FAIRBANKS IN THE IRON MASK

In his new picture, "The Iron Mask," Billie's Capitol, Douglas Fairbanks in the role of D'Artagnan, speaks for the first time in a talking picture, but it marks the third time that he has appeared as the dashing and audacious guardsman in a screen production. This gay and daring fellow, D'Artagnan, has always been a favorite of Doug's, and it has been his life ambition to produce a complete cycle of the Musketeers' life. He has accomplished this with the presentation of his new picture.

It was twelve years ago, shortly after Fairbanks' entrance into pictures, that he first portrayed D'Artagnan in a story called "A Modern Musketeer." As a Tuxedo dandy, Fairbanks romped through the greater portion of the film, leaped from place to place, rescued the girl in distress and performed heroic feats. But in a screen production that is the climactic contest for the selection of a speaker to represent Division Eight at the Northwest District convention to be held here August 18, 19 and 20.

Much of the business of the afternoon sessions included committee and officers' conferences to discuss individual club and convention problems. The afternoon session, which was presided over by Lieutenant Governor Barrick, was to adjourn at 5 o'clock until 8:30 p. m., when a big banquet will be held at the Marion hotel.

Ralph Cooley, president of the Salem club, will be toastmaster at the banquet, while District Governor or Governor will be the speaker of the evening.

tural legislation should take. President Hoover soon after the special session was begun sent word to Capitol Hill that he was opposed to the export debenture plan, but the senate in passing the measure, inserted that provision. The house refused to accept it and its conference with the senate conference measure which contained such a provision.

Party lines were broken during the discussion of the bill. At one time the senate heard a debate between two prominent supporters of the question—Senator Borah of Idaho favoring the debenture, while Senator of Kansas, opposed it vigorously.

CORBETT TO REFUSE LEGISLATIVE FUNDS

State Senator Henry L. Corbett of Portland Tuesday informed Secretary of State Hoss by letter that even if the courts find that members of the legislature are entitled to $5 a day expense money in addition to the constitutional $3 a day, he will not accept the money. Senator Corbett mentions that he voted against the resolution providing for additional pay, both in 1927 and the 1929 session, and that he did not accept it following the 1927 session.

The additional pay resolution was not tested in court in 1927, but the resolution of the 1929 session was challenged in court by a representative of the State Grange and a decree is now pending in the circuit court.

PLAN CHANGES IN EMPLOYMENT OF INSTRUCTORS

Three recommendations which President Carl G. Doney of Willamette university submitted to the board of trustees in his annual report, and which he considers highly important in line with the development of the school, have been taken under advisement by that group. The first recommendation is that a committee on teacher tenure be appointed to work out a plan whereby instructors of proven worth may be elected for an indefinite term, thereby eliminating the necessity of bringing their names before the faculty committee each year for reelection.

A second recommendation was that an appropriation be made for Christian work and lectures. This fund could be used to bring prominent speakers here to address the students. Dr. Doney points out. The third recommendation was that each teacher who would go to school in the summer to take graduate work, be paid $400 toward the expense of such a course. This work would go a long way to vitalize the work of the instructors. Dr. Doney stated, and would give the teachers a broader contact with others.

There is a strong possibility that a second full time professor will be added to the law school. It is understood that C. M. Truman, who has practiced in Salem for a number of years, will give up his practice to take the professorship.

CONFERENCE OF KIWANIS CLUBS IS UNDERWAY

With District Governor T. Harry Gowman, Lieutenant Governor Barrick, and delegations present from Albany, Corvallis, Dallas, McMinnville, City, Salem and Tillamook, Oregon City, Beaverton, Tillamook, Eugene and Portland, the divisional conference of Kiwanis clubs got under way at the Salem chamber of commerce shortly after 1:15 Tuesday afternoon.

Seven entrants from Albany, Corvallis, Dallas, McMinnville, Oregon City, Salem and Tillamook, were to compete in the elimination contest for the selection of a speaker to represent Division Eight at the Northwest District convention to be held here August 18, 19 and 20.

Much of the business of the afternoon sessions included committee and officers' conferences to discuss individual club and convention problems. The afternoon session, which was presided over by Lieutenant Governor Barrick, was to adjourn at 5 o'clock until 8:30 p. m., when a big banquet will be held at the Marion hotel.

RUTH ELDER DUE IN PORTLAND TODAY

Portland, Ore. (AP)—Ruth Elder landed here Tuesday at 1:30 p. m. on a flight from Eugene, accompanied by E. E. Granger. She said she was to take off again for Seattle within an hour. In landing at Roseburg Monday afternoon one of the wheels on her plane was thrown out of alignment and she stopped in Eugene for repairs.

Eugene, Ore. (AP)—Ruth Elder, aviation enthusiast, left here at 12:30 p. m. Tuesday in her plane for Portland. She expected to reach Rankin field at 1:45 p. m.

Miss Elder landed here Monday afternoon for slight repairs to her plane which was damaged when she landed at Roseburg.

In bringing the ship down at Roseburg, the woman first passed over the regular field and in landing the wheels struck a rock, throwing the landing struts out of alignment.

PHILOMATH PLANS YEAR'S SUSPENSION

Corvallis, Ore. (AP)—The board of trustees of Philomath college, located at Philomath, Ore., near here, agreed at a meeting late Monday to temporarily suspend the school for a period of one year.

The decision for suspension was made because of the heavy expense per capita in operating the school. While the decision was said to be only temporary, it was believed that it would be permanent.

Philomath college is one of the oldest institutions of its kind in the northwest, and has graduated some prominent men.

Undergraduate students will be transferred to eastern United Brethren schools to complete their course and their education will be financed by college funds.

