

OLSEN PLAYERS IN HISTORICAL OFFERING HERE

Followers of the first circuit repertory company of the Moroni Olsen players will have opened to them a new chapter in American history when "Twelve Thousand," Bruno Frank's unusual play of that period, opens their current season here on November 1 at the Fox Theatre under the auspices of Salem Lions club.

They will have to cross the Atlantic and enter the summer pavilion in the palace of a minor German princeling to read this chapter, for it does not deal with the battles in the colonies but with the besieged Hessians drawn from their fields and herded into redcoats to fight in a war they did not understand.

It deals with 12,000 who did not go—and the reason they were saved from their prince's plan to sell them to death so that he might have a few thousand pounds to spend for jewels and gowns for his latest mistress.

Simply written, closely knit and powerfully dramatic is "Twelve Thousand" and it was hailed by George Jean Nathan, in a foreword to the printed American translation as one of the noteworthy and outstanding dramatic productions of post war Germany.

The cast includes eight persons, Moroni Olsen as Fiederl, the prince's private secretary who, by loyalty to his people, excuses treachery to his king; Janet Young, in the only feminine role, that of the prince's mistress, who aids the secretary in outwitting the ruler; Joseph Williams as the Prussian colonel; Franklin Rasmussen, who has returned to the company after several seasons, playing the British ambassador seeking to buy peasants "on the hoof"; Summer Chase Cobb as the prince's minister; C. Talbot and W. Kilby, new additions to the personnel, as conscripts, and Addison Richards as the dissolute German prince.

CALL AT HOSPITAL
Silverton—Mrs. C. H. Loomis and her sister, Mrs. Morgan of South Second street, went to the Opendor sanitarium, out of Oregon City, Thursday to see their niece Elizabeth Loomis, who was brought to this place from Seattle several days ago in the hopes that she might undergo an operation that would help her get well, but it was found she would be taken home without having had any operation. She has been bedridden for the last three years.

COLLINS LEAVE GATES
Gates—Mr. and Mrs. Ed Collins have left for Merced, Calif. where they will spend the winter. A daughter, Mrs. Claude SeFard, lives at Merced while another daughter, Mrs. Dan Dimsmore, lives at Susanville, Calif.

LEEK DOWNING ILL
Stayton—Leek Dowling who lives south of Stayton in Linn county is very ill with pneumonia. He is under the care of Dr. Prill of Seio. His daughter, Mrs. G. W. Klemmen of Hoodpoint, Wash. is here at his bedside.

Pratum—Mrs. William de Vries entertained the Methodist Ladies' Aid Wednesday afternoon. As there was no work, a social hour was spent followed by the regular business session. The hostesses served a most delicious luncheon.
