

ONE KILLED AND ELEVEN HURT BY EXPLOSION

New York (AP)—One man was killed and eleven injured in an explosion Friday morning aboard the Standard Oil tanker William Rockefeller at anchor off Bayonne, N. J. The tanker, a flaming torch, was pushed by tugs away from the oil docks and toward the lower bay in New York harbor.

The blast felt in Staten Island, lower Manhattan and all along the New Jersey waterfront.

Burning oil was spread over the water. The vessel, one of the largest of the carriers of the new Jersey company, carried a crew of between thirty and forty men. The fate of other members of the crew was not immediately ascertained but it was believed several of them, if not all the unaccounted for, were ashore.

Chester Smith, general manager of the Standard Oil plant at Bayonne, said that the tanker had 125,000 barrels of crude on board when the explosion occurred. Workmen were pumping the oil off at the time. At the Staten Island hospital, where eight of the injured were taken it was said that none was in a serious condition.

Bayonne, N. J. (AP)—One man was killed and seven were known to have been injured in a series of explosions aboard the tanker William E. Rockefeller at pier six of the Standard Oil company Friday.

The blasts shook Essex county, N. J. broke windows along the New Brighton, Staten Island, waterfront, and sent hundreds of persons to their telephones in a panic.

The Standard oil officials said they had learned from an indirect source that G. H. Eaton, a watchman, was the man killed.

The William Rockefeller had arrived from Baton Rouge, La., Thursday.

FLORENTINE FRESCO FIGURES IDENTIFIED

Chicago (AP)—A chance discovery by a nun while conducting research for a doctor's degree has revealed the identities of five historical figures in a Florentine chapel fresco.

Sister Mary Aquinas, O. S. D., head of the English department at Rosary college, it was announced Thursday, has found the key to a fresco painted by Andrea Di Bonaiuto about 1363, which has been a mystery to scholars for centuries.

The figures represented were identified by Sister Mary Aquinas as the renaissance writer, Boccaccio, Sir Edward Le Dispenser, an English knight of the garter, the crusaders Peter I. of Cyprus and the Count of Savoy, and Piero Degli Albizzi, a prominent Florentine contemporary of the others.

FAMOUS MOVIE DOG POISONED BY GHOUL

Portland, Ore. (AP)—Zev, San Francisco police dog that doubled for Strongheart in the movies, lies in a grave at a canine cemetery here, a victim of poisoning.

Police and humane officers of Portland were hunting for the poisoner persons who set out the poison. Zev, owned by M. C. Keefe, San Francisco, came here with a string of horses, which have been racing near Gresham. He was named after a famous race horse.

Sniping in the Salem Sector

Heading the advance guard of the Station post, Wednesday were Harry Humphrey, Ed. Forzette, George Duncan and Glen Fox. The post has 101 members and a majority will be in Salem at some time during the week.

Bert Bates, one of Oregon's best known Legionnaires, checked in at headquarters Wednesday afternoon. Bates left Roseburg for Hollywood, Calif., and later was called to the middlewest in an editorial capacity by the Pawcett publications.

"Never heard of it." This quotation is applicable to Bill Kelly, of Baker and Dr. Hopkins, of Astoria, when each over-hears some reference to the home town of the other in connection with the possibility of selection for the 1930 convention city. Baker is in the field strong for the honors, having made a bid for the convention for the last three years but Argument will not submit without an argument.

The convention is better than a circus for the small boys. Each drum corps, as it marches through the streets, is flanked by a group of bare-headed and bare-footed

ANTI-FASCISTS ESCAPE PRISON

Paris (AP)—Francesco Nitli, nephew of the former Italian premier, and two other prominent members of Italy's suppressed political opposition, have escaped the Fascist prison of L'ipari, and have made their way to Paris.

Anti-Fascist circles here Thursday acclaimed the escape, related in widely published stories, as the greatest inspiration given their movement in months. Accounts of their imprisonment were welcomed in these circles as revealing tactics employed by the Fascist regime in checking growth of opposing elements.

