

35 STUDENTS SEEK HONORS IN DEBATING

Thirty-five senior high school students who aspire to become members of the high school debate teams this year spend an hour a day in a voluntary class for which no credit is given, studying debate and public speaking under the tutelage of Ralph R. Bailey, debate coach this year. The new debate coach says the team will be chosen in try-outs the first week in November, from members of the special class.

The plan of a special class in debate and public speaking was evolved by Bailey as the first step in bringing back debate as a majority activity at Salem high. Experienced debating material is woefully lacking at the high school this year. Isabel Childs being the only debater of last year in school this year.

First debates will be held late in January. The subject chosen by the state high school debating league for the first sectional debates is "Resolved: That the state cabinet system of government should be adopted in Oregon." The state cabinet system is that proposed to the last legislature by Hector MacPherson of Corvallis.

Other strong debating teams which hSalem will be required to meet in the first division debates are teams from Silverton, Woodburn and Albany high schools. The winners in the division will debate for the state championship in Eugene late in spring.

Ralph Bailey, who is coach at Salem will be required to meet in public speaking to his credit beginning with his first experiences at Salem high when he was a student here. In 1921 he was a member of the Salem state championship high school debate team with Ralph Emmons, Robert Littler, and Ward Southworth. He was a member of the University of Oregon debate team for five years. Last year when he was a graduate student in law school at Oregon he debated against the Oxford University team and a team from Australia.

Kerosene Bread Fed By Pioneer Woman To Band of Bad Indians

Silverton, Oct. 21.—Mrs. Herman Schellberg of Salem, who was here visiting her cousin, Miss Inez Harold of the Silverton postoffice several days this week, is one of the youngest children of Charles Benson, who many years ago lived on a donation claim of 645 acres through the other side of Sublimity. Benson was very well known by all of the old settlers in and near Silverton.

Benson settled on this claim in 1848 and died there many years ago. On one occasion he had to have some medicine for his sick wife. He set out on foot early one morning on a "turkey trot" as he called it, stopped at a friend's near Molala, got some breakfast and started out again. He reached Oregon City, got his medicine, and arrived home at 11 o'clock that night. He had gone straight across country—no roads, no bridges, nothing but dense woods most of the way. It was stated by his daughter that shortly after the trip his wife died. He married again, his second wife being Mrs. Schellberg's mother.

All of their groceries and what little drygoods they used were purchased in Oregon City. Often they had from 40 to 80 friends at their home over Sunday, many of them arriving Saturday. Someone was cooking all day long, and they ate in relays, as space, dishes and chairs were scarce. On one Easter Sunday Mrs. Schellberg remembers distinctly, more than three large wash tubs of eggs were boiled for the family and guests.

Frequently "Uncle Charlie" started out with his hunting dogs and camped with them until a deer was secured, and thought nothing of the chase.

She remembers hearing her father tell of one instance in particular as they were crossing the plains. His wife, mounted on a large gray horse, had charge of some other horses and was riding behind the caravan when she was suddenly surrounded by Indians. The horses became frightened, and she jumped down. The Indians gathered closer and raised their tomahawks as if to split her head open. The frightened woman could do nothing but look from one Indian to another. Then the chief paltered on the shoulder and said:

"Br squaw." She was then lifted from one horse to another, each one patting her in turn. They then took her up to the caravan and told some of the men they wanted some meat, pointing to the cattle. Benson killed one head, and started to cook it, but the Indians were in too much of a hurry to wait and began to tear off the meat while it was still raw. Then they wanted bread. Mrs. Benson took a sack of flour that had had kerosene spilled on it, mixed it up with buttermilk and fried it in a large skillet. Mrs. Schellberg still has the skillet in her home in Salem.

