Convention Sessions to Be Busy

Last minute details for the eleven annual convention of the Oregon Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs will be arranged at a final convention board meeting of the Salem club to be held Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock at the home of the local organization's president, Mrs. Mona Yoder.

Convention committees have been working smoothly and efficiently and reports Tuesday night, after the ironing out of a few details, are expected to show that the capital city is in readiness to entertain the several hundred business women from all over the state who will represent the 22 federated clubs at business sessions to be held Friday and Saturday in the chamber of commerce rooms.

Department conferences, reports and round table discussions will occupy much of the business sessions. Registration of delegates and executive council meetings will occupy Friday forenoon. The convention will officially open at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon. Officers will be presented, convention committee reports and reports will be made by the state corresponding secretary, Miss Goldie Currow of Portland; the state recording secretary, Miss Lucella B. Callin; the state treasurer, Miss Ona Jenner of Oregon City; the finance chairman, Mrs. Luverne J. Hardwick of McMinnville; and chairman of special committees, Miss Grace Elizabeth Smith of Salem will conduct a parliamentary law drill.

Convention sessions will be resumed Saturday morning at 9 o'clock, when Miss Martha Gersch of Portland, state president, will make her report.

Ten minute round table discussions will be held as follows: Education, research and health; Miss Josephine Shade of Salem; membership and emblem, Mrs. Belle R. Gould of Coquille; extension, Miss Ellen B. Rudnas of Manfield; program, Mrs. Leona G. Bryant of Coquille; international relations and public relations, Mrs. Elizabeth Heintline of Roseburg; legislation, Miss Jane E. Olson of Pendleton; forward, Miss Doris N. Sexton of The Dalles; publicity, Mrs. Emma C. McKinney of Hillsboro; magazine, Mrs. Madeline Callin of Salem; president's round table, Miss Martha Gersch.

Reports and recommendations of state chairman will follow the round table discussions. Reports will be made by the following special chairmen: editor of Oregon Business Woman, by Mrs. Madeline Callin of Salem; business manager of Oregon Business Woman, Miss Clara McNeil of Salem; extension, Miss Ellen B. Rudnas; forward, Miss Doris N. Sexton; the credentials committee report, Miss Phoebe McAdams of Salem; the national convention chairman report by Miss Cecelia Mae Beyer of Astoria; the report of the transportation chairman by Miss Ada M. Coles of Portland; the report of the national building gift campaign by Mrs. Henrietta Hacker of Albany.

The convention will follow at 2 o'clock. Occupational round tables will follow. The are: business owners and managers, Mrs. Jennie T. Pink of McMinnville, chairman, with Mrs. Harriett Underwood of Eugene speaking on the responsibility of managing and what is expected of employees and Mrs. Ida Belle Hughes of McMinnville speaking on plans of advertising your own business, and Mrs. Belle R. Gould of Coquille on "Why I Like My Business"; office, with Miss Alice Hutchinson of Portland as chairman and as speakers, Miss Evangeline Phibbin of Portland, Miss Emma Summerfield of Albany, Mrs. Leda E. Parker of Klamath Falls, Miss Mildred McLeod Hornacker of Hillsboro, Miss Bertha Singer of Portland, Mrs. Florence Dreher of Klamath Falls, Mrs. Edith K. Parks of Roseburg, Miss Helen Louise Crosby of Salem, Miss Ella Pfeiffer of Gresham, Dr. Florence S. Manion of Portland, and Mrs. Keun L. Pale of Roseburg.

New business, final report of the credentials committee, report of the nominating committee, election of officers, report of resolutions committee and invitation for 1932 convention will close the business session for the state convention.

An interesting late of breakfast luncheons, a reception, an annual banquet and a midnite frolic have been planned for the entertainment of delegates.

Drama Class Ends Year with Luncheon

Mrs. Carl Nelson and Mrs. Robert Brady entertained members of Mrs. Robert Galke's drama class with a luncheon Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Nelson.

