

NEARLY HALF OF M COMPANY AT ANNUAL DINNER

Forty per cent of the original Salem contribution to Co. M of the 162nd Infantry attended the annual dinner at the armory Wednesday evening on the 12th anniversary of the unit sailing for service overseas. It was decided to hold the banquet at the same place next year on December 11. Paul Hendricks presided as toastmaster. Moving pictures taken prior to Co. M's embarking for camp from here in 1917 were shown by Archie Holt. James Alexander, president of the 162nd Infantry association, of Portland, spoke of the annual regimental reunion which will be held at the armory beginning at 7:30 o'clock Saturday night. The reunion is being held in Salem this year to attract many of the men in the different valley companies outside of Portland. Reading of the company roster was by Captain Roy Neer, of Portland. Members of the company stood in silence in memory of the 15 men who failed to return home from overseas. Short talks were given by General George A. White; Captain Conrad Straffin, of Dallas, and Lieutenant Paul Wallace, of Salem. Upon adjournment members were guests of the Salem boxing commission for the bouts on the main floor of the armory. The reunion Saturday will be featured by vaudeville supplied by Archie Holt with Harry Plant in charge of the dinner.

GRUNDY TAKES SENATE SEAT AFTER YEARS

Washington (AP)—Joseph R. Grundy, in whose scheme of things a high protective tariff comes just after religion, stood Thursday with the ranks of the legislators of Capitol Hill, after a quarter of a century of intimate but unofficial association with them. Grundy, a republican, was designated by Governor Fisher of Pennsylvania to fill the seat in the senate which the members of that body considered William S. Vare unqualified to hold. Credentials were rushed to Washington by a special delegation in order that they might be admitted at the outset of Thursday's session and the oath of office administered, giving to Pennsylvania its full quota of two senators for the first time since March 4, 1927. But opposition, however weak, was brewing. Senator Nye, republican, South Dakota, was the author of a resolution framed to prevent Grundy's admission on virtually the same grounds that constituted the basis for Vare's exclusion, the circumstances of the Pennsylvania state primary campaign of 1926. Most of those who were prominent in the fight against Vare, could see no valid objection to seating Grundy. His appointment they regarded as entirely legal, constitutional and one that must be honored. From all indications, Nye was decidedly on the losing side of the controversy. Although Grundy has been constant throughout a lifetime devoted largely to the advancement of the republican party in both state and nation to remain quietly in the background, word came with the announcement that he would be a candidate for election to the senate in the primaries to be held in Pennsylvania next spring. Vare also will be a candidate and it is possible that former Governor Gifford Pinchot may enter the contest. Whenever tariff legislation has been pending in congress, Grundy with his shock of white hair and easy-going geniality has been a familiar figure at the capitol. There he is known variously as "Old Joe," "Uncle Joe," and sometimes as "the high priest of tariff protection," depending upon the tariff views of the legislators supplying the pestiferous. OFFERS PRIZE GRID SONG NOT HYMN-LIKE Boston (AP)—Because he believes there are too many hymns in the Boston University song book an unknown friend of the school has donated $75 to be used in a prize contest for songs of a more rollicking nature. "Alma Mater," hymns are taboo with the donor. He wants football marches and songs of the "Boo-boo" type. RAIN DAMAGES ROAD Donald—The hard rains washed out a new fill two miles west of here. J. H. Miller, and his road crew repaired the damage on Monday and the road is open for travel.
