Regardless of the fact that the county court has made an order vacating the proposed market road at the end of South Twelfth street to the Pacific highway, J. H. McDonald has gone ahead and perfected his appeal to the county court from the circuit in the matter of damages. It is understood that this is done to protect McDonald against the possibility of allowing time for appeal to lapse and then other property owners along the road starting mandamus proceedings against the court to compel construction of the road on the ground that the vacation order is invalid.

SNOOK TRIAL FOR MURDER OF CO-ED OPENS

Columbus, Ohio, (AP)—Professor James Howard Snook, formerly of Ohio State university, went to trial in common pleas court here Wednesday for the murder of 24 year old Theora Hix, medical student at the university.

Judge Henry Scarlett ascended to the bench and looked out over the courtroom filled with spectators who had been waiting since 9 a. m. when the doors opened. About 150 spectators were seated while probably fifty more were allowed standing room.

Fully two-thirds of the spectators were women, well dressed in airy summer dresses, appropriate to the muggy warm day. There was a surprising proportion of the audience composed of girls of college age.

Melvin T. Hix, father of Theora, said his wife, were in the court by 8:30 a. m. Hix wore a somber black suit, while shirt and stiff bow tie which contrasted sharply with his snow white hair. His wife wore a blue and pink flowered dress and blue hat.

Snook was brought immediately into court. He was dressed in gray, with red and white tie spread over the bosom of his white shirt. A light immediately over his head illuminated like a cupola his shiny bald head and glittered on his spectacles.

The business of selecting the jury began immediately.

LOGGING TRAIN PILES UP WHEN AIR BRAKES FAIL

Bend, Ore., (AP)—Investigation of the wrecking of a logging train on the Brooks-Scanlon line late Monday night, with the death of one man and destruction of the locomotive and thirty cars, was completed Tuesday night. The wreck occurred on a steep grade twenty miles south of Bend. Del G. Smith, 50, fireman on the locomotive, was killed.

Investigation brought out that the air brakes failed to hold, although they were tested and found secure before the train started on the trip.

M. R. Johnson, conductor; Kenneth Brown, engineer, and Marvin Prosser, brakeman, leaped from the runaway train as it shot down a grade at 40 miles an hour.

The train crashed from the track on a turn as it was traveling approximately 60 miles an hour. Smith was crushed to death under the boiler of the locomotive which turned end for end in the crash. Logs and cars were piled to a height of nearly fifty feet at the bend in the road where the wreck took place.

LADY ASTOR HUB OF HOT DEBATE; IS CALLED LIAR

London (AP)—Lady Astor, who was born in Virginia but sits for Boston division, Plymouth, in the House of Commons, was unperturbed Wednesday after a brisk exchange on the common floor Tuesday night in which she once was called a "dirty liar."

She finally was told by the presiding officer he would be glad "if the honorable lady would kindly keep quiet."

The discussion centered about removal of various extravagant boards of guardians, Lady Astor mentioning the word "corruption" in connection with some Westham guardians. Three members immediately pressed her to name a single instance.

She gave them only a general answer and was pressed immediately to withdraw the allegation. She declined to do so and Jack Jones, member for Silverton, former builder's laborer, and Westham councilor, said it was perhaps because she came from a country where corruption was widely known that Lady Astor was so glib about it.

It was then, in the heat of his excitement, he called Lady Astor a "dirty liar" upon the usages of fellow members withdrawing the words, although with the remark, "but they are quite Biblical."

Mrs. Astor said she had heard an argument with another labor member whereupon the speaker said he would be glad if she kept quiet. She sprang to her feet and said: "I really very much resent that remark."

"The honorable lady has interrupted again and again and must keep quiet during debate."

OXYGEN TANKS BURST IN BERLIN CAUSING FIRE

Berlin, (AP)—Two workmen were fatally injured and many fatalities were feared to have occurred in one of the largest explosions in the history of Berlin at the United Oxygen works. Four workmen, two of whom were gravely injured, were rescued by firemen.

A big steel container at the oxygen works fell over while it was being refilled and the contents came into contact with a fire. A flame 300 feet high shot out from the container and was followed by a series of explosions from other steel bottles.

The works is located in the suburb of Bornwald.

The American General Motors plant was among the nearby factories which were cleared of workers because of the danger of collapse of walls from the heat of Berlin. Fragments of steel oxygen containers did damage thousands of feet away from United Oxygen works.

The entire industrial section of Bornwald was enveloped in clouds of smoke. Police drew a cordon around the district as thousands of persons began streaming in to view the disaster.

Fifty fire companies were gathered to fight the fire which followed the explosion. Their work was unavailing except to prevent spread of the flames to nearby buildings.

A large number of injured workers were rushed to Berlin hospitals. In the confusion which followed the disaster, no check could be made of casualties.

The great gas tanks of the Tegel works were thought to be endangered, as they are only about 2000 feet from the center of the fire. Further disaster was feared as firemen fought to protect the gas tanks.

The series of explosions from the United Oxygen works lasted more than an hour and more explosions were feared.

According to one workman's story, the first explosion occurred when a tank filled with acetylene gas exploded while being carried from the workshop. No coherent story could be secured.

