City airport at 7:29:30 a. m. Tuesadd day in an effort to better the reputed gendurance flight record of 12 hours 22 minutes and one second recently established at Port Worth.

The plane, powered by a 220 horse-power Wright whirlwind motor, was expected to carry 200 gallons of gasoline on its takeoff, sufficient to carry it through the day. The first refueling attempt was to be made at nightfall.

With thirty-seven oil lines leading from the cabin of the craft to the rocker arms of the motor, and complete change in oil during the lifet that they would have no difficulty in surpassing the 172 hour 32 minute 1 second record held by Regimald Robbins and James Kelly of Fort Worth, Texas.

A mishap while Kelly was oiling the rocker arms of the motor was said to have been responsible for the termination of the record flight the rocker arms of the motor was said to have been responsible for the termination of the record flight for the Texans.

The flight is being backed by W. G. McAdoo, Jr.