Escaping with Nitli were Carlo Roselli, former professor of political economy at the Genoa institute, and Emilio Lussan, war hero, four times decorated by the Italian government.

Roselli's account of the escape, made to Paris newspapers, said they eluded 400 guards which the Italian government placed on the small island, of Sicily, to watch 500 political prisoners, and swim along the shore of the island to a secluded spot where some friends awaited them with a small sail boat.

He refused to tell how the aid was arranged for even where they landed but it was believed they reached the shore somewhere near Tunis and came from there to Paris.

FOOD SUPPLY IS ALASKAN FARM PROBLEM BASIS

Juneau, Alaska (AP)—Charles H. Flory, agricultural commissioner for Alaska, is convinced that the territory's chief farm problem is to produce enough food for home consumption.

"It should be thoroughly understood," he says "that Alaska cannot become an agricultural competitor of the United States or any other country. The great distances of water and land by which the agricultural regions of Alaska are physically separated from the states effectively remove such a possibility.

"Nevertheless, Alaska has an important and real agricultural problem to solve. The department of agriculture's experiment stations have demonstrated fully that many agricultural products can be grown successfully in the territory and surveys have shown that there is sufficient arable land to support a large local population.

"The problem resolves itself, therefore, into a question of producing agricultural products that can be grown successfully in the territory and surveys have shown that there is sufficient arable land to support a large local population.

HILLS BROS' Big idea in roasting coffee is a little at a time

No BULK-ROASTING method can be as exact as Hills Bros' continuous process—Controlled Roasting. Since only a few pounds at a time pass through the roasters, every berry is roasted evenly. The result is a matchless uniform flavor always.

"Ain't it strange when the band starts playing, Her eyes fill up with tears." That's what the old song says. Well, there are a lot of bands playing in Salem today, but blamed few tears. On the contrary Tom Billingsley of the S. P. remarked as he stood smiling and chewing a cigar: "When I hear the band start up, I just want to get out amongst 'em. I get a big kick out of a crowd like this."

FARM BOARD TO REFUSE TO AID STABILIZATION

Washington (AP)—The federal farm board has refused to engage in wheat stabilization operations in spite of insistent requests to do so as a means of preventing recurrence of Tuesday's six cent market price drop.

Telegraphic appeals to buy up the surplus wheat and store it in any available place have flooded the board's offices. It has decided, however, to await perfection of the machinery of the Farmers National Grain Marketing corporation, which will be charged with handling any emergency and is advising farmers meanwhile to hold back their product whenever possible.

A formal statement by the board said there was a prospective world shortage of wheat this season and ascribed the immediate situation "to hurried and, to some extent at least, unnecessary marketing of wheat by farmers."

Ice Creams That Are Rich With Cream Yet Made With Milk!

Both of the recipes I am giving you today—one is for a dessert to be frozen in your mechanical refrigerator, the other for a most delicious peach ice cream—are wonderful. Mary Blake, Carnation Peach Ice Cream

Won't you send for the Carnation Cook Book? It is free. Carnation Milk Products Co., P. O. Box 2158, Station A, Portland.

Carnation Milk is the secret of this cream economy. Being the purest of whole milk, separated to double richness, it is doubly rich in cream. "Homogenized"—the cream content broken up into minute globules and distributed all through the milk—every drop has its share of enriching cream. These finer, more uniformly distributed cream particles give a smooth creaminess, a fine, delicate texture that even the best of bottled milk cannot equal.

This same extra-deliciousness is found in every dish in which Carnation Milk is used—soups and sauces, cakes and puddings, candies and custards. But this is only a small part of Carnation Milk's value. Its convenience—you can keep it in quantity without danger of spoiling or waste; its economy—it saves appreciably on butter and cream; its dependability—Carnation is always uniform in quality, rich and pure and good—make it the most desirable form of milk for all cooking.

Remember

that Carnation Milk, being doubly rich in cream, may be used in place of cream, and at about one-third the cost. Try it in coffee.
