

RIVER PILOT GIVES UP LIFE ON MISSISSIPPI

Westover, Ark. (AP)—Harry Richardson, 40-year-old pilot, observed the code of the Mississippi and gave his life for his passengers. River men said Wednesday he either burned to death or was drowned when his ferry boat, the Nancy F., caught fire about 200 yards off the Arkansas side and sank.

Fifteen passengers and six members of the crew were rescued in bitter cold weather late Tuesday. Richardson was last seen aboard the burning boat buckling a life belt on a frightened six-year-old girl. He tried to comfort her and then threw her overboard near a lifeboat which picked her up. Passengers in lifeboats saw him dash back into the cabin and a minute later the Nancy F. sank into the water.

The boat, a crude oil burner, valued at $20,000, was in the ferry service between Westover and Clarkdale, Miss.

WELLESLEY GIRLS GET HARVARD MAIL

Cambridge, Mass. (AP)—Wellesley college girls have the honor—if they want to call it that—of receiving more mail from Harvard students than members of any other girls' school in the country.

A recent check-up at Harvard indicated that an average of 660 letters a day are posted from Harvard to Wellesley. Thirty missives arrive daily at Smith, and Vassar hearts are gladdened with 20. Bryn Mawr trails with a daily dozen. Radcliffe doubted to show in the check-up because Radcliffe is Harvard's next-door neighbor. At any rate, Radcliffe girls submit that although Wellesley gets the letters, Radcliffe goes to the dances.

"I am glad Mr. Chase is still with you," she said, following him to the door. "You would be lonely otherwise without Jim."

Obadiah stooped and picked up his hat which he had let slip through his awkward fingers. "Jim's due tonight. Take care of yourself and don't worry; I declare, you are looking better"—Peggy had switched on the porch light and he caught the sudden sparkle in her eyes and her heightened color.

Obadiah eyed her with unceasing admiration—to him she personified lovely, gracious girlhood. "Well, good-by," and tramped away.

DEDICATION OF LARGE BRIDGE AT CHARLESTON

Charleston, S. C. (AP)—Traditional, old-fashioned Southern hospitality created an atmosphere of carnival and good-fellowship marking the formal opening of mammoth Cooper River bridge—a 3-mile double Cantilever span—the largest bridge of its kind in the world.

Indicative of the size of the bridge, built at a cost of $6,000,000, is the fact that the distance is 1,000 feet between the supporting piers in the center of the main stream and between the piers of the lesser span 600 feet. The concrete roadway deck is 150 feet from the high water mark.

The largest ships will be able to pass under it with no inconvenience and there are not a dozen afloat which would have to lower the top mast.

Built for vehicular traffic only, the 30 foot wide concrete roadway, it is estimated, can accommodate 1,400 automobiles at a time. With the opening of the Cooper River bridge the highway routes from the far north to the far south eventually will be shortened by several score miles. The proposed improvement of the highway along the Atlantic coast from Washington to Charleston via the Cooper River bridge will eliminate 40 miles for the autoist. The bridge not only serves to shorten the distance to Charleston but also opens up a hitherto undeveloped and fertile agricultural and potentially wealthy industrial area to the west. From the inner rim of Charleston Harbor on from the outskirts of the city the huge bridge towers above the city sky line and the bridge itself resembles a monument to the skill and vision of the men who designed and built it.