RICHARD DIX IN FIRST TALKIE AT ELSINORE

Richard Dix in his first 100 percent all talking comedy, "Nothing but the Truth," is announced as coming to the Elsinore theater, following the run of Eddie Dowling in "The Rainbow Man," which is now current at that theater.

This production is adapted from the famous stage comedy of the same name which Paramount has successfully reproduced for the talkies. The play deals with a young man who makes a wager of $10,000 that he can tell the truth for 24 hours. The farce situation arising from the bet is seemingly endless. In order to win the bet he finds himself telling his sweetheart that he was in love once before with a weight-lifting woman of the circus, telling his boss that he is an unscrupulous business man and a "night life bound," telling a beautiful singer at a house party that he thinks her singing is terrible and getting himself into all kinds of laugh-provoking jams.

Helen Kane, famous phonograph and radio artist, is cast as Dix's and the featured players opposite Dix, and puts over a few great vocal numbers, via the audible screen.

LILLIAN GISH SUED, $32,000

Los Angeles, (AP)—Superior Judge Schmidt Monday ordered to trial Tuesday the suit of Charles H. Duell, New York theatrical manager against Lillian Gish, screen star, for $32,000. The case has been postponed several times due to the illness of Duell's attorney, Francis J. Heney. The court ordered that another attorney be employed.

Duell's suit alleged that he advanced Miss Gish money for a European trip while he was her manager and that shortly thereafter she became ill and remained so for several days.

Miss Gish's attorney informed the court that his client had already spent $5000 in coming to Los Angeles from New York in preparation for the suit and that her interests would be greatly prejudiced unless the case was heard immediately.

PRISON TERM FOR DEFRAUDING

Portland, Ore. (AP)—Charged with impersonating a federal officer and defrauding citizens, John Davies today entered a plea of guilty in federal court and was sentenced to thirteen months at McNeil Island federal prison.

Davies, the court was informed, obtained several hundred dollars from relatives of Ex-Sheriff Frederick of Washlaka county, Washington, by promising that he would obtain the sheriff's release from McNeil Island. He was said to have told his victims that he had "influence" with federal officials. Sheriff Frederick was convicted of a liquor law violation.

Davies also admitted that he had obtained $150 from Bruce Ogden, student aviator, by promising him a job with the United States customs department. He told Ogden he was a federal officer.

ELEVATOR BOY BID PROVES DAMPER

The offer of Ben Robertson of Turner to act as elevator operator on the new elevator at the courthouse for $55 a month has discouraged any applicant at least, who are the members of the Rotary organization. The offer was made when the applications suddenly ceased coming in after a list of them had already been received.

The elevator still remains unfinished and members of the court are unable to say just when it will be completed, so no decision has been reached as to whom the operator will be.

However, it has been intimated that it will probably not be an old man.

SEEK $10,000 FOR AIRCRAFT CORPORATION

Fritz Slade of the First National bank and W. L. Phillips of the Valley Motor company, as a committee of business men soliciting $10,000 in stock subscription for the Eyerly Aircraft Corporation has been definitely located here. He has issued a statement from L. U. Eyerly showing that Eyerly has done with the school of aeronautics since opening here two years ago with an investment of $2000.

The statement shows land and buildings owned by Lee Eyerly at $2500 with the investment of C. J. Jensen in the corporation at $4000.

The Eyerly school of aeronautics has 41 students enrolled with tuition for the course of $425 covering an average six months course, with the number of students expected to be doubled when flying from the municipal airport.

Eyerly has assurance from the city airport committee that he will be in charge of the new municipal airport. From managing the airport there will be an income from passenger flights, photography, taxi service, patrol work, sale of gas, oil and accessories and from repair work and servicing of planes. During state fair week, Mr. Eyerly states, receipts for passenger flights were $1500 and that in the future this income will be increased.

Mr. Eyerly says he already has sold two airplanes and is now manufacturing the third and that there is an unlimited market for the planes he can manufacture.

Common stock sales are needed to erect buildings on land owned by Mr. Eyerly with the city airport and to purchase additional machinery and equipment for manufacture of planes. Common stock is stated to be preferred as to dividends up to $5 a share.

Financial affairs of the corporation will be under the supervision of W. L. Phillips of the Valley Motor company, Walter T. Molloy of the Cherry City Baking company and Larry R. Hofer of E. Hofer & Sons.

Eyerly already has $12,500 in equipment and $10,000 in cash and needs an additional $10,000 to be raised here by stock subscription.

OLD SOAK TO FIND SANCTUARY IN WHITE HOUSE

Washington, (AP)—Secretary of State Stimson and the Old Soak probably will stage their long awaited reunion this week in New York where the parakeet arrived Monday after a trip from Manila.

A degree collecting journey beginning Tuesday is expected to keep Stimson away from Washington until some time next week. On his rounds of the universities and colleges, Stimson will visit New York, perhaps today, and decide if and when the Old Soak is to become a resident of Washington.

Stimson still is living in a hotel here where many of the guests are permanent residences with families. Because of the Old Soak's reputed gifts of profanity it is doubted if it would be welcome there. The state department might house the bird. It has been suggested it be quarantined in the far eastern division where Assistant Secretary Johnson might assuage possibly homesickness by conversing with the bird in Chinese.

Mrs. Hoover is said to have offered the secretary's pet sanctuary in the White House.

Wherever the bird goes, it is likely to have a new name. Suggestions that "Old Soak" is not compatible with the drollery of the current administration have been brought to Stimson's attention with the result he has undertaken to consider suggestions for a more suitable title, such for instance, as "sodawater."
