

PUBLIX STAGE SHOWS ARE TO BE SEEN AGAIN

Public insistence is to be rewarded and the glorified Publix Stage shows will return to the Greater Portland Theater beginning Saturday, January 26.

Since these marvelous musical revues were taken out of the Portland theater several months ago there has been a continual stream of letters, telephone calls and personal inquiries asking when they would return.

Because of this, and because it is in line with the policy of the Publix theaters to give not only the most entertainment, but also the very best obtainable; Publix Units, the same that play in the new Paramount, the most magnificent theater in the entire world, will be seen at the Greater Portland and the surrounding communities an opportunity of witnessing exactly the same high class entertainment that the ultra-critical New Yorker sees week in and week out.

The Publix Stage shows are the very best, bringing to Portland the cream of the country's talent, new scenic resture, well-trained and experienced ballerines, marvelously intricate lighting effects, finest musical scores, and it is a well known fact, these Publix Revues cost from two to three thousand dollars more each week than any other stage entertainment ever to play in any other theater.

In conjunction with the new Publix Stage Shows, the Greater Portland will present a "quality plus quantity" program every week, including Paramount all-talking pictures, recorded to be the most perfect produced; Paramount talking and singing short subjects, featuring nationally known artists; production overtures with the Portland concert orchestra, directed by Harry Linden; organ specialties, with George Johnson at the Console; Paramount News Reel, embracing only the very latest news events of the day, and other specialties which will please and satisfy everyone who attends the Greater Portland Theater.

PLAY IS PRESENTED FOR WOMAN'S CLUB

Woodburn—The play "Piper's Play" which was given by the Woodburn Woman's club Friday night at the high school auditorium was very much enjoyed, and each character was exceedingly well sustained. Special numbers were a piano solo by Miss Wilma Morrison, readings by Miss Naomi Van-Cleave, two vocal numbers by Miss Shirley Bettrager, a dramatic mime also played her own accompaniments. The closing number was a Dutch clog in costume by Misses Juanita Hicks and Getta Mae Hunt under the direction of Mrs. Ray Wolf with Miss Rose Richards as pianist.

DINNER AT CHURCH

Independence—A "covered dish dinner" will be served in the social rooms of the M. E. church Monday night at 6:30 o'clock by the ladies of the church in honor of the visit of Dr. J. H. Temple, the district superintendent. A business meeting will follow the dinner and social hour.

HEALTH UNIT, COUNTY COURT, BOTH HAPPY

The last vestige of misunderstanding between the county court and the county health demonstration was dissolved when County Judge J. C. Seigmond, Frank E. Neer, representing the Salem school, Miss Purvine the city of Salem, T. M. Hicks the county health association, Dr. Vernon A. Douglas, county health officer, and Dr. Estella Warner, demonstration director, met at dinner at the Marion hotel to settle final administrative matters.

A plan, satisfactory to the county court, the city, and the school district, was evolved whereby Dr. Douglas, county health officer, will give part of his time to the care of the county's indigent sick. Dr. Douglas will keep the county court supplied with his schedule of toxin-anti-toxin and vaccination clinics throughout the county and the court will inform him of the sick cases in those districts. Dr. Douglas will visit these cases and where additional attention is necessary will report back to the court and to the county physician, Dr. W. Carlsson Smith, who will attend to further care necessary.

The new arrangement is the result of the court's agreement to meet the full budget allowance of $6050 for 1929 on the condition that it was to have some supervisory voice in the county health officer's work and the right to ask the county health officer, since the court is paying a part of his salary, to assist in the care of its indigent cases. Dr. H. H. Olinger, chairman of the Salem school board, and the two county commissioners, Jim Smith and John H. Porter, also attended the meeting Friday night. Discussion of the absorption of the health work in 1930 when the Commonwealth Fund withdraws its support occupied the group the greater part of the evening.

DINNER SERVED TO CAMP FIRE GROUP

Hubbard—Two more girls of the Campfire group, Adaht, performed part of the work required in order to obtain rank as firemakers. Miss Anita Stevens and Miss Agatha Voigt entertained the other members of the group at a dinner at the Garfield Voigt home Friday evening.

Members present were the Misses Helen Knight, Agatha Voigt, Frances Lettler, Anna Knight, Mary Pemble, Leah Reed, Marjory Wolf, Louise Voigt, Leah Kromling, Leona Hopkins, Bessie Rector, Marjorie Carlson, Jacqueline Dick, Mildred Ott, Wilma Dick, Alice Menzies, Anita Stevens, Olga Stevens, Gladys, Evelyn Scott, Miss Evelyn Blosser, present guardian of the group and Mrs. Ella Watson, former guardian, were also guests.

MEN IN CHARGE OF SERVICE AT INDEPENDENCE

Independence—The evening services at the Methodist church were under the direction of the men of the church, the pastor being in attendance at a sacred concert given at the Evangelical church in Moonmouth.

W. G. Grant acted as spokesman, while E. A. Niemeyer, was director of the music. Several selections were sung by the congregation followed by a talk on music and the reading of one of Edward Guest's poems, "The Song" by J. O. McIntosh.

Niemeyer sang a solo, "Nearer Home Today." Ed Kelly read the Twenty-first Psalm, which was followed by several numbers from the male quartet, Niemeyer, Smiley, Kelly and Grant. Kurze and Keller were called upon to take part in the services also.

Mrs. McIntosh acted as accompanist for the evening in the absence of the regular pianist who accompanied the pastor and his quartet to Moonmouth.

GEORGE W. SIMPSON RITES ARE MONDAY

Albany—Funeral services were held Monday afternoon in Albany for George W. Simpson, 61, a native of Linn county, who died in Seattle Friday. Mr. Simpson was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Simpson, early Linn county pioneers and was born near Sand Ridge. While living in Albany, Mr. Simpson was engaged in the express business. Burial was in the Riverside cemetery.
