Los Angeles (AP)—Former President Calvin Coolidge and Mrs. Coolidge were introduced to ham and egg breakfast club here Wednesday. "Hello Ham," Mrs. Coolidge addressed the customary club greeting to Governor C. C. Young.

The former president smiled. "The club song leader called for 'Ham and Eggs' which is carried in the song book 'Fammy' and Mrs. Coolidge joined 2000 members and guests in singing:

"Ham-and-eggs, ham-and-eggs! I like mine fried good and brown. I like mine fried upside down. Ham-and-eggs! Ham-and-eggs!"

Mr. Coolidge put on his glasses and scanned the text of the song but made no attempt to join in the singing.

The importance of this property to the navy department, due to its strategic location and other considerations, is still as great as it was at the time it was conveyed to the United States but existing circumstances demand that it be retained in an inactive status.

"In view of the foregoing it is recommended that the bill be not enacted."

Washington (AP)—"Labor," weekly organ of the National Railway Brotherhoods, Wednesday credited two young men, Paul R. Mallon of the United Press Association, and Senator Robert M. LaFollette, republican, Wisconsin, with responsibility "for the fact that the nomination of Charles Evans Hughes to be chief justice was debated in the open with the entire country listening in."

Mallon, chief of the United Press capital staff, secured and published last May 18 the secret roll call on former Senator Lenroot to be customs judge. For 140 years previously, the senate debated and voted on nominations secretly.

After the roll call was published, Mallon refused to disclose the source of his information under questioning by a senate committee, the paper related. Then La Follette led the fight which resulted in the change in rules to allow the roll call to be conducted in the open.

NAY OPPOSES REPAYMENT FOR TONGUE POINT

Portland (AP)—Regarding the Tongue Point site as a base for submarines and destroyers just as important as it ever was although it is maintained on an inactive basis, the navy department opposes the bill of Senator Steiwer to pay Clatsop county $100,000 as reimbursement for money expended in acquiring the land and donation to the government, according to a dispatch received Wednesday from the Oregon Journal.

This information, the dispatch said, was conveyed to the chairman of the committee on claims in a letter from Ernest Lee Jahneke, assistant secretary of the navy, reporting his disapproval of the steps taken toward establishing the base and concluding as follows:

"Thereafter the navy department constructed certain waterway improvements at a total cost of $133,190, but the development of the site for submarine and destroyer base was never completed. The property has remained inactive and is being held in reserve by the navy department to be available in case of emergency."

"It is inferred that the donation of this land to the United States for the purpose of a submarine and destroyer base was due largely to anticipation that the base would benefit from the resulting business to a sufficient extent to compensate it for its expense. However, the base has been inactive and such resulting business has not materialized."

"The importance of this property to the navy department, due to its strategic location and other considerations, is still as great as it was at the time it was conveyed to the United States but existing circumstances demand that it be retained in an inactive status."

"The navy department does not consider it desirable to establish a practice of reimbursing Clatsop county in any amount on account of the purchase by it of this tract of land."

"In view of the foregoing it is recommended that the bill be not enacted."

CLAIM UNFAIR SALE TACTICS BY UTILITIES

the purpose of making power and gas service investigations, agents of the power and gas companies have made a list of all the electrical and gas appliances in each home served and turned the data over to sales agents to be used as prospect lists.

The city, it is claimed, has been divided into district and appliance salesmen assigned to each to work on the prospects listed.

An even more serious abuse, the independent dealers say, is the practice of the gas and power companies of charging the expenses of their sales departments to operating agencies that form a part of the structure upon which gas and power rates are fixed.

The effect of this latter practice, the independent dealers say, is to guarantee the gas and power companies against any loss from bad accounts, enable them to solicit business on deferred payment plans beyond the reach of the small dealers and shift the burden of expense from their own sales departments onto the shoulders of the public users of gas and power.

The contention of the independent dealers before the public service commission, and in the courts if court action becomes necessary, will be that the utility companies should be compelled to operate their appliance and supply departments entirely separate from their service business, and that they should be forbidden to charge any part of the expenses of their appliance departments to operating agencies.

A further contention contemplated is that the data regarding appliances secured through service surveys, made possible through the access given utility service agents to private homes, should either be restricted to use for service purposes only or made available to all dealers in appliances.

The meeting here Tuesday evening was, it was explained, only a preliminary conference in a movement to organize all of the independent appliance dealers in the Willamette valley in a fight on the abuses practiced by the utility departments.

