BUTTER PRICES ADVANCE 1 TO 2 CENTS A POUND

Portland (AP)—Advance in the butter market was almost general throughout the United States during the last 24 hours.

On the Portland produce exchange there was a further rise of 1 to 2 cents pound for cubes while butterfat showed a general advance of one cent pound for the day.

The advance in the price of butter here was one cent except for the extreme low grade, which advanced two cents. The latter was somewhat of a surprise in view of the fact that there has been a scramble for top score recently. However, some of the retail shops are trying to sell butter as cheaply as possible and score means little or nothing to them.

This has brought forth agitation for a law which will compel the labeling of butter with the score. At this time the public has no protection and can be sold cold storage butter as fresh make.

The advance in butterfat is generally maintained although there are reports of a milk war about to start.

There was practically no change in the trading price for eggs locally for the day. An outside co-op was reported as having met the recent advance quoted by Manager Dixon of the Pacific co-ops and a general firming up on the tone is indicated.

Demand for live chickens is taking care of whatever stuff is now offering from the country. Prices are unchanged but there is a fair showing of strength for light weight broilers and colored stock.

Strength in the market for country killed calves has forced extreme top quality lights to 18 cents. A new high for recent movement hogs are steady at 15 cents while sheep and lambs are easy, especially lambs.

Cut of around 25 cents crate is announced generally in the price of cantaloupes here with Dillard stock $2-2.75 and Wapato $1.25-1.50 crate. Dillard stock quality is meeting all expectations.

Advance of 25 cents per hundred pounds is announced here for onions. According to Manager McLaughlin of the Pacific Fruit, it is impossible to secure needs at Walla Walla while Yakima will not start for a week or ten days. In the meantime some local stock is due.

According to the West Coast Fruit Co., the Oregon filbert nut crop is showing excellent prospects. Already advance orders F. S. S. are sufficient to take the entire tonnage.

Demand for potatoes is still increasing but there continues a lack of general offering at Pacific northwest sources of carload lots. Local stock is still taking care of most needs of the home trade.

Watermelons are lower again.

Price of sugar is down another nickel.

Lemons are off 50 cents case with general sales $10.

GROWER'S COST OF PRODUCTION IS PROFIT CLUE

Corvallis (AP)—While the pear growers' profits depends on the difference between market price and cost of production, the latter is largely within the growers' control, believe Oregon Experiment station specialists who have just compiled data obtained in a three-year study of the cost and efficiency factors in producing pears in the Rogue River valley.

As yield is the dominant factor affecting production cost per box of pears, the grower's major problem is efficiency in those practices which are within their control and which increase the yield, they point out. These practices include the amount, kind and method used in cultivation, fertilization, spraying, orchard heating, pruning, blight control and irrigation.

Labor has been found the largest single cost item, representing 45 per cent of the total, with interest on investment comprising 25 per cent, general expenses 10 per cent, materials and depreciation each even per cent and machinery six per cent.

The average investment in bearing pears in the Rogue district is $1000 per acre. The size of the business was shown to have a pronounced influence on the farm income, as the greater volume of sales from the larger orchards provided a higher farm income for the operators, although the labor income per acre was less than from the smaller orchards. The 20 per cent most profitable farms had 57 acres of bearing pears, while the average farm had but 39 acres.

A detailed report of the findings resulting from this study has just been issued in pamphlet form by Ralph S. Reese, farm management specialist, W. S. Brown, horticulturist, and L. P. Wilcox, Jackson county agent.

VICTIM IS IMPROVING

Stayton—Mrs. Merton Burson of Mill City who has been seriously ill with blood poisoning in her hand for nine weeks was brought to the hospital and is improving nicely under the care of Dr. Brewer.

COAST SCHOOLS LIKED

Independence —Mr. and Mrs. Roland Johnson who have been spending the summer at Foster with his parents, will teach in Newport this next season. They had schools in Taft last year, and like the coast climate very much.

