

NEW YEAR EVE IS NOISY ONE AT REST CAMP

Hubbard—The Silverton Community orchestra, under the direction of Hal Campbell, was the attraction at the New Year eve party given by Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Cutting, managers of the Hubbard Mineral Springs hotel. The program consisted of ensemble playing, solo and group work. Many of the numbers were dedicated to various guests at the hotel, the first one, "True Blue" being dedicated to Hy Everding who is staying at the hotel taking the mineral bath treatment for rheumatism. The orchestra appeared at this time as a courtesy to Everding.

"Billy Stepp and Mrs. Stepp, the former sports editor on the Portland Daily News, were also honored by having one of the number dedicated to them.

Four solos were played by J. Small, Miss Irene Morely and Miss Bertha Alm. All were accompanied by Hal Campbell. Miss G. Russell gave a piano solo and Miss G. Schmidt a piccolo selection. The suite "Atlantis" was played in four movements.

Dr. S. H. Sauve of Mt. Angel was introduced as one of the older men in violin teaching. He responded with a short talk on the unexpected talent that might be found in the smaller communities having particular reference to Miss Morely, one of his pupils, who now plays solo with the orchestra. During the playing of the last march, Campbell presented the baton to the doctor, who directed the playing.

Five minutes to twelve Mrs. Cutting presented each guest with a noise maker preparatory to saluting the new year. At twelve the guests joined hands in a circle and sang "Auld Lang Syne," after which the dancing began. Light refreshments were served by the hotel management.

Twenty-four of the regular orchestra members took part in the program. They were accompanied by members of their families. Talks were made during the evening by Dr. P. O. Riley who announced the program numbers; Hy Everding, Bill Stepp, Hal Campbell, Dr. Sauve. After twelve o'clock guests from a bridge party and guests from the Rebekah watch party, joined the dancers.

BEGIN REHEARSALS UPON TURNER PLAY

Turner—The program committee and cast of players to take part in the humorous play of an old-fashioned school to be presented at the meeting of the Turner Community Club on the evening of January 13, met in the high school auditorium and made final arrangements and plans. A week from Wednesday will be the first practice and the following Saturday night will be dress rehearsal. The play promises to be a scream from beginning to finish and a large attendance is anticipated.

Mt. Angel Creamery Adds 100,000 Pounds To Output For Year

Mt. Angel—A record-breaking crowd attended the annual patrons meeting of the Mt. Angel Co-operative creamery, which was held all day Tuesday in the St. Mary's school auditorium. Close to 1000 were present, coming south as far as Jordan, north to Colton, and east and west from the mountains to the Willamette river. The business men of town waited table for the farmers at the dinner dining hall.

The meeting started at 10:30 in the morning, with an educational picture film. R. J. Berning, president of the creamery, gave the welcome talk.

Marth Rostvold, vice president of the creamery, told the present that 100,000 more pounds of butter was made this year than last, and that the creamery has standing orders for all the butter and dried milk it can manufacture. The creamery closed one of its most successful years in business. During the past year they built an addition to their storage warehouse and added another 150-horsepower boiler.

F. T. Wilcox, of the Fernwood Produce Co., Portland, who has purchased butter from the creamery since its organization, told those present of the ready sale for good butter, but that poor butter was a drug on the market. Mr. Draper, of Portland, federal food inspector, gave an interesting talk on butter, and food products in general.

Senator Sam Brown, of Gervais, told of his work in the legislature which was highly enjoyed by all. "How can Oregon avail itself of the benefits of the federal marketing act," was the subject of the talk given by Paul V. Maris, O. A. C., director of the cooperative extension work. He told of instances where cooperatives have succeeded and have failed, and that they still will succeed and fail, but chances are much better for success now than they have been.

Frank Hetwer, manager of the creamery, told that the last government report showed 24 1/2 million pounds more oleomargarine used the first nine months of this year than the first nine months of last year, and that three out of every four pounds is consumed in the rural districts; and at the same time the government report shows a surplus of 40 million pounds of butter the first of December against the

MARY CRAWFORD FUNERAL RITES ARE YET UNSET

Zena—The remains of Mrs. Mary B. Crawford, who died in Los Angeles Sunday evening, arrived in Salem Wednesday and will be in charge of the Clough-Taylor company. Funeral arrangements will not be made until her daughter, Mrs. Joyce Munger of Chicago arrives. She is expected here Thursday.

Mrs. Crawford was born in Madison county, Illinois, November 21, 1857. Her father and mother were Benjamin and Matilda Culp. In 1877 she was married to W. J. Crawford and they came to Oregon and made their home at Albany. In 1887 they came to Zena and bought a farm. Her husband died in September, 1917, and since then Mrs. Crawford has spent her summers here and her winters in Chicago until three years ago. Since that time she has lived at Zena during the summers and in Salem during the winters. She has one living brother, S. H. Culp of Bethalto, Illinois. He is 83 years old.

Mrs. Crawford is survived by the following daughters and sons: Mrs. Stella Henry, with whom she made her home; Mrs. Marie Randle of Cottage Grove, Mrs. Joyce Munger of Chicago, Philo L. Crawford of Chicago, and W. Frank Crawford of Zena, and eight grandchildren.

Mrs. Crawford had been in ill health for some time, but had gone to Chicago the first part of November to visit her son and daughter there and had visited with her brother at Bethalto, Ill., and was on her way home when she suffered a stroke just before reaching Los Angeles two weeks before she died. She was a member of the Calvary Baptist church at Salem and also a member of the local chapter of Eastern Star.

Interment will be in the Spring Valley churchyard at Zena by the side of her husband. The time will be announced later.

BRIDGE IS PLAYED IN LOBBY OF HOTEL

Hubbard—Mrs. L. A. Beckman and Mrs. Ivan Stewart were joint hostesses at a New Year's eve bridge party in the old lobby of the Hubbard Springs hotel Tuesday evening. Dinner at the hotel preceded the playing. After 12 o'clock the guests were invited to the main lobby where the guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. Cutting, hotel managers, were dancing.

Guests at the bridge party were Mr. and Mrs. Ed Erickson, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Cleaver, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Stauffer, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Boj, Mr. and Mrs. George Grimm, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Stauffer, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Beckman, Mrs. Neva McTiggle and Mrs. William Little.

YEW WOOD SAMPLES UNDERGO INSPECTION

Independence—Specimens of yew wood were presented for inspection at the local office of the Spaulding Logging company by the instructor in archery at the Oregon Normal. He makes a specialty of bows and arrows, and the making of targets from straw. He made the remark that he would like to purchase several tons of yew straw each year if someone would make a specialty of growing it. The soil here is especially adapted for that sort of grain.

HEDGES ARE HOSTS

Happy New Year Says Carrier Boy Seeking Patrons

Woodburn—Woodburn has some very ambitious paper carriers.

One young man, carrier for the Capital Journal on route three, started out at 5:30 o'clock New Year's morning to collect, and he succeeded.

When asked if he found people up at that unearthly hour on a holiday Johnny replied:

"If they were not up I got them up and they came out in their bath robes."

When asked if it made the people mad he nonchalantly answered, "Oh, they didn't seem to care much."