"Conditions in this line in Salem are not nearly so serious as in other valley cities," said one local dealer, "and we are simply starting a movement that is to embrace dealers from all parts of the valley."

The federal trade commission is now making an investigation along these lines, it is asserted and some states have already passed laws

MILES CLAIMS BAIL MONEY LAWYER'S FEE

Charges are made in complaint filed in circuit court by Hugh McMaster of Portland, against Donald W. Miles, local attorney, that Miles, at one time attorney for Peter Beyer, accused under a criminal charge, drew down $500 bail money after a dismissal of the Beyer case and converted it to his own use. Miles, when the complaint was called to his attention stated that the $500 was taken by him as an attorney fee which Beyer had agreed to pay which became Beyer's by right of a mortgage given to McMaster to cover a loan made to secure the money to post as bail.

Beyer's affairs received quite prominent attention a few years ago," stated Miles, in explaining the case. "He was a butter and cheese maker, an expert one, employed by various creameries in the city. He was made manager of the creamery at St. Paul and after a time a dispute arose about his wages. As a result he paid himself out of the funds what he thought he had due and the creamery claimed he was $2500 short in his account and had him arrested for embezzlement. I came to me and I agreed to defend him for $500. He got in touch with several people, among them Hugh McMaster, who came up here and posted the $500 bail, taking a mortgage from Beyer covering considerable personal property and the mortgage is on record in this county here. I got Beyer out of this scrape."

"Later Beyer came up here and took some of the mortgaged property, or it was claimed he did, and he was arrested again for larceny by baillee. He came back to me and I agreed to take his case under the same fee. Beyer was again released and he was released as well. I took it for my fee. The money was Beyer's, he gave a mortgage to McMaster to release it and he had a right to release it to me as attorney's fee. I think this will be shown if the case should come to trial."

YOUTH RACING AGAINST DEATH THROUGH SNOW

The Pas, Man. (AP)—Every resource of the north Wednesday sped to aid Bud Stewart, youthful musher, as he raced with death across the prairie, his seven dog husky team hauling the emancipated and barely living frame of Egatook, an Eskimo trapper.

Egatook was caught in a raging blizzard in the Churchill region February 12 and he crawled back to his cabin with both legs and one arm frozen. When mesgar medical attention at the outpost settlement failed, Steward loaded the Eskimo in his sled and set out for The Pas, 1100 miles away.

Word of the race with death reached here late Tuesday. Mounted police, Hudson Bay and National Railway officials and Indian agents laid their plans to aid the rescue.

A special 2,000 ton engine was dispatched from Mile 130 and sped toward the winter terminus of the Hudson bay railroad with medical supplies to stop the spread of deadly mesgar.

It was hoped the crew of the engine would spy the desperately plodding dog sled, take the two men aboard and arrive here in time to place the suffering man in a hospital.

WATER SHORT IN CALIFORNIA

Southern California is facing a water shortage that has reached an alarming stage with prospects that even if the proposed Boulder dam project in the Colorado river is carried through to completion in the next 15 years, the amount of water that will be available in California will be less than needed today, R. V. Hendricks, veteran Salem newspaperman, told the Rotary club Wednesday noon.

No secret is being made of the situation and its facts are being broadcast even through the newspapers. Other projects now under way to help relieve the present condition are not sufficient to provide water for the municipal district of Los Angeles. Due to a shrinkage of the water table, as great as 80 feet in places, farms are returning to the desert as tenants are unable to purchase machinery heavy enough to raise the water to the surface.

Hendricks described his first two weeks' vacation in many years as a period of "work" as he was engaged in getting information concerning the "Mission Play" with a view of staging some similar event in Salem in 1934 in connection with the 100th anniversary of the establishment of the first mission in Oregon about 10 miles north of Salem. That the old mission site may become the property of the state in a few weeks was stated by Hendricks who added that he had received offers from individuals to fence the site and other similar historic sites. Hendricks said he might not write the play himself, but wanted to see that his spirit was true to pioneer days.

MINER BURIED 24 HOURS SAVED

Winnipeg, Man. (AP)—Details of the rescue of Frank Bombardier, when he had been entombed more than 24 hours by a cave-in at the Green Hill coal mine near Blairmore, Alberta, and of the struggle to reach his companion, Frank Chesek, came in fragments over telephone wires whipped by mountain storms.

