BUTTER FOLLOWS NO DEFINITE COURSE

Price List Is Held To Be Erratic

Portland, Ore. (UP)—The erratic tactics of the price list for butter on the dairy exchange here once again calls attention to the inability of the organized trade to follow any definite market course.

Advances and declines quickly follow one another on the exchange, and for no reason whatever except perhaps personal ones. The latest eruption on the exchange is a loss of the advance forced the previous day with extras off one cent and standards, together with prime firsts, down half cent pound. The erratic action of the exchange has left the trade here in a bewildered position.

Along with the changes in the price of butter comes once again a change in the butterfat market. The latter is down one cent a pound for the day, losing entirely the advance forced the previous day.

There was a cut of one cent for eggs on the dairy exchange but actual egg prices are still more or less scarce. In fact as high as 30 cents is reported being paid for current receipts by members of the exchange although that's the supposed trading price between dealers on extras. This price is not taken seriously.

Chicken market continues steady. Market for chickens was practically unchanged for the day. While in spots it looks like an easier feeling due to the lenten season there is no change noted in the general price list.

Softer tone is shown for turkeys. The local market, while not weak is not absorbing the supplies noted last week. As yet there is no noticeable change in the price list.

Prices continue to show more or less easiness in the local rhubarb market. There is little change at primary points but sellers here appear so anxious to do business they are selling at cost.

Further gain of strength is shown for California cauliflower. The higher prices in the south, are due to the colder weather which has curtailed the supply immediately available.

There is a slowly increasing supply of chinook salmon now arriving from the Columbia which are selling at 40 cents pound with head on.

Slight easiness is shown for country killed meats although there are no price changes as yet. Both veal and hogs are affected. Heavy veal and beef are in demand with few arrivals.

LIMEROCK AIDS POLK FARMERS

Dallas—H. Mather Smith of the Bank of Falls City, is responsible for another community shipment of limerock, a carload of which was unloaded at Falls City this week. This is the second time that people of that district have pooled their orders and brought in a car load of limerock through the efforts of Smith. This time the orders of 20 or more people were included in the pool.

Two years ago interest in limerock was aroused, stated Smith, through a tour of demonstration plots in conjunction with Paul Spillman who was county agent at that time and the first car load resulted. The success of the applications of the first car were shown so clearly during the past two crop seasons that Smith says that it was very easy to get enough orders for a car load and perhaps another will have to be ordered in the near future.

Quite a number of small land holders within Fall City secured a few hundred pounds for their gardens but the larger purchasers of a ton or more consist of the following: Dick Van Den Bosch, Nick Appel, Richard Paul, Mrs. Wm. Estell, A. H. Dodd, H. Mather Smith, John Hatch, J. H. Logan, Joe Heritage, W. E. Buell, C. E. Grove, Chas. Boydston, Harry Tee and Dave Grant.

CROP EXTENSION FOR DEVER MAY BE TRIED

Labish Center—Some people from the Dever community were here recently inquiring into the culture of garlic and onions. They are considering the introduction of these crops into their own district where, on account of the rich loam of which the soil is composed, a variety of crops can be successfully grown. Much of it is river bottom land. Peppermint is a crop which has been successfully introduced there in recent years.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago (UP)—Profit taking pressure by large traders caused wheat futures to weaken slightly here Thursday. Trading was quiet in corn and oats, with prices little changed.

At the close wheat was 1/8c to 1/4c lower, corn was unchanged to 1/8c higher, and oats were 1/4c lower to 1/4c higher. Provisions were unchanged to considerably higher.

Wheat declined fractionally during the morning after a rather firm opening. Trading was quiet most of the day and there was some evening up sales in preparation for tomorrow's holiday. Reports from the southwest did not indicate any great concern for the crop and there was nothing to inspire bull action throughout most of the trading. Cash wheat was half cent lower. Receipts were 43 cars.

