Expense of the reorganization, it is announced by Dr. Warner. The budget estimates, yet to be approved by the county health unit committee and finally acted upon by the county court, the city budget committee and the Salem School Board, include items totaling $7400 to be contributed by the Commonwealth Fund. The total cost of the set-up to the taxpayers under the tentative estimates would thus be $34,200, divided as follows:

Marion county	$10,500
City of Salem	8,750
Salem School district	7,100
Public Health funds	3,000
Other taxing units	4,700
Total	$34,200

Although not yet actually approved by the health unit committee these estimates for the city's participation, reduced to $9,000 by the ways and means committee, have already been incorporated into the city's official budget as it will go before the budget committee.

The tentative estimates are for the maximum set-up, and no estimates are announced for the alternative and less expensive organization which officials of the demonstration intimated several months ago would be possible if the people desired it. If this budget is to be paid it must be by the health unit committee or the tax levying bodies that must appropriate the money, while the proposed 1930 budget is $350 less than the expenses for 1929 it involves a considerable increase in the amounts to be appropriated by the various taxing units, due to the withdrawals in a large measure of the Commonwealth

QUOTATIONS ON STOCK MARKET NOW AVAILABLE

Salem people who are interested in financial securities and who watch the ebb and flow of the stock market are enjoying a new experience Monday. This is the privilege of going into an exchange office in the home town and watching the stock market quotations as they come in on the tape and are listed on a big bulletin board prepared for the purpose.

The West Coast Exchange, a connection of Anderson & Fox, opened its offices early Monday morning and attracted a lot of interest from the go-off. The first orders were executed during the day.

The big board in the exchange office lists the quotations of the New York stock exchange as they are received by direct wire, and a smaller board the New York curb prices. However, the exchange has access to the quotations on any listed stock in the world, and for the benefit of those interested will get the latest quotation on any stock or expert information about it, regardless of the exchange where it is listed.

Floral pieces were received at the offices from the Portland and Seattle headquarters of Anderson & Fox and from local banks.

Members of the party arriving from Portland to attend the opening were S. V. Peters, manager of the Portland office; E. P. Hall, in charge of publicity and the statistical department for the northwest; and W. H. O'Brien, northwest auditor.

DRUG ADDICTS IN HOSPITAL BREAK

Pomona, Cal. (AP)—Following the rioting and escape of 17 inmates from the state narcotic hospital at Spadra, near here, Sunday night, a request had been broadcast to officers in adjoining towns and counties to aid in recapturing the men. None was seriously injured. The men, brandishing pieces of garden hose filled with sand, drove back the unarmed guard and scaled the fence which surrounded the institution. Two of the men were taken by Pomona police shortly afterwards. These are Harry Rubin, 26, and Charles Luke, 39, both of San Francisco.

Rutan and Luke, according to police, complained about the hospital food, their treatment at the hands of the guards and that they were not given enough narcotics. This is the second recent outbreak. 13 inmates having escaped from the institution two months ago, most of them were arrested and returned. A number of them were among the 17 who rioted Sunday night.

Legislation permitting cities to look toward the future by the acquisition of sinking funds for projects such as incinerators and sewage disposal plants is needed, Schuebel said. City officials now pay twice what a project is worth whereas a sinking fund would permit them to pay as they go.

There are too many city officials with the attitude of "to hell with the city" as well as many county judges, the speaker said. Schuebel will launch a movement this week looking towards a correction in the gas tax distribution to counties to include cities. In California, Schuebel said, the league of municipalities took the position that the gas tax, adopted for the development of highways, included highways from end to end and not from city limit to city limit, and that the cities were entitled to some portion of that portion of the highway through its limits, either for first construction or maintenance.

Schuebel advocated whole-hearted participation in a league of municipalities, pointing out that 500 members representing the various counties of the state, gathered together at least once a year, can accomplish much of benefit to the cities which as individual units could receive but little if any support in any undertaking they might attempt. Through the efforts of the Oregon League, a survey has been made of the Willamette river, with a financial survey of the cities under way. This information must be studied in connection with proposed sewage disposal plants to ascertain needs and requirements and the amount that must be expended for each 1000 population.

"Y" TO BANQUET NEW MEMBERS

Some 150 new members added to the roster of the Y. M. C. A. during the recent membership week campaign will be feted by officers of that organization Tuesday night, when a dinner will be served in their honor at 6:30. All of these are requested to be present. After the dinner, membership cards will be handed to the guests of honor by President Staley, Paul Wallace, general in charge of the recent membership work, will preside at the meeting. Several special numbers have been planned for the evening's program, while Rev. Earl Cochran will lead the general singing. Mr. Stewart is scheduled to sing one or two Scotch solos. Heads of the boxing, wrestling and other departments will be introduced to the new members. This will be followed by a tour of the building to familiarize the guests with the association's activities.

An effort will be made to place each new member in the activity or activities with which he is most interested. Paul Acton is chairman of the committee on arrangements for the evening's entertainments. R. E. Kittredge, Fred Duncan, J. W. Moore, Clarence Litweller and Thos. Roen are acting as Acton's assistants.

BUDGET BOARD TO BE CHOSEN

The annual selection of members of the city budget committee will be one of the important matters before the city council at its meeting Monday night.

Each member of the council has the privilege of selecting a committee member from among the people of his ward. Most of the council members were decided on their selections early Monday. Aldermen Paul Johnson and Harry Hawkins were out of town and could not be queried on the subject.