VISIT AMITY FRIENDS

Amity —Lee Reynolds and daughter Miss Reynolds of Portland were Amity callers at the J. M. Umphette home Tuesday morning. Reynolds and Umphette were employed at the same place in Portland for several years. The Reynolds were invited to the coast for a vacation.

BOSTON WOOL

Boston (UP) — The Boston wool market report issues Thursday by the local office of the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture follows:

"Sales of wool are very scattered and limited in volume. Prices, however, are firm and mills are steadily taking deliveries of recent purchases including both raw wool and wool tops. The limited current transactions are mostly on 58s 60s and finer western wools but these lines are slower than for several weeks. Members of the trade are feeling confident regarding values even though trade is slowing up."

LABISH ONIONS NOT EXPECTED TO MOVE EARLY

Little movement of onions from the Lake Labish section is expected until later in the fall after Walla Walla crop has been disposed of, L. S. Hayes of the Hayes farms, Lake Labish, stated Thursday. The Labish onions are being harvested and stored in warehouses in that district awaiting a more favorable market, Hayes says. The Walla Walla onion must be put on the market immediately after reaching maturity because they are not of a good quality. The eastern market has not revived to any great extent, onions being quoted there at $1.75, while freight of $1.10 a hundred must be deducted.

The mint crop on the Hayes' holdings is a good one this year, although some fields in that section are below the average. Just what the oil will bring this year is an uncertain matter, Hayes believes. He has heard rumors that lack of moisture in the large mint producing eastern states has cut down the yield to a large extent. Hayes has nothing official on this however, since the government does not issue bulletins on mint.

ROBINSON CALLED TO START RELIEF

loan set-up as a knotty financial problem. They must work without any but general authority from congress and must refrain from using federal funds except such as are indirectly available.

Friends of Mr. Hoover believe the same credit plan used in Arkansas, Mississippi and Louisiana during the Mississippi river flood will be employed.

Under the plan, bankers and leading citizens of each state would organize groups to endorse notes which would be accepted by the intermediate credit banks. The banks would issue debentures to cover their advance.

Secretary of Agriculture Hyde, is preparing to lend some immediate seed loan assistance to farmers in certain states. He had discovered his department has a surplus of $800,000 remaining from a $6,000,000 appropriation made by congress a year ago to enable southeastern farmers to get seed loans directly from the government.

HOP OUTLOOK GOOD

Brush Creek —Hoppicking at the George Elton farm will begin Thursday of this week, according to present plans. Other yards in this neighborhood and in Bethany will also begin this week. Some of the growers are reporting that they have the finest crops of hops that they have ever had. Elton expects to have about eight days picking in early hops.

EINAR OLSEN GUEST

Silverton—Einar Olsen, who manages a store at Egagik, Alaska, and his sister, Mrs. A. W. Williams of Hubbard, spent the first of the week at the M. J. Madson home on Paradise Alley. Olsen is spending a month in the states. He and his sister both were former Silverton residents.

GOING TO COLFAX

Brush Creek—Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Krug and two children, Dale and Donna, plan to leave the last part of the week for Colfax where they will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Mader. Maders formerly lived in the Evergreen district. They have lived at Colfax for almost ten years.

LEAVE FOR YAKIMA

Hopmere —Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Grayson and son George have gone to Yakima where they expect to remain for some time during the apples, and pear picking season.

MISS BILLINGS ILL

West Salem—Aunt Mary Billings suffered a severe heart attack Tuesday. Her physician administered a heart tonic which relieved her for the time being and she is somewhat better.

HARVEST UNDER WAY

Hopmere—Families are gathering in to the Evergreen berry patches and picking will soon begin. Threshing is now on in full blast, the Joe Fitts machine started threshing for Egan brothers Monday. Bruce Jones will thresh Tuesday, the Goulets and Martins and Finney crops will all be threshed this week. Hay bailing was finished here Saturday.

