

LOCAL FOOTBALL TEAMS AWAIT INVASION OF FOES

Willamette, Salem On Twin Bill For Monday Afternoon

The final polish having been put on their plays, the football teams of Willamette university and Salem high were scheduled to rest Saturday afternoon and Sunday in anticipation of their participation in a double header gridiron contest Monday afternoon on Sweetland field. Willamette was to meet Linfield college at 1:15, while the red and black were scheduled to tangle with an ancient foe, Eugene, two hours later. The games will feature an Armistice day celebration.

BEAR RESERVES GOOD ENOUGH FOR GRIZZLIES

Berkeley, (AP)—A team of California reserves, getting its first chance to pit its strength against a conference opponent, was primed here Saturday to attempt to hand a defeat to an eleven from the University of Montana.

The Montana Grizzlies came down from their lair boasting of a powerful aerial attack, and with the highlight of their season's record a 6-4 tie with the University of Washington eleven. With everything to gain and nothing to lose, the Montanans were ready to fight to the last ditch.

Meanwhile Coach Nils Price was confident of the ability of his second crew, which defeated the Olympic club team 21 to 19 two weeks ago, and announced that he will not use his regulars except in case of emergency.

Skits and Scratches

Coach Hollis Huntington has a tough proposition on his hands at Salem high this fall. With a verdant line and a backfield that has but two of last year's regular squad, the going has been anything but smooth.

The situation dates back to last fall. Although Coach Anderson turned out a team that met defeat but once during the year, and that at the hands of the strong Medford squad, nevertheless, he failed to build for the future. Few substitutes had an opportunity to see very much action in the tough games. This means that the present coach has had to start from the beginning.

Cooperation on the part of the student body has been none too good. The team has been handicapped ever since opening day of practice from lack of essential material. The team is one of the most ragged that has represented Salem high in years. Little equipment has been purchased and last year's suits, which after the last game were left in their sodden condition for a week or more to mildew and smell, before they were dried out, have had to suffice. Cotton jerseys have had to be worn.

All during this week there hasn't been a bandage or a piece of adhesive tape at Olinger field and when a player got hurt in scrimmage there was nothing that could be done about it. It isn't any wonder that the players at times have seemed rather indifferent about the game.

Perhaps one expects too much of boys of high school age, but it does seem that out of enrollment of some 500 boys, there could be found at least one, who would take enough interest in the members of the team to see that their jerseys and other equipment are cleaned once a month.

There is some talk of placing athletic affairs in the hands of a business manager and it might be a good idea. Some system could be worked out whereby a manager was put on a percentage basis—the harder he worked the more he would make. The facilities at Olinger field are among the best in the state for high schools. With proper cooperation all around it could be made to pay big dividends, financially and physically.

In 1919, Eugene high had a particularly successful season. A large crowd of rooters came here with the team to see them trample the locals. Everything appeared set for a big slaughter. Salem was coached by Bill Reinhart that year and among the backfield men was Luke Gill, now physical education man at the high school. The purple and white

STAYTON DEATS TURNER, 41-0

Stayton—In a fast game played at Stayton, the locals swamped Turner high school 41 to 0. Stayton again showed its supremacy over the teams of the Willamette valley by this impressive victory.

Lesley, Stayton half, made a sensational run of about 75 yards on the kick-off. He caught the ball on his own 25 yard line and ran through the entire Turner team for the first touchdown in the first 3 seconds of play.

Stayton outplayed Turner at every phase of the game and they were never seriously threatened.

In the second quarter, Lesley of Stayton intercepted a pass and ran 40 yards for a touchdown and Thomas repeated this feat in the fourth quarter.

Turner tightened down in the second half and played a good brand of football for about a quarter and then Stayton ran away with them again.

Stayton has not been defeated this season and hopes to go through the season undefeated, meeting Gervais next Friday and Independence the Friday following. This makes a total of 186 points to their opponents none. This is considered a very good record for any high school in Oregon.

Klamath Falls (AP)—The ten round main event held in Klamath Falls Friday night between Willie Feldman, New York middleweight, and Tiger Bob Robinson, Oakland, Cal., ended in a nod for Feldman.