Alderman L. J. Simeral has named as his selection James M. Nicholson, H. H. Vandart has selected Walter C. Winslow, W. W. Rosebraugh has selected Leo Childs, Hal D. Patton has selected A. N. Moores, W. H. Dancy has selected Charles Pratt, F. L. Wilkinson will probably select Arthur Girod, Dave O'Hara has selected Fred H. Paulson, Chris Kozis has selected E. W. Cooley, Ralph Thompson has selected E. A. Ehoten, S. E. Purvine has selected Dr. H. H. Olinger, B. B. Herriek has selected W. E. Park, while Watson Townsend had not completed his selection at 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon.

ASK PORT SURVEY OF CRESCENT HARBOR

Grants Pass, Ore. (AP)—An immediate survey of the Port of Crescent City was ordered Monday by the senate commerce committee, according to a message received here from Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon.

Action taken by the committee, the message said, may eliminate a possible delay of two years in the attempt to gain federal aid in the project. A meeting of the board of United States engineers and representatives of various organizations is to be held in Crescent City Oct. 25.

43 YEARS AGO SALEM STORE LIGHTED

It was 43 years ago that T. McF. Patton & Sons, book sellers and stationers in Salem, took the then radical progressive step of installing electric incandescent lights in their place of business on State street, and became the first mercantile house in Salem to make that improvement.

This was recalled Monday by Hal D. Patton in connection with the celebration of the golden jubilee of incandescent light invention by Thomas A. Edison.

The electric lamps in the Patton store were installed by Walter Holman, nephew of Thomas Holman, who operated the first electric utility in Salem. This was established in 1886, and shortly thereafter the lights were installed in the Patton store.

At that time Hal and Cooke Patton were partners with their father in the store on State street, and since then they have carried on the business in the same location on State street.

SCHUEBEL TELLS OF MUNICIPAL ILLS IN OREGON

Municipal ailments and their cure were brought before the chamber of commerce Monday by Chris Schuebel, of Oregon City, president of the League of Oregon Cities, after asserting that Oregonians are too selfish and city officials dead on their feet. Fractional differences which have arisen chiefly because of geographical location, have retarded progress in the state he said.

Cities in Oregon have long been made the butt of legislation "not to apply to cities of 100,000 population or over" and until the cities, through organization and cooperation, band to demand their rights, such will continue, Schuebel declared. Such cooperation will inspire a state spirit.

"Salem lacks good common sense when it comes to its water supply," the speaker said. "If the cities would get together they could demand legislation appropriating water be subject to the rights of municipalities for the protection of future generations," he said.

Touching upon the Oregon tax system the speaker said it made perjurers of its county assessors while the high millage rate of 54 often tends to alarm prospective investors and a millage of 15 to 20 would be sufficient and raise all equal amount of revenue if the assessment values were raised accordingly.

Legislation permitting cities to look toward the future by the acquisition of sinking funds for projects such as incinerators and sewage disposal plants is needed, Schuebel said. City officials now pay twice what a project is worth whereas a sinking fund would permit them to pay as they go.

There are too many city officials with the attitude of "to hell with the city" as well as many county judges, the speaker said. Schuebel will launch a movement this week looking towards a correction in the gas tax distribution to counties to include cities. In California, Schuebel said, the league of municipalities took the position that the gas tax, adopted for the development of highways, included highways from end to end and not from city limit to city limit, and that the cities were entitled to some portion of that portion of the highway through its limits, either for first construction or maintenance.

Schuebel advocated whole-hearted participation in a league of municipalities, pointing out that 500 members representing the various counties of the state, gathered together at least once a year, can accomplish much of benefit to the cities which as individual units could receive but little if any support in any undertaking they might attempt. CLUB FORMED BY TEACHERS

Teachers in the Fairview, Sydney, Sunnyside, Milnes, Parrish, Clay Jefferson, Marion, West Stayton, Looney Butte, Talbot, and North Santiam school districts, have organized a teachers' club, according to W. W. Fox, Marion county rural supervisor.

Mrs. Ethel Gulvin, Looney Butte teacher, and her husband, are the organizers of the club. The club is a casual and well-sustained organization. The club will be held in the Looney Butte school. Mrs. Esther Kieper, Talbot teacher, was elected president of the new club. The organization will be completed and the remaining officers elected at a meeting at Looney Butte, November 7. A name for the club, and its constitution and by-laws will also be adopted at that time. The club has 13 members.

Such an organization, entirely voluntary, is the best form of professional activity which a teacher can assume, says Supervisor Fox. General in its membership, its members have the same problems and the same difficulties. Clubs of this kind always attract the highest type of teacher says Fox.

For a number of years some of the rural school teachers in the Woodburn territory were banded together in an informal teachers' club, but the club formed at Looney Butte is the first of its kind in the south end of the county.

BOY'S FOOT SEVERED BY PASSENGER TRAIN

Portland (AP)—Franklin Taylor, four, was in a critical condition at St. Vincent's hospital here Monday as result of having his foot severed at the ankle by an Oregon Electric passenger train Sunday night.

The child had caught his foot in a rail frog and was unable to free himself before the Portland express from Salem came down the grade.

C. Adams, Portland, motorman of the train, said he did not see the child before the train was directly on him. He applied the brakes, but it was too late. He said the boy was lying on the tracks as if he were asleep.

Members of the train crew applied a tourniquet to the child's injured leg before rushing him to the hospital.
