

HALL ANNOUNCE CANDIDACY AND TELLS POLICIES

Charles Hall of Marshfield, state senator from Coos and Curry counties, formally announced his candidacy throughout Oregon Thursday for the republican nomination for governor at the primaries, May 18. Mr. Hall said he would file with Secretary of State Ross within the next few days.

Hall announced that he would favor highway program completion, reorganization of state government, economy in state government and a readjustment of tax assessment. He pledged himself to support conservation of fish and game resources. He said that if elected he would favor statewide enforcement of the prohibition laws, which he characterized as "an executive problem requiring eternal vigilance."

Mr. Hall's platform calls for a unifying of all forces in the state looking toward Oregon's development.

"If elected I should feel the chief executive has a specific mandate from Oregon citizens to urge increased energy, greater vision and enhanced courage on the part of all citizens looking towards Oregon's progress. I ask that Oregon discard its 'inferiority complex' and tell the entire world the truth about the state. In such a program the governor can take an effective part with entire propriety."

"I confidently feel that Oregon with all of its cherished history, in the eye of newer and greater progress," said Mr. Hall in making his announcement. "I sense an attitude among the thinking people of the state, a wish that the basic industries of Oregon be strengthened, her lands be made more productive, her progress be enhanced. It would be my wish to urge such development insofar as a wise administration of the many business activities of the state's government effect this future, and insofar as the same and progressive leadership of a governor may be of lasting effect."

Senator Hall's campaign organization will center in Portland where offices were opened last week. Mr. Hall himself will be active throughout the state up to the time of the primary.

A Hall-for-Governor club with representatives in all the principal towns in Oregon is soon to be formed, according to the Hall organization leaders.

REFORM SCHOOL BOYS AUTO THIEFS

Olympia, Wash. (AP)—After an exciting chase through downtown streets, J. G. Buchanan, 20, and Frank Peterson, 19, both of whom have served sentences in the Oregon state reformatory, were arrested here early Wednesday for auto theft and carrying concealed weapons.

The youths confessed to police they had stolen an automobile in Tacoma and were en route to Portland. Officers Roper and Hoage were attracted to the pair when they raced through the downtown district oblivious to traffic and arterial stops. The chase began when they refused to stop on command.

The youths ditched the car when the police automobile approached near, and fled on foot, but were captured almost immediately. A revolver which one of them had thrown away was found later.

The Romance of Coffee

We are told that during the 14th and 15th century, the coffee drink was a popular brew among the churchmen. After roasting, the beans were crushed in a mortar with pestle and then boiled with water which was consumed grounds and all. At the beginning of the 16th century, a law was passed by the Governor of Mecca prohibiting the use of coffee. After a number of years, the Sultan of Cairo ordered this prohibition law revoked and the official responsible for the appalling conditions resulting from his law, was tortured to death after being exposed as "an extortioner and a public robber."

It is interesting to note, in view of our present prohibition problems, that although an attempt was made to close coffee houses, the authorities throughout the country, finding it useless and perhaps difficult to enforce the law and to destroy the custom of coffee drinking, winked at violations of the law, took bribes and allowed coffee to be sold privately. "Blind Pigs" and "Speakeasies" quickly came into existence and coffee was sold and consumed behind closed doors in back rooms, much like the present custom of dispensing liquor which prevails throughout our own country at this time; and, of course, the various phases and methods of coffee bootlegging were indulged in. This was enough to reestablish the coffee houses by degrees, and after many years of lawlessness and agitation, the prohibition law was repealed. Long before the end of the 16th century, Italian, Dutch, German and French travelers returned to their homes with strange stories about the new drink of the Orient. Before 1700, the novelty of the new coffee drink spread throughout the Old World. Coffee houses were opened in England, Holland, Germany, France and Italy.