ALBANY LOSES TO OREGON NORMAL 11

Monmouth (AP)—After being held to two touchdowns in the first half, Oregon normal opened a deceptive passing attack against Albany college to win a 46 to 0 victory in a football game here Friday.

The long passes of Emerson, Normal quarterback, was a feature of the game. His long tosses to Phillips, fullback and Watkins, end, were responsible for most of Normal's seven touchdowns. The second team displayed as much power as the first stringers during the final quarter.

Annapolis, Md. (AP)—President and Mrs. Hoover, Secretary of the Navy Adams and other high officials of Washington were among the 25,000 fans in attendance at Saturday's game between Georgetown and the Navy. It was the largest crowd which has ever witnessed a game on Farragut field.

BAGSHAW IN FINAL DRIVE AT SEATTLE

Seattle (AP)—Rain or shine the University of Washington grid team was conceded little chance for victory over Stanford here Saturday, in the last football game at home for the Huskies this year.

The weather prediction for Saturday was "occasional rains" causing much concern among the master minds of the Cardinal and Husky teams both of which planned an open style of attack.

Stanford came to Seattle prepared to thoroughly frustrate the Huskies in its drive for the Pacific coast conference championship made possible by California's win over Southern California last Saturday. The Cardinals were given a big edge over Washington but as the purple and gold eleven had nothing to lose, a great battle was contemplated. Washington has yet to win a conference game this season, having lost to Southern California, Washington State and Oregon and tied with Montana.

The Huskies meet California at Berkeley next Saturday and Chicago the following week end to wind up their 1929 schedule.

Coach Enoch Bagshaw of Washington is making his last effort in the Washington stadium Saturday. He recently resigned but offered to remain on the job until the end of the year.

Approximately 25,000 persons are expected to witness the contest, which is Washington's homecoming game.

"WILDCAT" PETE BESTS TED WATERS

Eugene (AP)—Resorting to his favorite trick, an airplane spin, George "Wildcat" Pete Friday night brought an end to the roughest wrestling exhibition ever seen in Eugene, and took the world junior middleweight wrestling belt away from Teddy Waters, Texas cowboy grappler. The spin, coming on the twenty-ninth minute of the second canto, turned the tide to Pete after he had lost the first fall in ten minutes when Waters knocked him out with a rabbit punch and pinned him down with a reverse arm bar hold.

One Yell King In Demand At Webfoot School

Eugene, (AP)—Wanted: one yell king, must be young and attractive and have a general knowledge of the theory of mob psychology.

Chuck Reed of Oregon City, yell king at the University of Oregon, has tendered his resignation to the president of the Student Body because he "had not those hoped-for potentialities of a yell king."

Reed was elected last spring by the students and had been yell leader for the past eight weeks.

WARM RIVALS STAGE GAME AT PULLMAN

Pullman (AP)—Two of the warmest rivals in western football—Washington State college and the University of Idaho—Saturday faced each other here for their 32nd contest. Washington State was conceded an advantage by paper players who were not familiar with traditions of the two schools, but those who had followed the story of the games since 1894 and who knew the long list of disastrous upsets during that time, were quiet as to the outcome.

The Staters, seeking the north-west division championship had only Idaho to defeat before they could lay claim to the title, and a victory over Montana, the remaining foe on the schedule before the banner was clinched. The weather man promised clear skies for the contest, which was to be watched by upwards of 12,000 fans.

Shaw—Members of the Waldo Hills gun club will hold their first fall shoot on their grounds next Sunday. Several fine turkeys will be put up for competition of shotgun artists.

TEN BIG GAMES DRAW MILLIONS

By UNITED PRESS Although ten important football games were scheduled Saturday, some 2,000,000 persons will watch seven thousand players in action throughout the country.

None of the year's unbeaten teams faced threatening competition and inter-sectional games between teams in their own section of the country were the feature attractions of the day. No sectional honors were at stake on either coast.

The Army and Harvard were in the middle west to try conclusions with Illinois and Michigan, respectively.

Georgia went to New York to play New York University and Maryland was at New Haven to attempt to defeat Yale.

In the middle west the Iowa-Minnesota and Ohio State-Northwestern games will have an important bearing on the Big Ten race.
