TENNANT AND SON NEAR FIRE VICTIMS

Croisan creek property and was sleeping in the house for the first time Thursday night. His boy suggested that they occupy a bed upstairs but Tennant decided the one on the ground floor was handier. He awakened with a start some time in the night, Tennant says, but hearing no noise went back to sleep. Some time later he awoke to find the house almost completely enveloped in flames. Pitching the boy from the window he just had time to grab an armful of clothing from the closet and escape. A trunk was recued from the kitchen but everything else, including the personal effects of a lifetime were destroyed. Valuable chinaware, silver, a watch given him by his mother upon his graduation from high school, and photographs of their children from at different stages of their lives, all were consumed by the flames.

Friday Tennant was seeking a furnished apartment.

Mrs. Tennant and the other children are expected back from a trip to California next week, she having been called there by the illness of her mother.

The building was owned by Ladd and Bush bank. The place is located about a mile and a half up Croisan creek from the river road. Tennant was about half covered with insurance. The building, valued at approximately $4000 was partially covered.

Fire fighting equipment from the Salem fire department saved buildings located adjacent to the dwelling.

FEWER CHINESE STUDENTS HERE

The fall in the price of silver with its consequent lengthening of the rate of exchange against China, is not only causing a decided slump in the exports of the United States to the Orient, but is resulting in checking the flow of Chinese students to institutions of higher education in this country, in the opinion of Ritche Davis, son of a university professor of Peking, China.

Davis is making an enforced stay here as the result of an automobile accident which resulted in the breaking of an arm by Arthur Tucker, a travelling companion, also from China. He plans to enter school in Ohio this fall.

"When it takes five dollars of Chinese money to make one dollar in United States currency, you can readily see why the youth of China cannot afford to enter United States schools this fall," young Davis said.

Davis, who was born in China and has lived there all his life with the exception of two short trips to the United States, believes reports of drownings as the result of floods to be somewhat exaggerated, although he says the loss of life from famine is terrific. It is the droughts, famines, floods and civil wars which keep the population of China from overflowing too much, Davis says, adding that there is no need for birth control.

The Chinese are a home minded folk and as a result the country lacks a strong central government, Davis states, while those living in separate provinces know little of each other.

The navy Y. M. C. A. boasts the only soda fountain in Peking, while the Chinese are just learning to use ice cream and soft drinks. This is due, Davis saids, to the Chinese belief that cold water gives one the stomach ache.

"For centuries the waters of China have contained typhus germs," added Davis. "They did not understand the situation, only knowing that drinking cold water resulted in sickness. Consequently they drank boiled water and tea. However, now you can buy a sort of ice cream which resembles your sherbet since it does not contain much milk or cream."

ESCAPE IMPOSSIBLE AS WATERS RISE

side its ancient sisters, it was only a fishing village until opened to foreign trade in 1861. Then its rapid growth began. In 1927 it served for a short time as the capital of nationalist China. Its bund, a wide street along the river front, soon blossomed with smart buildings and became famous as a cosmopolitan city. Virtually all the city, including the bund, was engulfed in the flood.

AGED ASK FOR DEATH

An incident typical of the misery was witnessed by the Associated Press correspondent while going about in a sampan. The boat encountered an aged man and woman standing armpit deep in the flood. They refused to heed the boatman's cry to move aside and asked him to strike them down.

The aged couple said their religion and their fear that the "water dragon's" wrath would be visited upon them prevented their committing suicide but asserted they would welcome death.

What happened when the big dykes at Hankow and Wuchang broke Monday and Tuesday was slowly becoming known. It was officially said that hundreds had drowned in these breaks but other sources said the death toll would be several thousand. No exact figures were given by either source.

STATE SAVINGS IS REORGANIZED

An increase in reserve stock of the State Savings & Loan association from $25,000 to $30,800 has been announced, with reorganization perfected placing Dr. R. E. Lee Steiner as president; John H. Carson, vice president, and H. C. Miller of Albany as secretary-treasurer succeeding John J. Elliott who has resigned. Elliott leaves with an excellent record.

It is understood that a number of Albany men have subscribed to stock in the newly reorganized association. The new secretary-treasurer has been manager of the Valley Building & Loan association at Albany, was a charter stockholder and has had charge of its management continuously for about five years. He is also manager of the Linn County Securities company.

The directors under the reorganization include Dr. R. E. Lee Steiner, Salem; John H. Carson, Salem; Willard Marks, Albany; F. E. Livengood, Albany; E. B. Williamson, Albany. Miss Olga Hungaburg and Victor Rhodes, both at present employes of the association, have been retained as assistant secretaries.

Reorganization of the association has been approved by the state corporation department.

