HEAVY SELLING SWEEPS WALL STREET OPENING

STOCK MARKET TURNS UPWARD TOWARD CLOSE

New York (UP)—The New York stock exchange passed through a heavy session Monday, arising from the repercussions of the British abandonment of the gold standard. Prices took a heavy pounding in the first hour; and then improved. At the close they were irregular but well above the early lows.

Sales totaled 4,400,000 shares, the largest since June 24, last. In the first half hour sales totaled 1,100,000 shares or at the rate of 11,000,000 shares a full day.

Preliminary calculation of the averages indicated the net result for the entire market was almost nil so far as prices were concerned. The railroad average showed a substantial gain, being at 54.55, up 1.47. The industrial average declined to 110.83, off 0.91, and the utility 43.58, off 1.12.

Selling was heavy at the outset with blocks ranging to 20,000 shares thrown on the market. Buyers were found for all offerings.

The stock market opened lower on heavy selling marked by unloading of blocks ranging to 20,000 shares.

The largest block was 20,000 International Nickel, 8¾, off ⅛. Radio opened 17,000 shares at 12, off 1½; General Electric, 15,000 at 30¼, off 1; while 10,000 shares blocks came out in International Telephone, United Corporation and General Motors. American Telephone opened 7,000 shares at 135½, off 5⅝, and a new low since 1926.

Steel common opened at 75½, up ¼, on 3,000 shares. It was driven down to 74⅞ in the first half hour.

Toward the first hour it shot up to 80¾, in active short covering. It closed at 80, up 4⅝ points from the previous close.

American Telephone rebounded from a low of 135¼ to 141⅝, and closed at 140¼, off ⅝. New York Central rallied nearly 6 points. Atchison spurted to 118⅝ and closed at 112, up 4 points net.

Rails generally were strong.

Reading gained 25 points and retained all but 10 points.

Toward the close prices slipped back from the highs, but in the last few minutes leading issues were carried to within touching distance of the highs.

Trading in the pound sterling was light. It opened at $4.60, a loss of 85 cents. It later dipped to $3.75, but when the stock market turned up it regained to around $4.10.

ESTIMATE 40,0000 BALES HOPS SOLD

With the 1931 hop crop still placed at around 70,000 to 75,000 bales one local estimate gives fully 40,000 bales of the current crop as either being sold or under contract. The estimate did not attempt to segregate the spot hops sold from those taken under contract but the prevailing price on spots has averaged 15 cents and contracts are on a basis running around 14 and 15 cents.

The California crop is said to have been cut down quite materially by spots sold and contracted hops while the situation in Washington is not known.

PREMIUMS PAID IN BUTTER MART MEATS STEADY

Portland (UP)—Premiums of ¼-1 cent pound are generally continued over the produce exchange price on the open market. Members of the exchange, while previously refusing to advance so-called official prices, have been paying the advance.

General trading in the egg market was steady locally for the week's opening. Receipts are holding practically steady, with a slight increase of pullet stock in spots. No change in the price list.

Indicating the true strength of the butter market and the current shortage of offerings is the fact that those in control of the produce exchange have recently forced an advance in the buying price of butterfat.

That late cuts in the card quotations of some of the f.o.b. buyers here have been too severe and will force a shortage in offerings, is suggested in late advices from country points. The fact that practically all the f.o.b. buyers quoted the same sharp loss, and at the same time, leads the country to believe the decline is manipulated.

For the week's opening there was practically no change in the price of country killed meats in general. Top veal and lambs are especially firm. Hogs appear about steady.

Price of lemons advanced to $11 case for top brands here. This is the highest price to date this season. California continues to talk extreme shortage. Oranges are steady to higher in spots.

Wormy apples are under the ban in Oregon and shippers of apples into this state without proper branding is bringing touble to receivers here. Reports indicate that the worm damage is the most severe in history at eastern Oregon-Washington points.

Another "last" carload of Florida grapefruit in the season, is due.

J. H. Hale peaches in good demand at 70-90 cents box.

Tomato market is firmer and higher with more active call.

Concord grapes are practically steady.

Huckleberry market continues low at ¾ cent pound.

Onions are steady both here and in the country.

Good cabbage is held steady.

CANNERY WORKS ON MARASCHINOS

With Reid, Murdoch canning company expecting to complete its pear pack for the season by Monday evening, a crew of women which has been working on cherries in maraschino will be continued on for a month or six weeks at that plant, working on the packing of fruits for salad. The work on the cherries has been partly getting them processed and ready to go into the fruits for salad pack and also quite a quantity have been going into glass for the maraschino trade.

The pear pack is pretty well over now in all canneries and the prune pack is finished so Reid, Murdoch will probably hold the canning field pretty much alone now for the balance of the packing season. Some of the fruits for salad pack is put up from imported fruit, such as pineapple.

LOST GERMAN FLIERS RESCUED

Junkers all metal plane was heavily laden with 635 gallons of gasoline and 165 gallons of oil.

They were reported to have passed over the island of Fayal in the Azores at 12:47 p. m. (E. S. T.) on the day of their takeoff.

They last were sighted on September 14 at 1:40 p. m. (E. S. T.) by the steamship Pennland about 80 miles southwest from Cape Race, Newfoundland, and 395 miles east of Halifax.

