

WOMEN TAKING MAYORALTY IN ENGLISH CITIES

London (AP)—Although scarcely more than a decade and a half have elapsed since the echoes of the shrill appeals of indignant suffragists have died down in this country, nine English municipalities, many of them important, today are under the executive control of women.

Even the younger generation here can still recall the days of the Pankhursts, the marches through the streets of London and the frequent arrests and the clashes with the Metropolitan police. Nevertheless one of the important sections of London, Chelsea, has a lady Mayor, and the Countess of Warwick, who has embraced the more modern doctrines of the labor party, now is the mayoress of the town of Warwick.

Seven other women who are active in the political life of the country managed to win in the recent municipal elections. And most of them won with ease.

The new executives are members of the various political wings, but the majority of them came in on the Conservative ticket. Mrs. L. E. Bidwell, of Watford; Mrs. A. F. Broad, of Telford; Mrs. S. Edward Jones, of Wrexham, and Mrs. Leonard Hereford, are staunch conservatives.

Lady Phipps gained the distinction of being elected Mayor of Chelsea, London. This was a double distinction in view of the fact that a great number of the residents of the Chelsea district are artists, writers and people of other attainments.

Mrs. Ethel E. Watworth, for some time actively connected with the labor party, won an easy victory for the mayoralty of Mansfield, 8th and the Countess of Warwick were the standard bearers for the government party.

BOTH CONFESS TO SLAYING

Mrs. Margaret Kugler and her 10-year-old son, Raymond, of West Belmar, N. J., both of whom confessed killing William Studeman as he beat Raymond's father with an axe handle. The grand jury decided the boy did it in defense of his father and exonerated both mother and son.

'PAWNEE BILL' CONSTRUCTING PIONEER TOWN

Pawnee Trading Post, Okla. (AP)—Out where the West remains, a pioneer town of 50 years ago is being built by one of the west's most colorful figures, Major Gordon W. (Pawnee Bill) Little.

On the rolling plains of northern Oklahoma surrounds the Little ranch mansion, workmen are erecting the town of Pawnee Trading Post which Major Little plans as a monument to the West.

tion in preserving and showing the old western culture which he loves. Within a few months, squatty buildings, an Indian council house, tepees and a hostelry with a wide sweeping veranda will rise within two miles of the typical western town of Pawnee.

Catholic Students Urge Example As Strongest Force For Temperance

St. Louis, Mo. (AP)—Students in Catholic colleges and high schools throughout the country have little confidence in legal methods of promoting temperance, according to a questionnaire distributed by the Queen's Work, national sodality magazine published in St. Louis.

the query thought that young abstainers, particularly girls, could effect widespread changes in attitude toward drinking, chiefly by setting the right example.

Better Health - Longer Life

GORGAS MEMORIAL INSTITUTE

THE SAFETY OF SURGERY

By C. Jeff Miller, M. D., New Orleans, Louisiana. UP To seventy-five years ago surgery was not safe. Before that time and indeed up to fifty years ago, operations performed in any hospital amounted to less than 5 per cent of the total admissions.

Today the reverse of that situation is true. Fifty per cent and more of the total hospital admissions are surgical. Men and women need no longer suffer and die from diseases which yield only to the knife, for operations of the most extensive and radical kind are undertaken deliberately.
