WARM SPRINGS PROJECT AWAITS FINAL ACTION

Completion of reorganization of the Warm Springs irrigation district now awaits action of the bondholders. State Engineer Rhea Luper said upon his return Saturday from a visit to the project.

"The plan of reorganization," said Luper, "contemplates the payment to bondholders of $400,000 in cash and $450,000 in refunding bonds, which is about 25 cents on the dollar in cash and an additional 29 cents in bonds. The district has deposited the cash to be paid bondholders with the state reclamation commission and it is being held in trust until the remaining bonds have been received. I expect a response from all those bondholders who understand the situation, and urge those who have not been in communication with me at once."

"The district has received payment from the United States government in full for half interest in the Warm Springs reservoir, and the money received is being held for settlement with the bondholders. In addition, it will issue its refunding bonds based on the productive value of the land as found by an investigation made under the direction of the state reclamation commission."

HUG EXPLAINS SCHOOL AIMS TO TEACHERS

"The object of teaching is not to impart facts to pupils, for facts are soon forgotten, but it is to teach children to do their own thinking and to give their own lives safety and well," the superintendent of Salem schools, George W. Hug, told 192 Salem teachers Saturday morning when he called them together for their first meeting after the summer vacation.

The teachers received the superintendent's caution regarding the importance of proper rest and recreation, which he prefers to call "re-creation," as well as the importance of understanding food values and eating proper food.

The Salem school system has the opportunity of doing work in health education which will give the city a nation-wide reputation such as is enjoyed by Binghamton, N. Y., or Newton, Mass., said Superintendent Hug as he briefly outlined the plans for the continuation of the health education work first started five years ago in Salem by the Marion county child health demonstration.

"Education is a real science which has developed as rapidly in the last five years and teachers must keep pace with the development," said the superintendent.

Hug told the teachers that they could be divided into four classes. First the dogmatic or old fashioned type of teacher; secondly, the "documented" teacher with a fund of knowledge which he or she passes on to the pupils and expects them to absorb it; thirdly, the motivation type of teacher, until recently considered the highest type of teacher; and finally the purposeful teacher who teaches the children to do their own thinking. Salem has several of the purposeful type said the superintendent.

The meeting in the Salem high school auditorium Monday morning of all of the teachers of the city is a preliminary to the opening of the school semester Monday morning. After the general meeting principals met with their own teachers for detailed instructions.

Frank A. Seufert, prominent cannery man and industrial leader of The Dalles, who is in a critical condition at his home, was slightly improved Saturday.

Dr. Reuter, The Dalles, and other physicians attending Seufert, expressed hopes for his recovery.

He was able to talk a little Saturday and took notice of attendants about the home.

Mr. Seufert has been one of the leaders in the development of central Oregon and has been a resident of The Dalles for 50 years.

Cora Mae Calavan, 1598 Court street, received a broken hand Friday as the result of an automobile collision between a car she was driving and one operated by W. H. Adams, according to a report filed with the police. The accident occurred at Court and 12th streets. The Calavan report charges Adams with taking the right of way.

Conferences in New York of a small committee of tax men and a committee of the bankers' association brought the warring factions together and resulted in the drafting of a proposed amendment which would permit the imposition of a tax on national bank stock proportionate to the burden imposed upon mercantile, manufacturing and business corporations without regard to moneyed capital in the hands of individuals. This proposal was accepted by both committees, and, if approved by the American Bankers' association in San Francisco the last of this month, it will likely receive the support of congress.

Fisher was a member of the conference committee, having been selected to represent the Pacific coast.

3 BOYS CLUBS ORGANIZED FOR "Y" ACTIVITIES

Three boys' clubs were formed Friday night when 41 youths of grammar school age met at the Y.M.C.A. for a general "whoopie" party. The clubs which will be operated upon the same general plan as those of former years, will be headed by Willamette university students.

Derald Miller was selected as first captain of the group which chose "Beards" as the name of their club. Jim Earle was named second captain, while David Compton will be sergeant at arms and Jerry Stone, secretary. The personnel of this group includes William Curry, Howard Sehon, Walter Lebnog, Stephen Stone, Jerry Stone, David Compton, Jim Earle, Orrin Ojien, Derald Miller, Foster Crommelier, Dan McCallister and Elbert Jones. Wesley Fordon will be the leader.

Two other groups picked "Black Pirates" as their title. The first group nominated Wesley Roder as their leader, with Ed Busick captain and Roger Miller, assistant. Other members of the club are Robert Brady, Walter Bailey, Arthur Eaton, Weldon Albright, Charles Robben, Allen Stewart and Robert Farmer.

Black Pirates No. 2 are in charge of Bob Wilson. First leader will be Arnold Kahler, with Billy Holt, second leader. Members of this group include Jack Ostlund, Herderson Stiff, Arnold Kahler, Gordon Carl, Albert Wickert, Oren McCowell, Billy Holt, Daryl Wilcox, Leland Curry, Phil Salstrom, Eugene Fisher, Chas. Giese and Earl Priem.

The American Bankers' association, meeting this month in San Francisco, approves the recommendation of a committee of its members, a solution of the bank tax situation doubtless will have been reached, according to Earl Fisher, chairman of the state tax commission, who has returned from the annual conference of the National Tax association at Saratoga, N. Y.

It would remain for congress to take action, but it is believed whatever is recommended on the issue by the bankers will receive the support of congress, for the reason that the plan is in the nature of a compromise with their own teachers for detailed instructions.

Very satisfactory progress has been made towards the solution of the aggravated bank tax situation, said Fisher. "Recent court decisions have practically deprived many of the states of any adequate means of taxing national bank stock. The loss of taxes in Oregon on this account has been estimated to be around $600,000 a year. The continued efforts on the part of some of the states to amend the federal statutes to afford a greater freedom in the taxation of national banks has encountered effective resistance from the American Bankers' association."
