

MUSICAL HOUR AT ZENA CLUB IS NOVEL ONE

Zena—The program of the Zena Community club was an unusual one at the last meeting, being made up of two groups of musical numbers, the first being offered by a number from the Knight Memorial church of Salem, and the second by a quartette of male voices from Independence, members of this group offering bits of musical entertainment through the use of odd instruments and different ways of playing them.

Rev. H. G. Stover, tenor, assisted by Lawrence Deacon, baritone, and Miss Myra Gleason, sang. Donald Allison was pianist. Lawrence Deacon then sang and Miss Gleason followed with other numbers by the trio.

Rev. Stover addressed the club then, taking as his subject, "Community Spirit." He gave several interesting illustrations of ideas brought out in his talk, emphasizing the point that community spirit is not necessary for all persons to believe alike and that differences of opinion make for progress.

Rev. E. G. Ranton of Independence had charge of the second division of the program. Other members of this quartette of which he was a member were Rev. Willard, Mr. Kelley, and Mr. Anderson, all of Independence. Mr. Anderson accompanied at the piano. Following this Rev. Ranton played on an instrument made of a broom and cigar box. He also played on a harmonica placed in his mouth without the use of his hands in adjusting the position of it again during the playing of the piece.

A bass solo by Anderson followed and Rev. Ranton and Rev. Willard sang. This was one of the best numbers offered. Rev. Ranton then took his violin and demonstrated his ability to play the violin in any position, holding it behind his back, on the shoulder, upside down and between the knees. As a finishing touch he offered Ralph Scott, president of the club the bow of his violin, and in spite of Mr. Scott's protests that he could not play a violin, had him sawing across the strings making fine music at a great rate of speed, Ranton holding the violin.

In charge of the program were W. W. Henry, W. B. Hunt, and W. N. Crawford. Those in charge of the lunch served in the basement following the program were Mrs. L. F. Matthews, Mrs. W. W. Matthews, Mrs. W. W. Henry, and Mrs. Wayne D. Henry. Committees appointed for the next meeting consist of, for entertainment, Ralph C. Shepard, J. S. Hlatt, and Byron Purvine, and for lunch, Mrs. O. H. Taylor, Mrs. Albert Denham, and Mrs. Jesse Worthington. The business meeting preceding the program was presided over by Ralph Scott, president, with Mrs. W. N. Crawford, secretary, in her place. A good crowd was present.
