundary lines for the nine grade schools of the city this year will be ironed out late this afternoon when the city superintendent, George W. Hug, will meet with the principals.

The opening of Washington school and the closing of Lincoln school to all but the first four grades and the opening of McKinley school to elementary grades instead of junior high, all changes made this fall, have thrown the old boundaries into the discard. New boundary lines located last week are being strenuously objected to by some residents of the various districts who say that in some cases the schools of the various districts are two, three, and even more blocks farther away than the schools in the adjacent territory.

The actual changing of the lines is necessitated by the unusually large enrollment at Washington school where only seven rooms are renovated and ready for use. Superintendent Hug is considering moving the southern boundary of Washington district from Bellevue street to Trade street. Most of the objections are coming from parents living between Church and Winter and south of State. The northern boundary may also be changed. The superintendent plans to relieve Washington district and divide the increase between Park, Garfield, and Grant schools.

Leutenant Matthews was a test flight pilot of the airplanes manufactured by the Boeing Airplane company here for the United States Army. He held that dangerous post for three years. He had a notable record as a flier and was considered a hero.

Leutenant Matthews is survived by a widow, two small children and his mother, Mrs. T. K. Matthews of Missoula, Mont.

DRIVE FOR $25,000 TO CLOSE THURSDAY

"Wanted at once—$25,000 or more!" This was the slogan adopted by the Salvation Army Building Fund workers today as the workers swung into the solicitation efforts to put the campaign over the top.

The campaign is scheduled to close tomorrow night and every worker was appealed to in a special bulletin yesterday evening to work enthusiastically and report back to campaign headquarters on schedule time.

Reports of those teams which have already started their canvassing have reported a splendid spirit of willingness to give on the part of those approached.

"With Salem citizens in the right attitude towards the project it now becomes purely a matter of contact to put the drive over the top for the new Salvation Army Home," said officials at campaign headquarters in the Elks Temple building this morning.
