A jury in justice court late Monday found Theron Millard, an employee of the American Lumber & Milling company, not guilty of a charge of killing deer out of season. The defendant was accused by four former employees of the concern, who testified that they came across Millard on the Elk lake trail above the mining camp, carrying a female deer on his back. They testified to having seen another doe which they claim Millard admitted to having killed. The defense in its cross-examination brought out the fact that the four men had quit the mining company because of alleged poor living quarters. It was contended by attorneys for Millard that the charge against the defendant was inspired in a spirit of revenge.

The regular season of the Salem school board will be held Tuesday night in the office of the superintendent of schools. As far as is known on the calendar kept by Superintendent Hug, only routine matters are scheduled to be brought before the board.

Max Haley has filed suit for divorce against Jim Haley alleging cruel and inhuman treatment. They were married in Salem in 1928.

G. W. Laflar has filed his answer to three damage actions brought by George Smith, Marie Smith and James K. Nash growing out of an automobile accident on the Pacific highway in which all involved were badly hurt and large damages were asked. Laflar states the three were in his car on a trip to view some property near Harrington, that in passing another car it struck some loose gravel and the accident occurred and he asserts the accident was of an unavoidable nature and asks dismissal of the complaints.

When, and also if, Captain John A. Macready, noted flier, visits Salem one person here will be exceptionally pleased for an opportunity to chat with the visitor. During war times while in training Jack Elliott, of Salem, and John Macready were both engaged in the mystery of ground school instruction and also in flying. Elliott was in the class just ahead of Macready, a matter of about two weeks. Captain Macready, in a personal telephone conversation with R. H. Inman, manager of the Shell Oil company, states that he will stop at the municipal airport on his return flight to San Francisco.

Marriage licenses: John N. Bocarath, 19, Gladys Johnston, 19, both of Salem. Walter E. Stram, 23, Eugene and Thelma LaDuke, 19, Mill City.

Russell K. Cole, alias Ray C. Watson, an employee of the state highway department is charged with drunk and also in flying. Elliott was in the class just ahead of Macready, a matter of about two weeks. Captain Macready, in a personal telephone conversation with R. H. Inman, manager of the Shell Oil company, states that he will stop at the municipal airport on his return flight to San Francisco.

Ensign Bronie, former army flier, who with Lt. Smith attacked considerable attention several months ago in a successful flight from the mainland of the United States to the outer fringes of the Hawaiian Islands, was expected to arrive in Salem Tuesday afternoon or Wednesday, for a visit of at least two weeks or more. While here Bronie, who is now affiliated with the Associated Oil company, will supervise the construction of a service station for the company at the Salem municipal airport. Bronie will arrive in his Boeing airplane type plane.

LANE OILING ROADS
Eugene (AP)—Preparations for the county road oiling work this summer are being completed here while officials await fair weather. About 90 miles more of county road will be added to the oiling program this year. Gravel has been crushed and placed beside a number of roads that are slated to be oiled.

Chaplains Criticized

Dr. Peter Ainslie (below), Baltimore minister, criticized army chaplains at a Lenten sermon in Washington. His remarks brought a rebuke from Rev. Jason Noble Pierce (above), President Coolidge's former pastor, in whose church sermon was delivered.

Long have Concord and Lexington engaged in friendly rivalry for the distinction of being the scene of that epochal event, and with Massachusetts celebrating its tercentenary anniversary this year, the controversy has been enlivened.

Despite Ralph Waldo Emerson's poem which described the firing of the shot at Concord Bridge, contemporary historians for the most part appear to favor Lexington's claim.

The principal basis for this town's contention lies in the inscription, "I'll Give Them the Contents of My Gun," which appears on the monument on the Ashburnham estate.

Evidence includes a deposition by Ebenezer Munroe, describing the events of April 19, 1775. He was alarmed, he states, at about 2 a.m. and immediately repaired to the Common. There, Captain Parker ordered the roll called and every man to load his gun with powder and ball. The men were then dismissed but ordered to remain within call of the drum.

About daybreak, according to the deposition, there was a call to arms, and as the men assembled on the Common, the British approached to within eight rods. A British officer called the Americans "rebels" and ordered them to disperse. When the command was ignored, the British troops fired.

Corporal John Munroe remarked to Ebenezer Munroe, who was beside him, that the British had fired nothing but powder. Ebenezer replied that it was more than powder because he had suffered a wound in his arm, and he added that the pain was like the guts of his gun. This, many historians contend, was the shot that was heard 'round the world.

That Ebenezer Munroe actually was wounded in the battle on Lexington Common has been well established by the discovery of a copy of the "Massachusetts Spy," or American Oracle of Liberty," published in Worcester just 14 days after the battle. The casualty list published in connection with the report of the battle includes Munroe's name among the wounded.

