Job hunters had a slight lead over those in demand according to the weekly report of Sam Phillips, manager of the U. S. department bureau, with 276 men and 57 women seeking work and calls for 257 men and 55 women. As usual agricultural laborers headed the list with 173 registering, 166 in demand and 133 placed. Thirty-six of the 47 farm hands were placed and 37 of the 39 common laborers. There were only three wood laborers for the eight places while both casual workers found jobs. One of the four watchmen was placed while there were no calls for the five truck drivers or three cooks. All 44 women agricultural workers were placed with calls for 49. Two of the three housekeepers were placed as was one of the two women cooks and the one waitress.

Public Takes Detour Rather Than Plough Thru Dust and Holes

The traveling public, which the state highway engineer fears might be discommoded by being routed around the highway construction work under way on the Pacific highway between New Era and Canemah, voiced its own voluntary reply to the petitions of interested communities that the road be entirely closed to all except local traffic and to the objections of the engineer in an illuminating manner Friday.

In order that the reconstruction job, which has already dangled along for 18 months, may be reached to the earliest possible completion and all chances of failing to complete the paving before winter sets in abolished, representatives of the chambers of commerce and community clubs of Salem, Oregon City, Astoria, Hubbard, Mt. Angel, Silverton and Molalla requested the highway commission at its last meeting to divert all but local traffic west of the job and over the well-improved detour now carrying north bound traffic.

Upon the recommendation of Roy Klein, highway engineer, the petitions were refused. So far Klein has given no reason for his opposition to the closing other than that the contractor agreed to maintain one-way traffic through the job in accepting the contract, and that the traveling public might be discommoded.

Friday morning the contractor stationed a man at the north junction of the stretch under construction and the detour used by north-bound traffic with instructions to stop all southbound vehicles and advise the drivers of the condition of the road through the construction work and of the existence of the detour. This man advised each one that they could go through the job if they so desired, but that the road was rough and narrow in places and that they were liable to be held up for from five to 15 minutes if they happened to pass the paving machine when the gravel and cement trucks were unloading.

Without exception the driver of every through vehicle elected to take the detour, including passenger cars, stages and trucks. Drivers emerging from the south end of the detour described it as being in very good shape, amply wide and perfectly safe.

During the three and a half hours that traffic was voluntarily keeping out of the way of the construction crews the crews laid twice as much pavement as during any corresponding period since work was started.

In the afternoon this service to the motoring public was discontinued and cars again started to flow through the job. A representative of the Capital Journal went through the stretch under construction.

Where the traveled roadway was narrow, dusty, rough with churning holes from the constant passing of heavy material trucks and other vehicles, and in several places where it crosses new hills is soft.

Wednesday morning a heavy freight truck and trailer mired down in one of these soft stretches. The trailer had to be anchored with guy-lines to keep it from tipping over, unloosed and dragged to the side of the roadway was completely cleared again.

Thursday a passenger bus broke a drive shaft while passing over one of the narrow, rough sections and held up all traffic behind it until it could be pulled out of the way.

Friday afternoon a blanket of dust hung over the entire length of the construction job, and motorists (including innumerable tourists) choked and cursed and "stopped and started" and repeated the routine as they bumped and rocked their way through the work.

Meanwhile there was a steady flow of northbound traffic with scarcely any dust over the detour from New Era over the hill into Oregon city, which the highway department must maintain whether it be used as a detour in both directions or only one.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR NELLIE LINN

Silverton—Funeral services for Miss Nellie B. Linn, resident of Silverton for a number of years, who died Friday evening at a Salem hospital were held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock in Salem with interment in the Bethany cemetery. Death resulted from a compound fracture of her arm which Miss Linn sustained some time ago.

Surviving relatives include the following brothers and sisters: W. P. and L. R. Linn, both of Silverton; D. W. Linn, Hubbard; P. H. Linn, Hancock; Mrs. M. Wayne Linn, Iowa; Mrs. George Hurst, Glenwood, Minnesota; and Miss Hattie Linn, Waterloo, Iowa.