TOUR IRRIGATED VALLEY FARMS -- NEXT MONDAY

Approximately 200 Marion county farmers and irrigation experts are expected to leave Salem next Monday morning, August 25, on a tour of irrigated farms in the vicinity of Salem. The caravan, under the direction of F. A. Doerfler, will leave the First National bank corner at 8:30 o'clock. Lunch will be arranged for those taking the tour. All expecting to attend are requested to sign up at the First National bank.

The caravan will visit a number of places in the Aumsville-Turner section first, where more than 200 acres are growing string beans under an irrigation system. At present a crew of about 1,000 persons are engaged in picking these beans.

From Aumsville the tour will swing north to the Doerfler farm in the Waldo hills. The Vogt bean patch at Pratum, where irrigation water is brought from a 350 foot well, will be the next objective. From Pratum the tour will lead to the former Governor Patterson farm at Eola, where Ladina clover and alfalfa will be displayed growing under irrigation. The caravan will come back to Salem and go north on the River road to the Flinn farm where an overhead spdinkling system of irrigation will be examined. The tour will wind up at the farm of Senator Sam Brown near Gervais.

The main types of irrigation, including the overhead, ditch or subirrigation, flooding with hose from pipe lines, and pipe lines fed either through gravity or a pumping system, will be illustrated at the different farms on the tour.

MRS. KENNEDY TALKS TOO MUCH IS CLAIM

and added that she once had to lock Mrs. Kennedy in a closet because "she talked so much."

While the battle raged between Miss Waldron and Mrs. Kennedy the evangelist herself was at her Malibu beach cottage recovering from a nervous breakdown and preparing for a possible appearance on the platform of her "Four-Square" gospel church Sunday. Her physicians have warned her that she must not become excited if she is to recover quickly from her nervous collapse.

So far she has issued no reply to Mrs. Kennedy's latest accusation—that "she once threatened to have me killed."

Mrs. Kennedy charged that Miss Waldron "has sister in her control."

"Mrs. Kennedy and I haven't spoken since the big argument," Miss Waldron answered. "She just is angry because I locked her in the closet to keep her quiet. She was saying all sorts of things about me.

"Her nose isn't broken, either. She just had an operation on it. She says sister broke her nose just to gain sympathy. Sister didn't strike her at all."

Miss Waldron's admission of a part in the scene that ended with Mrs. Kennedy's withdrawal from the church completed the story of that episode as all sides had been told.

All principals agreed that Miss Waldron and her position of power in Angelus temple caused the battle but there the agreement ended.

Mrs. Kennedy claimed her life was threatened and she suffered a broken nose when she was knocked down by her daughter.

Mrs. McPherson said her mother fell to the floor in a tontrum and that if her nose was injured it was when she fell.

"Nothing but Mrs. Kennedy's dignity was hurt," declared Miss Waldron.

Mrs. Kennedy reiterated the charge that the present turmoil over Mrs. McPherson's illness was a plot to aid in wresting control of Angelus temple from the evangelist.

"Sister doesn't have any idea about how to do business and she already has almost lost the temple," Mrs. Kennedy said. "All she has now is a note for $250,000.

"Certain people are trying to make her look crazy so that they can declare she is not responsible and grab the temple from her."

"What she ought to do is to go back to Angelus temple right away and show her people that she is all right. She ought to be proud to let them see how much more beautiful she is with her new face lift."

Miss Waldron declared that Mrs. McPherson was recovering from a nervous breakdown and had undergone no facial operation. Mrs. McPherson, herself, would make no comment on the matter.

Dr. E. H. Williams, physician and paychariast, was authority for the announcement Mrs. McPherson might be back in her pulpit Sunday.

In the face of medical authority to the contrary, Miss Emma Schaeffer, trusted secretary of the evangelist, again told Angelus temple members that "sister still is blind."

Miss Schaeffer, who was with Mrs. McPherson when the latter assertedly was kidnapped from a beach four years ago, then successfully introduced a resolution which called for three days of fasting and prayer for Mrs. McPherson's recovery.