INSANE CARE EXPENSES HIGH

the court point out ,the process of collection is apt to be quite involved and will place some added burdens on the county itself. To what extent, of course, is as yet largely problematical.

SHORT TIME GIVEN

The law provides that when relatives are capable of paying maintenance costs of the patients that the husband shall be responsible for the expense of the wife; the wife for the husband; the parent or parents for his or her children, and the children for the parents, according to their respective ability to pay. Where relatives can't pay then the county shall pay actual costs up to $20 a month.

In the letter from the board of control transmitting to the county court the bills for June and July for non-violent patients from Marion county in both the state hospitals, the county is given only 10 days in which to return to the board the facts and figures in regard to payments by such relatives. County Judge Siegmund calls attention to the fact that while the state has been two months or so in gathering its data to submit its first bills to the county, the county is ordered to return its information within 10 days' time. This in spite of the fact that the long lists of patients from this county must be checked, their relatives ascertained as provided by law, and citations issue to them to appear for examination, even though some may live out of the county or even out of the state.

Indications are from the complications in the situation that if the county meets its obligations under the requirements of the law and the board's peremptory order that additional help may be needed to sift out the various angles presented by the situation.

COUNTY HAS 33 PATIENTS

The first bills show that in June there were 33 non-violent patients in the hospital here from Marion county who at a per capita basis of $16.67 cost the county $550.11. Four were added in June at a cost of $32.67 for the time they were inmates, or a total cost for June for the local hospital of $582.78. Three were paroled, taking off $33.34, one died, taking off $10, leaving a balance of $539.44 after deducting the $43.34. In the eastern Oregon hospital there were 22 Marion county patients, who at a per capita cost of $16.67 made a total cost of $533.44.

In July there were 34 Marion county patients in the hospital here, with three added during the month, or a total of $709.33 for the month and deductions for cash, paroles and deaths brought the total down to $643.34. In the eastern Oregon hospital 32 patients cost $640, with one death deduction for which brought the total down to $636.67.

INJUSTICE SEEN

Members of the court also pointed out an apparent further injustice in the new law which made it operative this year. And that was that the state already has exacted from the counties the cost of operation of the state institutions for the biennium and that these have been paid by taxes collected or will be paid by taxes to be collected during the period. As a result apparently the state is collecting twice for the same purpose either from the county or from relatives of the insane.

ARMY AT WORK IN HOP YARDS

With an estimated 25,000 workers enlisted, hop picking throughout the state on early clusters and fuggles had extended to all hopyards by Thursday. With around 15,000 acres of hops to be picked it is expected the fuggles will mostly be cleaned up by Saturday night with the possible exception of the big Lachmund yard which may have two or three days picking yet on the fuggles next week. The picking of late clusters will start along about September 1.

Some estimates place the number of pickers at from 15,000 to 20,000 with the emphasis on the 20,000 and with 2000 or 3000 day laborers, while others place a total of the number of workers employed fully 25,000 in all the Oregon yards.

While the same number of pickers are employed in the earlies as in the lates, the picking in the later hops is heavier and and bring a better return to the pickers. Last year there were 1349 acres of fuggles; 1866 acres of early clusters and 10,780 of late clusters or a total acreage of 13,955. It is estimated there are from 1300 to 1500 more acres of hops to be picked this year or around a total of 15,000 acres.

Picking in some yards was started as long ago as 10 days or two weeks but this was exceptional as the owners rushed pickers in to save their hops from infestation of early spiders which threatened to get the hops if the pickers did beat the red spiders to them.

The weather so far has been ideal for picking and growers and pickers alike are hoping that the proverbial hop pickers' rain will be escaped this year but are not laying any bets on it.

One sale has been reported, this by Stroda of Harrisburg to Livesley of 88 bales of 1929 hops at 7 cents.

Kaiser's Death Will Bring Unique Salute

Del Rio, Tex. (UP) — A miniature cannon, weighting only one pound and constructed from historical souvenirs picked up over the world, will be fired when death claims the former Kaiser Wilhelm.

The gun will be fired by its owner, Rufus Sterling, who made it and fired it the first time when the Armistice was signed. Then he said it would not be fired again until the Kaiser's death.

A portion of the metal base upon which the tiny cannon rests came from an 18-inch smooth bore gun that was in use during the Civil War.

Smiths out of It

Butte, Mont (UP)—The new city directory shows that the Sullivans, Murphys and Harringtons have pushed the Smiths into fourth place. There are only two Copps to the town's seven Crooks, but balance is restored by two Apostles and 17 Bishops.

Los Angeles (UP)—A baby girl was born to Mrs. Daniel Brennan in Georgia Street Receiving hospital. "Well, we'll call her Georgia," said the parents. Georgia she is.
