SCHOOL ACT NOW TABLED AT CAPITOL

the institutions of higher learning, said it would "get away from a condition that has become more or less intolerable and that interferes with legislation at every session."

Bell criticised the attitude of the press on the bill.

"To my mind," he said, "the press of the state is more or less subsidized by one or the other of the two larger institutions. I have in mind particularly the home papers." He said that one of his bills that was of little importance was commented on at great length by the Eugene papers, while little comment had been made on the consolidation bill which he deemed of great importance. "Also the members of the legislature," Bell added, "apparently in the fear that one or the other of the institutions will have an advantage, have lapsed into indifference."

"The bill gives promise of eliminating some of the competition and intense rivalry between the university and the college."

Bell said some legislators from his district have felt the dominance of the university. "I have never felt I was under its dominance," he said, "and I want to get away from that condition."

The bill as finally approved in a conference that included the presidents of the university and the college and representatives of the normal schools provided for a board of nine who would have control of all funds accruing to them. It would not disturb the executive administration of any institution. If it passes it will be effective July 1, this year.

The bill is neither approved or disapproved by Dr. Arnold Bennett Hall, president of the University of Oregon, it became known here Thursday afternoon. Upon hearing of details of the debate on this bill in the senate Thursday morning, Dr. Hall immediately sent a statement to press representatives in Salem, in which he urged that his stand be made clear.

"Together with Dr. Kerr of O. S. A. C., President Inlow of the Eastern Oregon Normal school, the governor and members of the senate I attended a meeting called to discuss the mater in question," says Dr. Hall. "I plainly stated at this meeting that I could not approve or disprove of any measure dealing with consolidation of regents or any other phase of highed education administration. This is a matter for the university regents to take up and pass on.

"At the present time I am interested only in the university's legislative program as approved by the board of regents. I wish to point out that the institution is facing a financial crisis.

"The university has had a tremendous increase in student load and campus enrollment since 1920, when we were alloted our share of the millage. The student load has increased 93 per cent, the enrollment 84 per cent, and millage income but 13 per cent. This has brought about a financial situation that I am sure can be clearly seen by all as one needing relief immediately.

"As I stated to the ways and means committee, I only request the legislature to consider our case on its merits, and to allot state funds where they are most needed. If in the long run the university and college can benefit from a merger of their governing bodies, I personally am not opposed to it.

Senator E. F. Bailey, alumnus of the university, opposed the bill, though admitting that rivalry between the institutions had become an abuse. Senator Kiddle, also an alumnus, indicated opposition but wanted time to study the bill.

Staples was for it, declaring "it is time to take these institutions out of politics." Each had its ticket, he said, "in the Multnomah county fall election." Hall and Elliott both opposed and Senator Moser made the motion that got it tabled.

Senators Dunne and J. O. Bailey withdrew bills introduced by them to give greater freedom to beneficiaries to appeal from decisions of the industrial accident commission. The reason for the withdrawals was that the accident commission had agreed to remedy the situation under the Corbett resolution calling for an investigation during the next two years and a report to the 1931 session.

The senate killed by indefinite postponement house bill 467, empowering the labor commissioner to collect wage claims, and house bill 413, extending the lien privilege on fish wheels, gear and boats.

The senate adopted the joint resolution by Dunne and J. O. Bailey providing for the appointment of a narcotic commission.

Other measures passed by the senate were:

S. B. 203, by Jones and Fisher—Providing open season of one month for shad fsthing in Yaquina bay.

S. B. 184, by Butt and Marks—Relating to the incorporation and organization of domestic insurance companies.

S. B. 229, by joint committee on insurance—Providing for fire insurance coverage on fallen buildings.

S. B. 94, by Fisher—Providing for the organization of tunnel districts.

H. B. 277, by Winslow—Relating to building and loan associations.

H. B. 270, by Robison—Fixing bounty of 50 cents on sea lions and $10 on seals.

H. B. 389, by Russell and Tompkins—Relating to transportation for students in high school districts.

H. B. 241, by Lonergan—Providing for a delinquent tax roll and authorizing the cancelation of delinquent personal property taxes in certain cases.

H. B. 388, by Bynon—Extending corporation commissioner's power of regulation over building and loan associations.

H. B. 371, by Hazlett—Placing restrictions on withdrawals from union high school districts.
