INDEPENDENCE CORN DISPLAY DRAWS CROWD

Independence—The corn show opened Friday with all departments well represented and a much larger list of entries in corn than in previous years. Exhibits kept coming in until after noon Friday and the judging lasted into the evening.

There was keen competition in the corn entries according to Professor Jackman, judge in that department. The home economics booth is very attractive and the class served hot waffles to the crowd, as a feature of their work. The flower exhibit merited considerable attention and comment. The poultry and vegetable exhibits were better than last year.

The evening program drew a large crowd, the armory being well filled. Professor Thompson announced the program consisting of selections by the orchestra, a short talk by Prof. Jackman of O. A. C. Governor Patterson spoke on corn raising, piano selections were given. Mrs. J. C. Collins sang two numbers.

Following the program a guessing contest was opened. The one guessing nearest the number of kernels of corn a turkey would eat at feeding time on Saturday evening, was to receive the turkey as a prize.

A dance orchestra closed the program with music for the crowd to dance by. A number of the younger set enjoyed this feature.

Awards will be made to the winners on Saturday evening. The program for Saturday evening promises to be very attractive.
