

DEATH VISITS DIMICK HOME DURING NIGHT

Woodburn — Benjamin Morris Dimick, 64, familiarly known as "Ben" was found dead in his bed Sunday morning about 7 o'clock at his home on East Hayes street by his wife when she went to awaken him. Saturday evening he was in his usual health and after spending the evening down town returned to his home and played a game of solitaire as was his custom before retiring. Death was probably due to heart trouble.

Ben Dimick was born at Needy on June 3, 1865 and was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Moore Dimick, prominent pioneers. He had spent his entire life within a radius of 10 miles of Woodburn and for 26 years resided on a farm between Grassy Pond and Monitor. This farm house in which he lived for so many years was destroyed by fire just a few weeks ago.

He is survived by his wife, two sons and six daughters. Lester Dimick of Monitor and Joe Dimick of Wasco, Oregon; Mrs. Myrtle Bolla of Wauna, Ore.; Mrs. Maude Broyles of Woodburn; Mrs. Mabel Brandt of Elliott Prairie, Mrs. Eva Ballew of Fairfield; Mrs. Velma Lucas of Seneca, Ore., and Mrs. Ada Dimick at home. Dimick of Canby and Robert Dimick of Colfax, Wash., four sisters, Mrs. Lizzie Cox of California, Mrs. Betta Cox of Colfax, Wash., Mrs. Ida McDonald of Idaho, Mrs. Emma Traub of Myrtle Creek and 18 grandchildren.

S. employment bureau. Agricultural labor struck a balance, all 74 applicants being in demand and reporting back as placed while 54 of the 65 common laborers were in demand and placed. All 19 farm hands were wanted and were placed as were all eight skilled woodmen and the one casual worker. Two of the four truck drivers were placed with calls received for three. Thirteen of the 18 women agricultural workers were in demand and placed while four of the six domestic workers were wanted and placed as were two of the three nurses.

HARRY LAUDER ARDENT ANGLER

Sir Harry Lauder is a mighty fisherman. The canny little Scottish entertainer, so far as is known, has only two distractions. He will spend long hours with a fishing line, and on the slightest provocation he will run away from the crowd and the noise of the city for a few hours on the golf links. At home in Dunoon, Scotland, his estate faces the Clyde, but it is not there that Sir Harry gets his greatest pleasurable enjoyment, although the Clyde has many big and game fish. He prefers the mountain streams for fishing, and there are many of them in the hills of Dunoon.

While in New Zealand, from which he has only recently returned, Sir Harry spent much of his spare time fishing in some of the remarkable streams with which that country abounds, and his "catches" were reported unusual both in size and numbers. Anticipating the skepticism of those who do not enjoy the sport of Isaac Walton, Lauder had two of his target rainbow trout stuffed and mounted. One weighed ten and a half pounds and the other slightly over nine. He has sent them to his home at Dunoon, Scotland to greet him on his return to heatherland after his current tour. Local cronies of the canny Scot, are preparing for some tall fish stories when Lauder comes to the Fox Elmore theater Monday evening, October 28.

Porter injured; crutches needed. Dayton—David Porter, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Porter of Lethbridge, Alberta, Canada, who formerly resided on their farm near Dayton, and who are here on a visit with their son Laurence Porter, returned to the Dr. and Mrs. Orr C. Goodrich home in Dayton after being confined one week in the McMillan hospital with a broken left leg.

On a trip to Hebo, October 9, with his brother, Laurence, who drives a truck for the Morgan company, David stepped through a very small opening in a platform and fell forward and received a fracture of both bones of his leg near the ankle, the bones protruding through the skin. A cast was placed on his leg and an opening left to dress it daily and he is resting as well as can be expected. Mr. and Mrs. Porter and David will leave for their home as soon as Mr. Porter is able.

WRECK OF TRAIN KILLS FOUR MEN

Wenatchee, Wash. (AP)—Authorities were making efforts Monday to identify two of four men who were killed late Saturday night when a Great Northern freight train buckled near Berne, Wash.

The men were riding on the end of an oil car when the air was cut and a draw bar came loose. A locomotive at the rear of the train kept pushing, the engineer unaware of the accident. The cars piled up, tearing down telephone poles and damaging trolley wire lines. The men were caught when the cars buckled.

The two identified men were George Davis, Spokane and Frank Sutton, Morton, Wash. One of the four men was decapitated and the other so badly mangled that recognition was almost impossible.

The freight train was drawn by an electric locomotive with a steam locomotive acting as a "helper" attached to the rear of the train.

CHILD WELFARE EXPERT CALLED TO WHITE HOUSE

Washington (AP)—Between 300 and 400 experts in the newest as well as the oldest sciences related to children have been called in to prepare for President Hoover's White House conference on child health and protection.

Their work is the outcome of a desire to better child life which first stirred the president during the world war when, as it was expressed Saturday by one associate with him then, he noticed that Belgian children whose feeding he later supervised, "did not play when they were improperly fed."

Dr. H. E. Barnard, director of the conference, and Herbert Hoover's food administrator for the state of Indiana during the war, in outlining the wide scope of the conference, says that it will be the first meeting of social service workers, dentists, pediatricians, family physicians, nurses, educators and economists in dealing with problems which heretofore each had studied independently.

Not One Person in Ten Thousand Knows All These Points

Would you know whether the high and low tones come in with equal power to the midsize register?

If they do, the reception is balanced.

Could you differentiate the bass drum from the timpani—the Soudaphone from the string bass?

If you can, the set is probably not voiced too low.

Does the bass sound like a baritone, a baritone like a tenor, a contralto like a soprano, and a soprano like —?

If so, the set is voiced too high. Voicing requires an acoustic engineer, not just an electrical engineer.

This is why most sets are wrong—they have never been voiced.

To accept 8 1/4 octave equipment when the orchestra covers seven octaves is not buying intelligently.

Not one person in ten thousand can tell these simpler points when testing a set. Consequently they pay good money for primitive radio, then become dissatisfied when they learn what a good set requires.

Buy your set where radio goodness is understood. Buy here and you buy your second or third set first.

The following makes were chosen by us after severe tests were made of the leading sets manufactured:
