

MORE PLEAS FOR AGENT HEARD BY COUNTY COURT

Pleas in favor of creating the office of county agent were continued before the county court Wednesday afternoon by representatives of a number of granges and organizations and during the long afternoon and morning sessions at the chamber of commerce over 25 people from various parts of the county were heard.

Father Joseph, manager of the farm at St. Benedict's Abbey, said he believed the county agent would be of value as a distributor of information, Lawrence Thomas, also of Mt. Angel, declared he considered the appropriation an investment and not an expense.

Ray Glatt spoke for Fred E. McCull, Keltzer, who said the community club of more than 150 there favored the agent. Alfred Loe, Evans valley community club, praised the work of the agent in Polk county. Charles L. Martin, Aumsville community club, said 85 per cent of the membership there favored an agent.

Inasmuch as next Monday has been set aside for those opposed to the agent plan to appear before the court and give their views, no expression one way or another was made by members of the county court at the conclusion of Wednesday's meeting.

One of the interested auditors at the meeting who took copious notes was William Teutsch, state college extension agent, who has been speaking in favor of the agent to various granges and community club meetings.

Archduke Otto of Hungary Now Ready To Claim Lost Throne

Paris (U.P.)—Archduke Otto of Hungary, tutored in the ways of kingship amid penury rather than in luxury, has just reached his 18-year-old majority and the right to claim the vacant throne of his country.

It had been predicted freely that Otto's 18th birthday would be chosen as the date for an attempt to reinstate the Hapsburgs on the Hungarian throne, but reports received here said that the anniversary would be celebrated by a quiet family gathering. Otto, his mother, the Empress Zita, and others of the Hapsburg family, are in residence at Steenochterze castle, outside Brussels.

Since his father, Charles IV of Austria, king of Hungary and Bohemia, died nearly ten years ago, Otto has wandered from country to country sharing the exile of his widowed mother. Most tragic of de-throned royalties, Zita has suffered imprisonment, beggary and banishment, but she still remains ambitious for her son.

Everyone in the household of the former empress treated the boy with almost some day become a king with all the respect due a reigning monarch. Servants addressed him as "your majesty" and retired bowing from his presence. He was tutored in the intricacies of etiquette and diplomacy, although the continued existence of Zita and her eight children was largely due to the aid of royal relatives.

King Alfonso XIII of Spain, Zita's cousin, gave her the villa in which the family lived at Leguelio, near Bilbao. Through all her suffering and her struggle to keep her family together, Zita has clung to the Florentine diamond belonging to the Hapsburgs, although she could have sold it for a fortune.

It is said that Zita believes that the stone is destined to be worn by her son when he occupies the Hungarian throne. The diamond was worn by Charles I, emperor, then passed to the Medici, and later to the Hapsburgs.

European chancelleries believe that if the attempt to seize the Hungarian throne for Otto is not begun on the prince's birthday, it will occur soon thereafter. Hungarian monarchists have sent messages to the exiled prince wearing fealty and declaring readiness to rally to his cause.

MARY BLAKE SPEAKING

FROM MOTHER TO DAUGHTER THIS COOKING SECRET IS HANDED ON

So often I get letters like this one from Connecticut: "I am very fond of cooking... I have been using Carnation Milk since I've been married."

Then I pick up my batch of unopened letters—and find a clue in a letter from West Virginia: "I have used Carnation Milk ever since I began to keep house."

So that's how it begins. Some mothers take no chances—as for example, Mrs. B—, also of Connecticut. She writes for a cook book for her daughter.

"She is a young housekeeper just starting out to keep house this spring. Wise mother—she knows that with a Carnation Cook Book around, her daughter is sure to cook with Carnation Milk—and that anyone who cooks with Carnation is sure to have success!

Carnation Milk gives better results than even the best of bottled milk—making more buttery soups and sauces, richer creamed vegetables, creamier puddings, smoother, finer-textured ice creams and candies and custards.

These results it gives because it is evaporated to double creaminess and because the cream content is broken up into finest particles, making a fiber-bodied milk.

Carnation Milk is simply the purest

USE THE Safeguarded milk

The best of milk, safeguarded at the source by clean housing of clean herds, and by milking with clean hands into clean utensils, and evaporated to double richness and conveniently packaged in hermetically sealed cans to protect its purity until it reaches you—that's Carnation Milk. Moreover, it gives cooking results unequalled by milk in any other form.

FROM CONTENTED COWS

in Oregon loses one of its oldest and best employes. Mr. Dancy has earned in many ways the privilege of retirement and making his life his own.

Dancy, who numbers hundreds of Salem and Oregon people as his friends, started his telephone career in 1892 as a repairman at Salem and later worked a short time in Portland.

On January 1, 1906, Dancy was made manager for Marion county for the telephone company. In 1916 he became district commercial manager for Salem. He held that title, or its equivalent, until May 1, 1927, when he was made commercial representative.

Collins, the new manager, is expected to arrive in Salem Friday and immediately take up his new duties. He has had more than 20 years of telephone service, all of which have been in the Pacific northwest. He has served as manager at Aberdeen, Centralia, Kent, Hoquiam and Renton, Washington and as area manager in both Seattle and Portland.

Besides his telephone record, Collins has an enviable civic record. He is a past president of Rotary at Hoquiam where he was also the organizer of the Rotary club. He was president of the Southwestern Washington Development League, a member of the board of directors of the Pacific Northwest Tourist Association, and president of the Hoquiam chamber of commerce. He was active in the Kiwanis club at Portland where he was a member of the board of directors.
