Mr. and Mrs. Pemble will occupy the Weaver home.

BEES SWARM OVER GERVAIS STREETS

Gervais, Aug. 21—Some excitement was caused Saturday afternoon when a large swarm of bees visited the main street of Gervais. The bees were very much undecided where to alight, first clinging to the front of one of the business houses then hunting more shelter, tried to settle in the old balcony on the pump house. Evidently thinking the ringing of the curfew would be a disturbing affair each night, they again swarmed to berry bushes near by. At dusk P. Roesser, unable to find owners of the bees, lived them, assisted by some local men.

MEETING AT PIONEER CHURCH ATTRACTS MANY

Marion, Aug. 21—Pleasant Grove church was the scene of a homecoming Sunday. The occasion of the gathering was the return to this country on a furlough, of Rev. Fred Neal, a missionary in the Camaroon country, Africa, who is a son of the Pleasant Grove church. Rev. Neal, on his return to his old home, was greeted by an audience that more than filled the church, some having to remain on the porch. Mr. Neal spoke in the morning and both Mr. and Mrs. Neal in the afternoon. They gave a very interesting account of their work. During the noon hours all enjoyed a picnic dinner and talked over old times. It was decided to have a home-coming in the old church every year. The Pleasant Grove church is one of the historic churches of Oregon. It was organized in 1837 and the building was erected in 1858. The original building still stands and is in good repair. It is said to be the oldest Presbyterian church in constant use, west of the Rock mountains. The lumber was hauled in ox carts from Oregon City, a distance of 50 miles. The material in the interior of the building was all hand placed, most of it by a Mr. Condit, one of whose sons, S. J. Condit, is the elder of the church at the present time. The pulpit Bible was presented to the Pleasant Grove church by the Salem church at the time of its organization and is 71 years old. It is still in almost perfect condition. The old church and its Bible were objects of special interest to many who saw them for the first time. This church is ministered to along with others, by Rev. J. Y. Stewart of Albany.

JONES FAMILY MEETS SUNDAY

Quincy, Ore., Aug. 21—Commemorating the 75th anniversary of the arrival of the S. W. R. Jones family in Oregon, the members of the Jones "clan" will meet at the home of M. L. Jones, Labish Meadows, two miles east of this place on Sunday, August 26, one day earlier than the actual anniversary but more convenient on account of being Sunday. The host, who is almost 90 years old, is the only survivor of the long trek by wagon train from Indiana, being at that time, August 1853, a very small boy when his parents and brothers and sisters who numbered 10, arrived in Oregon, although returns were not all in yet and the family increased to 12 later. The Jones "clan" has held three previous meetings, at the last one over 100 persons who were direct descendants, answering to roll call, coming from distant places in the south and east and one from Paris, Ruth Austin Allen, sending greetings. A dinner, speeches, and several surprises, will mark the day, and at this time prizes will be offered at a literary contest to be staged by the members among whom are many talented writers.