NOTED FORGER IN HOOSIOW AT SPOKANE

Spokane, Wash. (AP)—Frank Andrews, described by police as a "master forger" who had kept in the van of federal and state officials for three years, and had scattered bogus checks from one end of the Pacific coast to the other was in jail here Wednesday under a wide spread search was under way for a woman of many aliases, who he had led him into crime.

Once behind the bars Andrews, police said, confessed to an extraordinary system of forgery that had yielded him possibly thousands of dollars and had kept United States (department of justice agents, private detectives and city police mystified. He had posed as a U. S. secret service operator, and many times had cashed checks, ostensibly expense vouchers, signed by W. H. Moran, chief of the secret service bureau at Washington, D. C., to dubious merchants, he said, he produced forged credentials, bearing his picture, which indicated that he was on a secret mission.

At other times he said he represented himself as being an agent for the Southern Pacific railway, the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company of Portland, and the Holmes Fire Insurance company of San Francisco. His activities had led him from Butte, Mont., where he said he met Helen Dale, 29, a 198 pound blonde, through Oregon, Washington and California. He asserted that Helen, who police said was wanted for various crimes in nearly as many states as Andrews, urged him to take up the life of a forger, although he described it as "a miserable dog's life." Police said that he had been indicted for forgery in Oakland, Portland and Seattle.

PANIC RULES INVADED REGION OF MANCHURIA

By D. C. Bes (Copyright 1929 by United Press)

Harbin, Manchuria—A technical invasion of Chinese territory by Russian troops has occurred at Manchullu, on the northwest border of Manchuria, the vanguard of refugees from Manchullu who reached here Wednesday informed me.

Panic prevails in Manchullu, they said. The refugees told how Russian troops advanced quietly over the border and encamped near the city. The sight of the troops and their tents spread terror among the polyglot population of Manchullu, and a general exodus began.

The Chinese troops hastily retreated into the city. Six armored Russian trains also appeared in sight of Manchullu, where they remained.

The Chinese military commander forced farmers carts and horses and forced coolies to build three lines of trenches north of Manchullu. Soldiers were sent to Manchullu. Residents of the city, fearing that war would break out momentarily, fled in great numbers, along the railroad.

"White" Russians and Chinese gathered where they could of their possessions and piled into trains which were crowded beyond capacity. Others obtained automobiles, carts, horses, mules and camels and began the trek towards Harbin.

Bugiat and Mongol sheep herders and camel men mingled with Chinese, Russians and Japanese traders in the exodus. The trains were so packed that the collection of tickets was impossible.

A steady stream poured by rail and road to the southeast, along the arid plains and low hills, hundreds of miles from Manchullu, which can be accomplished under normal rail conditions in 24 hours.

COOLIDGE SEES HISTORIC EVENT

Washington, (AP)—Former President Coolidge told newspapers following the Kellogg treaty ceremony that the occurrence was "in every way a great historic event, perhaps even more so than we now realize."

Mr. Coolidge touched on a variety of subjects, remarking "The country seems to be in very good shape, and I am delighted at the large surplus in the treasury at the close of the last fiscal year."

BORAH ISSUES NAVAL WARNING

Washington (AP)—Commenting upon the formal ratification Wednesday of the Kellogg anti-war treaty, Chairman Borah of the senate foreign relations committee, declared the world naval situation to be a serious challenge to that pact.

Upon his return from the White House ceremony putting into effect the treaty, Borah declared the "next meeting that these nations should have should be a meeting to reduce their fighting machines and to cut down these armament burdens."

He expressed gratification over news advices from London that the British labor government was moving for naval reduction. At the same time the Idahoan noted that America and Great Britain are spending billions for navies and he declared, "navies are fighting machines; they are built in anticipation of war."

LESIE STEELE, GEORGIA, DIES

Washington (AP)—Representative Leslie J. Steele of Georgia, died early Wednesday in Garfield Memorial hospital, where he underwent an operation Monday.

The representative, whose home was at Decatur, Ga., was 69 years of age. He entered the hospital a week ago for preliminary treatment for gall stones. Blood transfusions were necessary during the operation, which required several hours, but hope for his recovery was maintained almost to the time of his death.

He was first elected to congress in November, 1926, and was returned to his seat in the last election.

Hadnot, according to the officers, had visions of an early arraignment in police court on the less serious accusation of possession of simply the sale of liquor. But the officers had different ideas. In Hadnot's arrest and the circumstances pertaining to it they saw an opportunity to make a few facts clear at this time.

Their action in this case carries with it three warnings:

1. That Salem is going to be an unhealthy place for "gangs" of any color who cannot observe the proprieties and statutes.
2. That selling or giving liquor to minors is going to be followed by drastic action.
3. That bootleggers and "beer joints" who are looking forward to prosperous times during the conventions scheduled here during the next few weeks will find Salem's ordinary healthy atmosphere decidedly oppressive.

Hadnot's place has been under police surveillance for some time as a suspected booze dispensary and the gathering place for a group of local and Portland colored people whose gatherings have attracted attention. The raid followed closely upon reports from "lookout" that

Washington, (AP)—A slip in arrangements prevented the radio public from hearing President Hoover read his address proclaiming the Kellogg peace pact Wednesday. Two broadcasting companies had microphones wired into the east room. But the instruments were placed under the table while pictures were taken and Mr. Hoover began to speak before attendants could replace the "mikes" on the table in front of the president.