UNTRAMPED SILAGE SUCCESS, IS CLAIM

Dallas—Leonard Peterson of the Oak Point district, north of Independence, is one of the several Polk county farmers who last year filled their silo without keeping men in it to tramp the ensilage. For years it has been considered a necessary expense in the filling of the silo to keep from one to three men in there for the purpose of packing and distributing the silage as it was blown in. Of recent years some have been experimenting with only tramping the very top part with good results. This is what Mr. Peterson did last year and he stated, "I couldn't see but what my silage was just as good as it had ever been when we had used men in it to do the tramping."

STOCK MARKET RALLIES AFTER EARLY PLUNGE

New ork (UP)—The stock market made a substantial rally Thursday after having been depressed 1 to 5 points in the general list and as much as 10 points in special issues.

Sales for the session totaled 1,712,810 shares, against 1,817,580 shares Wednesday.

Preliminary calculation made before the late rally showed the Dow, Jones and Co., industrial average off 2.04 ponits at 230.94 and the railroad average off 1.20 at 127.71.

Dealings fell off on the decline and this encouraged buyers to take stock in the late trading. Steel received support just under 166 and other industrial leaders were similarly treated. Several of the amusements made good gains, oils steadied and special issues moved up.

Early selling resulted from the efforts of bears to bring a reaction on the theory the recent rise had weakened the market's technical position. They were not successful in bringing out much genuine short selling, however, and in the last ten minutes were glad to cover their commitments.

Three issues, Radio-Keith-Orpheum, Radio Corporation and Vanadium, made up 25 per cent of all the business done on the exchange. Radio-Keith-Orpheum was the outstanding feature, rising to a new high on the movement at 34, up 1⅛ and then dropping to 32½ after which it again rallied. Radio moved over an arc of nearly 2 points and Vanadium 5 points.

During the early trading U. S. Steel rose easily to 168¼, where it was up 1⅝. It then reacted to 165⅝, off 1⅝ net, and in the late trading rallied to lead the whole list above the lows of the day.

Other leaders made swings about the size of that in Steel. Westinghouse moved between 142 and 146; American Can 125⅝ and 128⅛; General Electric, 68⅝ and 70⅝; and American Telephone, 209 and 213.

Coppers were unsettled with Kennecott making a new low and others of the group easier. Oils sold off on a cut in crude by one of the producers. Utilities held fairly well about 1 to 2 points under the previous close.

Steel closed at 167⅛, off ½; having made up 1⅛ points of its earlier decline. Westinghouse Electric made up 2⅝ of its loss to close at 144⅝, off ⅝ net; Vanadium almost 2 points to close at 88, off 2½; American Can one point to close at 126⅝, off ¾, and American Telephone 2 points to close at 211, off ⅝.

Call money ruled at 2 per cent with the figure shaded in the outside market.

HEAVY DROP OF MATURE PEARS REPORTED HERE

Bartlett pear picking will be on in full blast in the district about Salem by the first of next week, S. H. VanTrump, county fruit inspector stated Thursday after visiting numerous orchards. Although the yield this year will be an average one, many orchards are reporting a heavy drop of mature pears from no apparent reason.

The price for valley pears apparently will be around $25 a ton, although some have been sold as low as $20, Van Trump states. A few carloads of Granta Pass fruit have been brought into Salem, these pears having been purchased for $34.

VanTrump believes valley pears are unjustly discriminated against as compared with fruit shipped in from Yakima and the Rogue river valley. Canners claim local pears will not "stand up" in the cans as the others, stating they get "fuzzy" around the edges after being put into the cans. The inspector states the bench lands of the Willamette valley can grow pears the equal to anything shipped in. He has disposed of his crop to the Woodburn cannery this year. The buyers of that plant state that if they could obtain fruit of this quality in sufficient quantity there would be no need to bring fruit in from the outside. VanTrump's pears are grown on bench land near Mt. Angel.