APLIN PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO CHARGE

C. B. Aplin entered a plea of not guilty, while J. J. McNamara pled guilty in justice court Tuesday to a charge of unlawful possession of intoxicating liquor as the result of a raid staged Monday night by state and county officers on a pool hall which the two men have been operating at St. Paul.

A small quantity of liquor was seized by the arresting officers, although some of the stuff was poured into a sink by Aplin immediately following the entrance of the prohibition men. Officers expressed the opinion that Aplin was the one who was actually dispensing liquor over an old pre-Volstead bar, while McNamara, the proprietor had knowledge of the sales.

Aplin will be given a jury trial later on. He was taken to the county jail in lieu of $500 bail and shortly afterwards taken to a hospital where it was found he was in a condition bordering on delirium tremens. McNamara was scheduled to be sentenced Tuesday afternoon.

NEGRO BLAMES HABIT FOR HASTY ACTIONS

Bristol, Va., (AP)—Among those present when the grand jury of Bristol corporation court convened will be Walter Dert, negro, technically charged with bringing stolen goods into Virginia, or rather from the Tennessee side of the city to the Virginia side.

According to officers who arrested him, Walter showed signs of extreme perturbation when he met a policeman of State Street and dropped two chickens from beneath his coat. He ran and was not captured until he was pulled out of a creek into which he had dived.

The chickens are said to have been identified as property of a Bristol, Tenn., resident. Hence the charge of bringing stolen goods into Virginia.

REALTORS TOLD OF POLK COUNTY SOIL CONDITION

Polk county soil conditions and the growing of fruits and nuts featured the pre-vacation meeting of the Salem Realty board Monday night. Robert Shinn, agricultural expert of the United States National bank, spoke of handling various types of soil in the county across the river, while Frank Coe, farm advisor for the First National bank, discussed walnuts and filberts. He held there is little fear of over-production.

William McGilchrist, Jr., expressed faith in logberry growing, providing that the market is not glutted again. In the face of conditions during the last few years, McGilchrist believes that the fruit can be made to pay if proper care is given to insure a heavy tonnage. Introduction of the cold pack method of handling fruit will open new uses for the fruit, he believes.

The reality board adjourned until fall, meeting again early in October.

HISTORY AND POETRY BASIS FOR ARGUMENT

Lexington, Mass., (AP)—The shot heard 'round the world is still reverberating through this historic town despite the fact that it was fired 155 years ago.

Long have Concord and Lexington engaged in friendly rivalry for the distinction of being the scene of that epochal event, and with Massachusetts celebrating its tercentenary anniversary this year, the controversy has been enlivened.

RUBBER EXPERIMENTS MAY BE TRIED SOON

Washington (AP)—Experiments to grow rubber trees in the United States for economic use may find success in plants native to southern Madagascar.

About 25 young trees brought from that island more than a year ago are now flourishing under the scientific eye of the bureau of plant industry of the department of agriculture.

Transplanted at Bard, Cal., and near San Diego, as well as near Miami, Fla., all the plants survived under natural climatic conditions.

In Madagascar where the trees have become practically extinct through commercial exploitation, they reach a maximum height of 24 feet with a maximum stem diameter of nearly nine inches, although generally these dimensions are less.

HUBBARD SHOWS INCREASE OF 10 IN PAST DECADE

The population of Hubbard has increased 10 persons during the past decade, census figures released by divisional headquarters here Tuesday show. A complete check of the north Marion county town shows that the present population of Hubbard is 330. In 1920 there were 320 persons enumerated there.

Mr. Angel has shown a decline of 50 during the past 10 years. In 1920 there were 936 persons there while the present census gives the population as 886.

R. J. Hendricks, district appraiser stated Tuesday that he would be pleased if persons would ascertain if the district in which they live have been checked before they have not been enumerated. Eight out of the 14 Salem districts have not been completed, Hendricks states. It will probably be the first of May before they are finished.

In most cases estimates made by the local office here in connection with the population of Salem are being exceeded, Hendricks in a statement Monday before the chamber of commerce predicted Salem's population would show at least 25,000. It is likely this will be exceeded.

Census figures as of Friday, April 18 show the following figures: Marion county, 2,338 names; Polk 371; Tillamook 238, and Yamhill 694. Of Marion county's total, 1215 were tabulated from Salem.

Mrs. Ona Buchanan of McMinnville turned in the greatest number of names on the 18th, with a total of 109. Mrs. H. V. Greene of Salem was second with 153.

