Park Hotel License Cancelled by City

The license of the Park hotel on 12th street was cancelled by a resolution introduced by the police committee and adopted by the city council Monday night. The license was held by A. C. Smith.

Two women connected with the charge of running a house of ill-repute and were bound over to the grand jury. The arrest followed the apprehension of four youths at the place who were charged with being drunk and disorderly. The mother of one of them brought the complaint against the two women.

NEW U. S. CRUISERS FOUND DEFECTIVE

speeds. This was not a matter of major importance, but in later designs considerable attention was devoted to eliminating vibration.

Later during trial runs, stern posts of five cruisers cracked. They are being replaced at a cost of $18,000 each. With one exception this charge will fall upon the builder and not upon the government.

Target practice apparently developed the extent of trouble which might arise from the peculiarity of the cruisers' roll. It interfered with gunnery from the affected ships.

The United Press was informed at the department Tuesday that efforts to eliminate the rolling tendency were underway on the cruisers Pensacola and Northampton at the New York and Norfolk navy yards, respectively. Despite faults in construction, the navy contends that these 10,000 ton vessels are the best of their kind in naval construction.

A naval constructor explained the changes were necessitated principally because these vessels are the first of their type ever built here. The inclination to roll, he said, was largely due to efforts to design ships which could withstand a maximum of punishment in battle. To this end the weight of the vessels was so disrupted that they would not readily capsize even on partial flooding.

Larger bilge keels and stabilizing tanks are being installed in the Pensacola and Northampton. Naval constructors hope these devices will correct the roll without making the cruisers less able under punishment.

President Hoover and his naval advisers split over this type of cruiser prior to the London treaty. The navy general board wanted at least 21. Mr. Hoover and Secretary of State Stimson went down to 18. Stimson returned from London with a treaty which permits 15 to be built and allows three additional 10,000-ton cruisers for the United States provided this country proportionately reduces tonnage devoted to smaller 6-inch gun cruisers.

Seven additional 10,000 ton cruisers to complete the authorized 15 are under construction and are to leave the ways with the faults of their sisters corrected.

BARTRUM OFF TO SELL FLAX PULLERS

and other sections of Europe lie in abandoning the old system of hand labor. On my recent visit to New York I was told by representatives of the Amtorg Trading corporation that Russia plans to mechanize its entire industry.

Colonel Bartrum's visit abroad is principally for the purpose of introducing the flax pullers and organizing a force to handle sales there.

"All of the machines sold will be manufactured in Oregon, which has pioneered in the development of the pullers and which is entitled to the business," said Bartrum. "Manufacture of the machines will develop into a big industry here."

Bartrum says he has no plans for the organization of a manufacturing company to produce the machines here, but that they will be built on contract by the various plants already established. He plans to be gone at least three months.

KILL ON SIGHT IS ORDER TO POSSEMEN

of the machine with our hands in the air," she sobbed. "Then without any warning he shot Buddy. As Buddy dropped to the ground he told me 'you'll get the same thing if you make one bum move.'"

Then, the girl said, he forced her into the bushes a few feet from where the body lay and attacked her. How long he kept her there the frightened girl could not tell. But finally he took her back to the automobile and there forced her to help him toss the body of Palmer into the rear seat.

GIRL DRIVES ABOUT TOWN

"Then he told me to get in and drive and said he would kill me if I tried any tricks," the girl said.

For some time he forced her to drive aimlessly about the town, the gruesome load in the back seat, and finally he ended an automobile parked at the curb.

He got in it, started the car and told the girl to "get to hell out of here quick."

She drove away as he did, and she drove for some time, she said, too dazed to think. Finally she stopped and ran screaming to the first house she saw, where she was taken in.

Police did not know whether there were occupants in the parked automobile the slayer had made his getaway in, or whether it had been empty. From the direction he started it was believed he was headed for Denver.

ALL ROADS GUARDED

Authorities in all towns around here and in Denver were warned and by daylight every highway in the state was guarded by police posses under instructions to stop every machine in an effort to find the slayer.

The girl said she believed the man was about 23 years old, and he wore overalls and a black hat and was of dark complexion and heavy built.

Police believed the man to be a foreigner.

BLIND SCHOOL HEAD OUSTED BY BOARD

Dry a free hand in reorganizing the staff.

In offering the motion for the dismissal of Howard and the employment of Dry the state treasurer said that the change was being made "for the welfare of the children in the school." He charged that the school has been operated on an institutional rather than an educational basis."

Hal E. Hoss, secretary of state, was reluctant to vote for the motion on the ground that he knew nothing of Dry or his qualifications, that he was not an Oregon man, and asked if it was necessary that they go out of the state for a superintendent.

"The board of control has been severely criticized forg oing out of Oregon for executive heads," Hoss said, adding that if it were possible to secure a superintendent who is an Oregon man he would prefer to do so.

Holman said that he had given the matter several months of study, that the position is a hard one to fill and one demanding technical training, and that he had reached the conclusion that Drq was the best available man for the job. Governor Meier joined in recommending Dry and Hoss consented to vote for him.

Dr. Will receive the same compensation as did Howard, $1500 a year and his living quarters and board at the school.

