

BRUSH COLLEGE GRANGERS HEAR SOLON SPEAKER

Owing to the fact that the state legislature is now in session, the many delegates in attendance upon the county organization representing the subordinate Granges of the county, and visiting Pomona members from other counties, were fortunate in hearing from members of the legislative committee of the state Grange, much of interest concerning the attitude of the lawmakers toward the various bills sponsored by the Granges and Farmers' union organizations, at Brush college.

A. R. Shumway of Umatilla county made the first talk upon the work of the legislative body of this session, and was followed by L. F. Bailey of Baker, both appearing at the lecture hour.

Harrison M. Mead, "the bee king of the Willamette valley," gave an illuminating talk upon the bee industry, stressing the importance of the planting of sweet clover and alfalfa for the improvement of the flavor of the honey, and the desirability of the "fireweed" for the same reason, warning beginners against carelessness in their methods on account of the danger of contracting and spreading four brood, the greatest pest of all bee diseases.

Mrs. Joe Rogers of Oak Point discussed the value of expert club leadership, and B. I. Ferguson, who has served as club advisor, gave an interesting talk along practical lines in the industry.

Master Billie Utley contributed a solo.

Thomas Klamath Falls editor discussed some of the problems of present day journalists, and their various methods.