The meeting was the final one for the drama class this season, the sessions not being resumed until next September. Appropriate entertainment was provided by each member present telling of the play she enjoyed most of those she read this season, and her reason for her choice.

Covers at the attractive luncheon were placed for Mrs. Robert Galke, Mrs. Leonard Nelson, Mrs. Clifford Farmer, Mrs. Willis Roughton, Mrs. Karl Becke, Mrs. William Everett Anderson, Mrs. Edger Pittsgrald, Mrs. Clifton Mudd, Mrs. E. T. Pierce, and the hostesses, Mrs. Brady and Mrs. Nelson.

Engagement Told At Dinner Party

The engagement of Miss Dorothy C. Gutekunst to Atwood P. Foster was announced at a dinner party given by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Gutekunst at their home on Cheneketa street, Monday evening.

The guests included only immediate relatives of both parties and a few young married couples, very close friends of the two.

The color scheme of pink, white and silver was used throughout the dinner party. Pink ribbon streamers running from the center piece of tiny pink rose buds to each guest's plate, tying the tiny pink rosebud corsages concealed the small cards bearing the names of Miss Gutekunst and Mr. Foster.

announcing the betrothal in clever verse.

Between the courses the guests were entertained by expressing their wishes for the bride-elect in verse.

Miss Gutekunst is a graduate of the local high school, class of 1928 and at present is employed part time in the Salem Clinic.

Mr. Foster is the son of James E. Foster, also of Salem, and a graduate of Salem high school, class of 1926. Mr. Foster who is a graduate of the Glad Tidings Bible Institute of San Francisco, Calif., expects in the near future to enter the ministry.

Both young people are active in the church work at Evangelistic tabernacle, 13th and Perry streets.

No date as yet has been set for the wedding.

Hostess Named For Art Exhibit

The entire list of hostesses for the art exhibit being sponsored in the fireplace room of the public library each afternoon and evening this week has been announced by Mrs. Clifton Mudd, art director for the exhibit and in direct charge of the exhibit. Unfortunately the exhibit will continue only to Friday night, since the large collection of original paintings loaned by the Oregon Artists' association of Portland must be returned to Portland Saturday afternoon.

Wednesday evening will be a social affair, with refreshments served by the hostesses in charge. The hostesses will be Mrs. L. H. Tarpley, Mrs. John Clifford, and members of the league's art committee, Mrs. Mudd, Mrs. Gustav Eksen and Mrs. Ella Hathaway.

Writers Entertained at Fargo Home

A program of original work that varied from poetry, essays, radio broadcast talks, and a pageant-play, to general discussion entertained members of the writer's section of the Salem Arts League Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. William Fordyce Fargo. Material gleaned from two professional magazines subscribed to by the section was submitted by Mrs. John Clifford, section leader for the past two years, who closed her term Tuesday night.

Mrs. P. G. Franklin was named leader in a close election. It was arranged to continue monthly meetings throughout the summer, the June meeting to be a picnic supper at the country home of Mrs. C. A. Lytle.

The program Tuesday night was opened by Perry Prescott Reigelman who read the fourth scene of his pageant-play, the action taking place at the Methodist mission on French prairie in May, 1863. Mrs. Blanche Jones offered an essay, "Morning With the Robins." Lynn P. Cronmiller, state forester, read a most effective radio broadcast which he gave over a radio station earlier in the day, the speech being entitled, "Let Us Forget" and dealing with fire prevention. Mrs. Fred Alban Well led in the discussion that followed.

Mrs. Jessie Singleton read two poems, including a humorous one titled "Optimism." Mrs. Edna Daily read her poem, "The Rain Mood," which has just been accepted by an eastern publication. Mrs. C. A. Lytle read an expressive poem "The Deschutes." Dr. F. C. Franklin led in the discussion that followed.

Mrs. Fargo, the hostess, served refreshments, assisted by Mrs. B. L. Steeves. Those present included Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Cronmiller, Mrs.