The board also considered the matter of insurance for state buildings and institutions, and requested A. H. Averill, state insurance commissioner, to make a study and submit recommendations for insurance.

Under the present law, no state buildings or institutions carry fire insurance, but does provide for a restoration fund. The state has less than $100,000 in this fund, which Governor Meier declared would be a small item in the event of a large fire.

OIL COST MOUNTS WITH HIGH SPEED

Chicago (AP)—You "step on the gas" to increase an automobile's speed, but it's the oil that takes the real punishment.

Every motorist knows, vaguely, that the faster he drives his car the greater the oil consumption. Now the American automobile association has discovered just what a big difference a few miles-per-hour make.

A collection of many definite facts on the subject is the result of 9,000 miles of tests conducted by the contest board of the A.A.A. over the Indianapolis speedway track.

Seventeen stock cars, representing 13 different makes—a fair cross-section of the 1931 automobile crop—were given the test.

The cars consumed an average of one quart of oil per thousand miles when driven at 30 miles an hour, but the average jumped up to 6.9 quarts per 1,000 at 55 miles an hour.

The latter amount varied greatly, however, in the different machines, some showing as low as two quarts per 1,000 at the higher speed and others jumping to around 19!

Using heavier oils at high speed reduced consumption, it was shown by the tests, but this saving in oil was at the expense of a loss of 7 per cent in gasoline mileage.

Greater internal friction caused by the heavier oil is held responsible for the drop in gasoline mileage. The lesson in this, the report points out, is that there is no good reason for motorists to vary from the recommended viscosities.

High-speed driving was found to be more expensive from the gasoline-consumption standpoint, also. Miles per gallon averaged from 12.94 to 13.13 at 30 miles an hour, and from 10.24 to 11.08 at the higher rate.

Porterville, Cal., (AP)—L. T. Waldorf believes he has the makings of a fair sized dairy in his family cow, Betsy, a grade Holstein. Betsy recently presented her owner with her third set of twin calves in four years.

BULLET KILLS YOUNG MINER

St. Clairsville, O. (AP)—Ohio's coal mine strike section hereabouts seethed with excitement Tuesday over the first killing in the many weeks of the strike's disorders. The victim, William Simon, 16, was shot late Monday during a clash between working and striking miners at the Gaylord mine near Martins Ferry.

Simon, a member of the National Miners' union, which is directing the strike in Belmont, Jefferson and Harrison counties, was struck by a bullet fired from an automobile in which three other miners were going to work.

Joseph Peterlin, 43, one of the miners in the auto, was arrested by Sheriff Howard A. Duff.

Peterlin told officers he opened fire with a revolver after stones were hurled at the automobile.

Several hours later, when a crowd of 500 persons milled about the city jail at Yorksville in the belief Peterlin was within, Sheriff Duff increased the guard at the county jail to make certain the prisoner would be safe from violence.

Wheeling, W. Va. (AP)—Snipers fired upon miners entering the McKinleyville mine of the Pittsburg and West Virginia Coal company near Wellsburg Tuesday, wounding William Thompson, one of the miners.

Fifty men were about to enter the workings when bullets began spattering around them, apparently being fired from nearby wooded slopes. About forty shots were fired. The miners scattered for cover.

AMERICAN PLANS TO AID GERMANY

and are prepared to see that she gets it whether France participates or not.

It is understood the American and British views are in complete accord, that they regard immediate relief as imperative, but they do not approve of a long term loan at this time.

Rather, it was said, they favor short term credits which would bridge over the immediate desperate need and give Germany and her creditors time to discuss what further measures of relief could be extended in the fall.

In a long talk just before the session adjourned, Mr. Stimson told the meeting the larger American banks on which the government has been able to keep tab, have not withdrawn credits from Germany in this time of her distress.

On the contrary, he said, there have been some increases of American capital in Germany. He assured the conference that the American banks will cooperate in relief, provided aid comes from other countries also.

It was learned that no concrete proposals have yet been advanced formally and the conversations thus far have been along general lines, providing an opportunity for exposition of the positions fo the participating powers.

As one diplomat described the aims of the conferees—"What we want to do now is to give the little Dutch boy a chance to get his thumb out of the hole in the dyke so he can get to work."

It is understood France is rather inclined to protracted discussions but that the United States and Great Britain maintain that speed is essential.

In support of this contention it was said Chancellor Bruening does not know from one moment to the next how long his government will last, and there are many who assert that Germany has been menaced with revolution for some time.

It is understood Chancellor Bruening ought to return to Berlin on Wednesday night and that the Americans and British at least feel it necessary that he take back with him definite promises of help.

Those who uphold this course assert that if the chancellor should go back empty handed it might mean the end of his government at the hands of a people laboring under a nervous tension which has long been near the breaking point.

The official communique issued after the adjournment said:

"The international conference considered the methods of international cooperation whereby confidence in Germany's economic stability may be restored in the immediate future as a preliminary to examination of further measures which may be necessary to effect a permanent restoration of Germany's financial situation on a firm basis.

"It was arranged the finance ministers of the countries represented at the conference, with Dr. Bruening and Prime Minister MacDonald should meet this afternoon to continue examination of the questions raised."

Great Britain reports that, as far as it is concerned, the trans-Atlantic telephone is self-supporting.