The Indians ate greedily, and were soon terribly sick, presumably from the raw meat and kerosene bread. However, they went away peacefully. Next day as the immigrants were wending their way through the strange country, they came to a place where evidently a whole band of whites had been massacred, possibly by the same tribe of Indians they had encountered the day before. It was a gruesome scene. Benson lived to be 87 years old and was never sick in his life.

FASCISTS RESIST POWER BY POPE

Rome, Oct. 21 (AP)—An official Fascist party bulletin said today that "resumption of temporal power will not be entertained by fascist Italy."

The bulletin came at a time when well informed people were speculating on the possibility of an early settlement of the Pope's status on the basis that he might be given sole sovereignty over vatican property in Rome.

REALTORS WANT COLLEGE COURSE

Courses in the curriculum of the University of Oregon and the University of Washington offering training in real estate salesmanship and the organization of a property owners' division of the realty boards with a view of exercising vigilance against legislation adverse to property owners' interests are the objectives of the Pacific Northwest Realty association this year. T. W. Zimmerman, of Portland, secretary, told the Salem Realty board at a dinner Wednesday night. Zimmerman regarded automobile and radio salesmen as the greatest competitors of the realtor, holding that unless realtors become better informed about their own profession and do more advertising, people will spend the major portion of their finances for luxuries rather than for homes.

Centralized work of property appraisals, fees from which go into the treasury of the association, was commended by the speaker in touching upon the activities of the local association. Other speakers at the dinner were J. W. Wheeler, of Seattle, president of the northwest association; W. L. Graham, prominent Portland realtor, and L. E. Oberer, of Salem, president of the local board who also presided as toastmaster.

KING OF EGYPT VISITING IN PARIS

Paris, Oct. 21 (AP)—King Fuad of Egypt, who has been in Paris incognito for ten days, "officially" entered the city this morning after having spent the night at Versailles, just outside, in order to conform with proper diplomatic usage. The king left Paris last night, slept in Versailles and then came back this morning in style, being received at the Bois de Boulogne station by President Doumergue, the presidents of the senate and chamber, the president of the municipal council and other officials.

The king's departure from Paris last night was in a lone automobile while his return was in a special train gaily decorated with Egyptian and French flags.

STAGE IS STALLED BY LEAK IN GAS LINE

Woodburn, Oct. 21.—As the Woodburn-West Woodburn bus was returning from the 12:05 trip yesterday a break in the gas line occurred at Scollard station and the bus was stalled there for most of the afternoon while the driver, M. W. Mumbach, worked to repair the damage. After some skimming around enough parts were secured for temporary repairs and the regular schedule was continued about 4 o'clock. During the afternoon passengers and mail were carried with the assistance of Mrs. Mumbach in the Mumbach private car.

Mocking mirrors

Mocking shapes of silvered glass that tell the truth. . . . What a tragedy that some women fade so soon! Just a few short years ago, beauty and health were theirs to spare. Now—their mirrors mock them! Wan, thin cheeks, haggard smiles, betray the price of neglect!

It is terrible—the toll that constipation takes in health and happiness. It thieives beauty. It wrecks vitality. It is the cause of much suffering and disease. And all the while it could be so easily relieved! Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation—safely, permanently.

Why ALL-BRAN is superior to "part-bran" A large part of ALL-BRAN is "bulk." This bulk absorbs moisture and carries it throughout the intestines, gently distending them—purifying, eliminating poisonous wastes. In a part-bran product the quantity of bulk is often too small to do this work. That is why doctors recommend ALL-BRAN—because it is 100% bran—100% effective.

No more need for pills How different from habit-forming pills and drugs! Which become useless unless the dose is constantly increased. ALL-BRAN is delicious with milk or cream—and add fruits or honey. Let it soak for a few moments to bring out all its delicious flavor. Try it in soups. With other cereals.

But be sure to get genuine Kellogg's—the original ALL-BRAN. Sold by all grocers. Served at hotels, restaurants. On diners. Made by the Kellogg Company in Battle Creek, Mich. Write for free "Treatise on Constipation."