5 FIRES CALL OUT FIRE DEPARTMENT

Five fire alarms were answered Monday night and Tuesday morning by the downtown fire department. None of the blazes were of a serious nature, although the one which started beneath a grating in the alley adjacent to the Capitol heater and spread to the wall in the rear of the structure, might have proven serious if it had not been promptly discovered. Patrons of the show were not disturbed while firemen chopped a hole in the wall in order to get at the flames. The ventilating system of the show house quickly removed what little smoke had seeped into the auditorium.

An automobile on fire at 3200 South 12th street about 11 p. m. was extinguished by the use of chemicals after the machine had been quite badly singed. The other three blazes were chimney fires. They were in dwellings at 685 South Church, 1510 North Summer and 990 Garnet street.

SANTIAM CRUSHER SITE IS SELECTED

The county court has decided on the location of its new rock crusher on the Santiam river and will install it on a bar on property belonging to L. D. Brown, formerly Salem attorney, now in California. Brown has written the county court authorizing use of the bar and all the gravel the county cares to take out of it for improvement. The rock will be used mainly on the Marion-West Stayton market road improvement and it is expected rock will be hauled out for two years from the bar for two years at least. The rock also will be used on district roads adjoining the market road improvement and will give them a chance to make general improvement on all district roads in that vicinity with cheaply hauled rock.

The crusher will be at the site of the old Golden ferry southwest of West Stayton and east of Marion.

VETO SUSTAINED
Washington (AP)—An attempt to over-ride President Hoover's veto of an act authorizing coinage of silver half dollars for the 75th anniversary of the Gadsden purchase, failed in the house Tuesday. The attempt was the first of its kind during the Hoover administration.

Baker, Ore., (AP)—An albino gopher, said to be an extremely rare type of rodent, has been captured on a ranch at Unity by Harry Murray. The animal was displayed in the office of County Agent Morse.

LABOR QUIZZES CANDIDATE FOR LEGISLATURE

Five of the 17 candidates for senate and house seats from Marion county responded in person and another in writing to the invitation of the legislative committee of the Salem Trades and Labor council to appear before it Monday evening to state their positions as regards the planks in the legislative platform of the state federation of labor.

Robin Day, Mark Poulson of Silverton, Lars Bergsvick, James Mott and Otto Paulus, all candidates for republican nomination for representative, were the four to appear before the committee in person. Dr. P. O. Riley of Hubbard sent in a written statement of his position relative to the topics upon which the committee asked a statement by the candidates.

The program upon which the candidates are requested to state their views includes: Support of a free text book law. Support of a bill establishing a state system of old age pensions. Ratification of the federal child labor amendment.

Restriction of labor injunctions. A law which will give the state labor commissioner more power in the collection of wages. Support of a bill increasing the salary of the state labor commissioner.

Increased compensation for industrial workers injured by accident and the inclusion of occupational diseases as injuries subject to compensation.

Support of a bill to outlaw "yellow dog" contracts. Support of the personal income tax bill adopted by the last legislature and referred to the people. Support of the proposed constitutional amendment increasing the pay of members of the legislature.

Support of a federal law placing Mexico under the same quota provisions as now apply to European nations. Urge restrictions against immigration from the Philippines.

A further meeting to consider the position of the legislature with date on this program is scheduled for next Monday evening.

PLANTS CLOSE TO HELP FISH

Oregon City—Officials of manufacturing plants announced here Tuesday they would cooperate with the state fish commission in closing down week-ends for the purpose of creating more water at the falls to allow salmon to ascend the fish ladder enroute to the spawning grounds.

Mill operators expected to shut down intakes to increase the central flow. Thousands of salmon have gathered at the foot of the falls awaiting a rise in the river to aid them in crossing the falls to the upper grounds. Commercial fishermen have complained to the game commission that the usual run has not appeared, while sportsmen below the falls have experienced poor fishing.

There were 1,000 fishermen on the river Sunday. But 300 fish were caught.

BREITENBUSH ROAD BEING IMPROVED

Road work on the Breitenbush improvement is moving ahead with great rapidity, according to word telephoned to the county court by District Forester Hall of Albany who stated that 200 yards of rock were put on the road the first day that rocking started. He stated that the crew in the mountains were not being bothered with the rains which has held up road work for a few days in the valley and the work is going ahead fine.

The county has a small shovel which it has sent in to help the government on the work, states the forester. The stretch of road to be rocked is 13 miles from Detroit to Breitenbush.

DECLINE IN RANK

San Francisco (UP)—The khaki-colored motorcar that once carried Gen. John J. Pershing over his shell-torn roads of France has been pressed into service once again in the interests of former doughboys.

It was loaned by the present owner, William R. Rice, founder of a reputable cule in the Santa Cruz mountains, to the American Legion for that organization's 40th celebration here, May 15 to 17.

TO RUSH TREATY
Washington (AP)—President Hoover announced Tuesday that the London naval agreement would be sent to the senate for ratification immediately upon its arrival in Washington.