Silverton—Funeral services for William Madden, 29, who was killed by a train near Troutdale last Monday, were held here Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock with Rev. M. Jensen of the Lutheran church officiating. Interment followed in the Silverton cemetery.

SEEK BAN ON LOUD SPEAKERS

Once more those musical and intellectual zealots who believe that the cultural welfare of Salem would be neglected without loud speakers stationed on some of the main business corners of the city are under official attack.

City Attorney Williams, after listening to the frantic appeal of certain distracted persons whose nerves had been torn asunder by the continuous roar of basses, the screech of sopranos and the monotonous harangue of announcers, has begun the drafting of an ordinance to stop the nuisance.

Radios, phonographs and all other kinds of instruments whose owners have had them operating on the business streets are to be under the ban if the bill becomes an ordinance.

Once before an attempt was made to stop the nuisance by ordinance, but somewhere the bill clanked, and never reached the city statute books, so right merrily the loud speakers have been banging, clanging, roaring, rumbling, screeching, whistling, sputtering and stuttering ever since.

OVENS READY FOR LEGION BARBECUE

Armed with "muck sticks," the "banjo brigade" of Capital Post No. 9 Friday evening put the finishing touches to the ovens for the big barbecue to be held here August 8 at the opening of the state convention of the American Legion and the dedication of the new municipal airport.

Volunteers responded nobly, perhaps because they thought they might get "seconds" when the chow call sounds for the barbecue, and completed their task though there were several unclaimed ovens. Nearly three feet of earth were tamped over the ovens. St. Bingham, sheriff of Grant county, will be chief chef for the barbecue and will see that the fires are kept at the proper temperature for five days previous to the barbecue and that the beef quarters are done to a turn. He will be assisted by another detail with the entire post of Carl B. Fenton, Dallas, serving as "K. P." for the event itself.

Rations are being mobilized and in addition to many beef quarters there will be similar quantities of bread and coffee.

FOREST FIRE RAGES AT CAMP NO. 14

Silverton—Nearly 175 woodsmen are fighting a fire in the Silver Falls Lumber Co. holding in the vicinity of Camp No. 14, southeast of Silverton.

The fire broke out about 4 o'clock Friday from a spark from a donkey engine and is believed confined to a canyon. Four men were trapped by the flames but were rescued.

Banks of Elk Lake to Be Camping Place for Youngsters of Salem

The irresistible appeal of clear sparkling water, trails through dense woods, with deep coverings of needles to cushion footfalls, and glowing faces around the nightly campfire, after a day filled to the brim with fun and instruction, has been answered by 35 boys and young men of this section. When shadows begin to lengthen across Elk lake on the evening of July 23 this group, with capable leaders, will find itself in an orderly camp on the shores of that Cascade mountain resort.

EXTENSION OF MARKET ROAD IS ABANDONED

By passage of a resolution the county court has definitely abandoned the 12th street market road project which would have connected the end of Twelfth street with the Pacific highway and if the project is revived another year it will be based on an entirely new survey which will take the road away from the properties on which damage claims are asked.

Two suits in court had arisen out of the claims for damages, one of these by J. H. McDonald, who asked $2000 when $816 had been awarded him, and another by David L. Maxwell, who asked for $1500 when damages of $469 had been awarded. County Judge Sigmund states that Maxwell had expressed himself as entirely satisfied with the damages awarded by the court until after McDonald had filed his suit. The judge quotes Maxwell as saying, when Maxwell finally came in and filed his suit that if McDonald got more money, he wanted more money out of it.

G. P. H. S. White had also put in a request for $750 in damages. The court considers all of these claims excessive and when suits were filed decided to abandon the project as it lay and if ever work goes ahead on it, it will be based on a new plan which had been advocated by the state highway department which will not only make a straighter alignment of the road, but will take the road away from those who are now seeking damages.