Near colleagues from the strain of his burial alive, Bombardier was brought out by the mine Tuesday. He was unable to give rescuers any information regarding Chesek and it was feared the latter had been crushed to death by falling rock.

Other miners toiled throughout the night removing tons of shale and rock that blocked the mine passages.

Blairmore is a mining village on the border line of Alberta and British Columbia, 60 miles north of the international boundary.

SHRINE VOTE $50,000 IMPROVE HOSPITALS

St. Louis, Mo. (AP)—An appropriation of $50,000 to be expended for improvements to six of the Shrine's 15 hospitals for crippled children was announced Tuesday after an inspection of the hospital here and a meeting of Shrine officials headed by Leo V. Youngworth, imperial potentate.

Hospitals to be benefited are in Springfield, Mass.; Montreal, Shreveport, Portland, Philadelphia, and the one serving the Twin cities, Minneapolis and St. Paul.

Chicago Shrine announced the signing of a 10 year lease on a stadium there for each Thanksgiving, when a football game similar to the East-West game held at San Francisco on New Year's day, will be staged for the benefit of the hospitals. The west coast games netted funds $50,000 it was estimated, while a football game at Atlanta added $25,000 to the amount.

Fire starting from an over-heated motor in the bunkers of the Salem Sand and Gravel company Tuesday evening was extinguished by the central fire department. Considerable damage was done to the motor and building, but firemen expressed the belief that $500 would cover the cost of repairs.

VIKING REVIEW AT SCHOOL MARCH 13

A "Viking" review with 75 people in the cast and a number of short acts and choruses will be presented in the high school auditorium Thursday, March 13, in order to acquaint students with the recently selected high school cognomen. The signet part of the ring will be in the form of a square, with the word "Salem" in raised letters across the top flanked by a large "S" and "H" and featured by a Viking's head.

The members of the standardized ring committee announce that the rings will be ready in 10 days at a local jeweler. Members of the committee are Kathryn Gouley, Jean Eartridge, Ruth Chapman, Betty Mae Hartung, Bob King and Milton James.

PRESIDENT TO OPEN LONGVIEW BRIDGE

Longview, Wash. (AP)—President Hoover will press a golden key in the White House, March 29, and will officially open the Longview-Rainier bridge to traffic, it was announced Wednesday.

An invitation extended to the president to press the key at 2 p.m. (P. S. T.) was accepted late Tuesday through Jack Underwood, Washington, D. C., representative of the Seattle chamber of commerce.

TERROR REIGN IN CHICAGO NOT YET IN CONTROL

Chicago (AP)—Bomb, chemical and gasoline explosions roared out in scattered parts of the city early Wednesday, spreading flames in two structures that caused more than $25,000 damage.

A half block of ruins marked the spot where the building had stood that housed the Eagle Sheet Metal Manufacturing company, the Paragon laundry and the Samoline corporation, manufacturers of cleaning compounds.

There the major explosion, at least a dozen in number, accompanied a fire fed by chemicals in the cleaning compound plant.

The 18th bomb of 1930 shattered the front of the Cosmo Products, Inc. building in "Little Bohemia" on the west side. The blast did heavy damage to the structure and to its contents, manufactured cosmetics and proprietary medicine stocks.

On the northwest side, an explosion following fire in the rear of a lunch room aroused residents for blocks. Police arrested John Diamond who lived above the place, after a five gallon gasoline can was found in the debris.

The stock of highly volatile chemicals in the cleaning compound plant caused the major explosions, firemen said. They were harassed by fumes.

WAR WHOOPS IN U. S. COURT

Portland, Ore. (AP)—Elmo Lobart's war whoops went along nicely in federal district court here Wednesday until Judge Bean frowned over his glasses, as judges have a peculiarity of doing, and then Elmo calmed down to hear the state charge his friend, Linden Cowen, Klamath reservation Indian, with beating Mrs. Cowen over the head with a hammer.

Without any provocation or visible ambition, Elmo danced around the judge's dais in real Indian fashion, intermittently he emitted piercing screams which made a Comanche blush with shame.

Mrs. Cowen, married and with her daughter, attended in the courtroom and heard the state charge her husband with beating her over the head after an alleged family squabble.

Bernice Lobart, Cowen's stepdaughter and a relative of Elmo, is said to have participated in the family argument and she accompanied her mother to testify against Cowen.

The trial proceeded peacefully the remainder of the day.