Corn was dull and weakened under fair offerings early. Although country offerings were light, the return of seasonable weather is expected to increase arrivals over the holiday and with not active export demand, the market was left without reason for aggressive buying during most of the session. COLD SPELL DIDN'T HURT BERRIES HERE

That the recent cold weather did not damage the loganberry crop, regardless of the fact that this vicinity experienced one of the longest cold spells it has had for years, is the opinion of both County Fruit Inspector Van Trump and Ralph Allen, buyer for Hunt Brothers cannery.

Allen stated today that yesterday he was in over a dozen yards, including some large ones, such as William McGilchrist's 50-acre yard in Mission bottom and he examined large section of the various yards and failed to find a blackened cane.

"I made as careful a survey as I could in a number of different sections," said Allen, "and I am quite convinced that no damage whatever was done to the logans by the freeze and there is every indication of a good crop, unless something else intervenes to do some damage.

"It has been our opinion that no damage would be done at least no particular damage, due to the dormant condition of the canes caused by the weather conditions throughout the winter. The sap had continued down in the roats right up to the beginning of the cold snap and this saved the vines from what might have been an exceedingly heavy damage under other conditions."

The market on logans continues quiet and there is little to base any prophesy on as to what may happen before harvest season. At present there seems virtually no demand, but nevertheless it is likely the frozen loganberry pack will call for the use of some little tonnage as it has been demonstrated beyond a doubt that the frozen logan berry is the most edible manner in which the loganberry has yet been prepared for consumption. However, it will take some time to develop a market for this, regardless of the superior quality and attractiveness shown by the frozen pack.

Samples of logan berries in the cartons and the 15-pound frozen cans have been making friends for the pack among everyone who has trie dthem in a limited way in Salem.

Buying Now Upward On Wall Street

New York (AP)—Heavy buying of the steel shares turned the course of prices upward in Thursday's stock market after an early period of irregularity attributed to uncertainties in the credit situation.

SOUTHERN CROP FORECAST OUT

Forecast on California crops of interest in this section as made by the California agricultural extension service and reported in the California Fruit News follows:

Peaches: In view of the low prices of canning peaches during the past two years, together with the large increase in production which is in prospect in the future, it is evident that conditions are unfavorable for the planting of clingstone peaches at the present time. The outlook for the planting of drying peach varieties in encouraging.

Pears: The prospective increase in the production of pears is likely to be sufficient to cause a downward trend in prices during the coming years. A general curtailment of plantings of both Bartletts and late varieties in this state seems desirable.

Plums: The large increase in the production of plums which is in prospect in this state indicates the need for caution in additional plantings.

Prunes: An abnormally small world crop of prunes resulted in growers receiving noticeably higher prices for the 1928 crop than for the 1926 and 1927 crops. However, this improvement in prices is of a temporary nature, as the bearing acreage of prunes is increasing and production will probably be considerably greater during the next few years than the average of recent years.

Cherries: Unless the domestic market for maraschino and glace cherries can be greatly expanded it does not appear that large additional plantings of Royal Ann cherries are justified. Nor, in view of the large increase in production already in prospect, does it appear that the acreage of cherries for fresh shipment can be profitably expanded.

Apples: Although the rate of increase in apple production is likely to be lower than during the last ten years, the large number of trees now in commercial and small farm orchards indicates that heavy production and low prices will continue.

GOITRE

A new treatment of goitre has been developed by the W.T.B. Laboratories, 1245 Sanborn Bldg., Battle Creek, Mich., which many believe will prove to be the long-sought specific for this unsightly and dangerous disease. Many of the largest and most hideous goitres begin to recede almost in a day. They gradually get smaller, and in many cases are entirely gone in a few weeks. It is equally efficient in cases of toxic and so-called inside goitre. The treatment is harmless and anyone can use it with perfect safety at home.

A 48-page illustrated booklet on the Causes, Dangers and Non-Surgical Treatment of Goitre, issued by the Laboratories, fully explains the new treatment and will be mailed to any interested sufferer. adv.