Whatever happens nothing further can be done on the project this year, the court states. By the resolution of the county court this will automatically serve to dispense with the damage actions now pending.

KOWITZ SEEKS TO PROHIBIT CIGARETS

With the names of women predominating by a very heavy majority the first anti-cigarette petition to be filed by Marion county signers have been presented to the county court for checking. Among the male signatories that of Chris J. Kowitz, city councilman, who some time ago surrounded the American Legion and captured a few bottles of beer from that hitherto inviolable outfit, appears in a prominent position on the petitions.

The petitions are being circulated here by E. P. Atchley, field representative of the Anti-Cigarette League of Oregon with headquarters at Eugene. He is expected to be here until next Wednesday and before that time expects to turn in another batch of names.

FATAL AUTO CRASH NEAR NEWBERG

McMinnville, Ore., (AP)—One man was killed and two others seriously injured in an automobile accident on the Capital highway near Newberg Saturday night.

L. L. Rogers, Carlton, died in the hospital here of a fractured skull and two broken legs. Harry White, McMinnville and J. McCabe, Newberg, were in the hospital seriously injured.

Walter G. Steinecker of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, manager of the chautauque in Salem this year, will be the soloist at the morning services at the First Methodist church Sunday.

FRANK MILLER WILL SUCCEED LOUIS E. BEAN

Frank J. Miller of Albany, formerly a member of the Oregon public service commission for eight years and connected with the department for a much longer period, was Friday appointed by Governor Patterson to serve again on that commission. He was named to succeed the late Louis E. Bean. At a meeting of the commission Friday afternoon Miller was elected chairman, also succeeding Bean in that capacity.

In appointing Miller, Governor Patterson complied with advice given him by republican political leaders of Portland, Albany and Eugene, and is believed also to have followed his own inclinations. Among those calling on the governor before the appointment was announced, were John L. Day and Floyd Cook of Portland and Senator Willard Marks of Albany. Miller also was with the governor during the afternoon. Friends of Miller declared, however, that Miller did not seek the appointment, but had been prevailed upon to accept it if it were offered him.

Miller became secretary of the state railroad commission, out of which grew the service commission, in 1933 and served in that office until 1910. In the latter year he was appointed a member of the commission to succeed Oswald West who had been elected governor. Miller served as commissioner until 1918 when he was defeated for the republican nomination by Fred A. Williams.

Miller did not retire entirely from public life. For the last several years he has served as a member of the board of normal school regents. This board, by an act of the 1929 legislature, was absorbed into the state board of higher education.

DR. M'AFEE HERE SUNDAY

Cleland B. McAfee, moderator of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church of the United States of America, who is touring the country in the interests of his church, will speak to two Salem audiences Sunday. At 11 o'clock Sunday morning he will preach from the pulpit of the First Presbyterian church. At 8 o'clock Sunday night he will appear on the platform in the chautauque tent located on Willamette university's athletic field. A male quartette of the chautauque will give a prelude of sacred music at the evening services.

Dr. McAfee is one of a family of five brothers, four of whom are listed in "Who's Who." The First Presbyterian church of Portland made a strenuous effort to change his itinerary so that he would be available for their congregation Sunday morning, but local churchmen prevailed upon him to come here. He will be entertained by Mrs. and Mrs. Paul Wallace at their country home while here. The Wallaces went to Portland Saturday to bring the distinguished visitor back with them.

The moderator will go from here to Albany, where he will attend the synod of the Presbyterian church which will be in session there next week.

Secretary of State Hal E. Hoos was today served with papers in the suit brought by R. C. Kealey of Portland, representing truck operators, to test the validity of an act of the 1929 legislature reducing the load limit for trucks and trailers on Oregon highways. His complaint, filed in the circuit court in Portland, contends that the legislature did not intend to limit the weight of four wheeled vehicles when it limited the weight of six-wheeled vehicles.

A case of small pox in the McMama district, reported early Saturday to the county health officer, was investigated Saturday afternoon and quarantined.
