Fleeing Thief Is Fired Upon By Gervaisite

Woodburn, Dec. 13.—J. H. Campbell of the Glicker Board Service station near Gervais, heard someone trying to steal his water can from the garage about 1 o'clock Monday morning and immediately started in pursuit of the thief who was headed south.

Campbell called to him to stop but getting no result from this, fired several shots in the direction of the fleeing party. The thief evidently knew that Campbell had a high powered car and would likely start after him, so thinking to outwit his pursuer he turned and started north, passing the service station again.

His car was recognized by Campbell however, who turned also and again called to the party to stop and punctuated his demand with more shots. The car was found a few minutes later by Campbell where the driver had tried to make the turn into Gervais and had landed in the ditch, with the water can in the car, and disappeared.

Upon looking up the license number on the car, Campbell discovered it was the property of Clyde Cutsforth of Gervais. He immediately went to Cutsforth's home and called him out of bed, saying that his car was found.

Cutsforth replied that his car was in the garage and had not been out for two days, but on investigation the lock of the building was found broken and the car gone, with the door of the garage carefully closed again.

It was later pulled out of the ditch and restored to the owner, who was very much pleased over the return of his property, but Campbell was somewhat disappointed in not being able to land his man.

"Honeymoon Lane" has just broken the thirty-three year record of The Knickerbocker Theatre.
"The role of 'Tim Murphy,' in point of the amount of singing and speaking I have to do, is the most exacting I have ever taken, and smoking, as I do, fifty cigarettes a day could never be indulged in but for the non-irritating, soothing, quality of 'Luckies.'
"In more than a year of continuous playing in 'Honeymoon Lane' I have not missed a single performance and I have never been so free from throat irritations as I have been since smoking Lucky Strikes."