SCHOOLS OPEN WITH 451 MORE PUPILS

to be mainly due to the number of students continuing their education instead of dropping out after the sophomore year, and the number of students entering the system from other schools or returning to school to further their studies. He said the high school assembly hall looked more crowded Monday morning than at any time during the previous school year, and predicted a peak enrollment of more than 1300 in the high school when all students now registered attended classes.

Two hundred and sixty-two youngsters entered the first grades of city schools for the first time this fall. The number compares favorably with entering classes of other years but does not set any records. In fact, the entire enrollment of the grades totals only 60 more than on the opening day of last year. Only two grade schools, Garfield and Englewood, dropped in enrolment.

Leslie junior high school had an entering class of 121 pupils and Parrish juior high school an entering class of 182. There were 346 entering sophomore students at the high school. The increase at Leslie junior high for the opening day was mour more than at Parrish, although the latter school has almost twice as many pupils.

No changes are probable in boundaries between the schools, according to Superintendent Hug, although there is a probability that some of the sixth grade students at Englewood, where there is a class of more than 50, may be sent to Washington to cualize the teacherload.

All teachers in the local school system were at their desks Monday morning to welcome their pupils, with the exception of two. Mrs. Gertrude Smith of the high school history department, is in Chicago with her husband who is undergoing medical attention, and her place is being taken temporarily by Mrs. Russel Bonesteele. Miss Cecelia Mielke, of the Highland school faculty, has not returned from an extensive European tour, she having been granted leave of absence until the latter part of October. Miss Dorothy Batterman is substituting for her.

Principal rFed Wolf at the senior high school expressed his gratification at the results of the summer's work, when students were registered and assigned to classes weeks before the regular opening of school. The large group of high school students found their home room assinments and received their class schedules through their home room teachers, eliminating the confusion of former years and paving the way for the clock-like working of class routine right at the beginning of the term.

Additional pupils are expected at the various schools during the remainder of the week and a recheck on enrollment will be made at the superintendent's office within a few days.

Walnut Harvest To Start This Week With Filberts Underway

The walnut harvest was expected to start in a few orchards Monday with deliveries expected the latter part of the week, according to Fred Ewing, manager for the Salem co-operative plant. Some filberts already have been delivered.

Ewing is now busy getting the plant in shape for what will probably be the biggest season's run in its history. The most important piece of work being done there under Ewing's direction is the installation of a new line for handling of filberts exclusively. Last year the same line handled both filberts and walnuts and deliveries were so heavy at times that work at the plant became congested so an entirely new line of handling machinery was decided for filberts so that each kind of nut can be handled separately throughout the season. Like all other machinery which has been put in the local plant the new line is being installed with as modern facilities as obtainable to keep up the high standard of this unit for the Oregon pack. Self feeding hoppers are also being put in this year to speed up handling of the ack.

Ewing states that while there is considerable blight in the walnut orchards this year it is more or less spotted with some orchards virtually free from it. He considers the blight problem on walnuts as something virtually entirely seasonal and with proper weather conditions another year but very little of it may show up and growers generally do not feel that appearance of the blight is any indication of a permanent condition that can be expected every year.

Both the walnut and filbert crops are good this year and a good quality of nut may be expected although with the very heavy walnut crop some of the sizes may run a little small.

The association this year will handle the largest eastern carlot shipments in its history with the big new bearing acreage coming on. As a result, to get the nuts in shape and into the eastern markets in plenty of time before Thanksgiving to allow them to be sold on the holiday markets fast work must be done by the units.

Ewing says the situation is a fortunate one this year as the nuts are coming on about 10 days early and this will help considerably in speeding up the shipments required for the holiday season. A dead line has been put on for early November for growers to get their nuts into the first pool which is disposed of during the Thanksgiving season and this will probably accelerate the harvesting to some extent.

The first harvesting starting in the walnuts is that of the early seedlings and it is expected it will probably be fully 10 days before the big Franquette harvest starts in in earnest.

NUT GROWERS HAVE SESSION

Woodburn — A very successful meeting of the Salem unit of the North Pacific Nut Growers association was held at the city hall in Woodburn Saturday afternoon, and was attended by a large number of nut growers in this vicinity, many of whom are members of the association. The purpose of the meeting was to increase the membership of the association and the tonnage of nuts handled. Several new members were received and many others signified their intention of joining as soon as their nut orchards come into bearing.

Sam Brown, one of the directors of the organization, and one of the most extensive nut growers in this district, introduced Mose Adams, president of the Salem unit, who explained the purpose and accomplishments of the organization and who was the principal speaker of the afternoon. Brown also gave a talk.

The meeting was called at the suggested of the Woodburn Berry Growers Cooperative association as the best method of getting in touch with the nut growers of this district an dthe feeling was general that membership in such an organization is of great benefit to the individual grower. Nuts grown in this district will be handled through the Salem unit.

Brown, who has 25 acres of nuts in bearing, is the most extensive grower in this territory. Other growers are Joseph Nibler with six acres of filberts and two of walnuts; John Hammelman with 2½ acres; John Bonner, three acres; Lawrence Reiling, three acres; Henry Miller, three acres; Ferschweiler, six acres; J. W. Gibson, one acre; Strand, 1½ acres; Lawrence Grassman, four acres. One of the largest holdings of young trees is that of E. J. Allen, who has 20 acres near Donald. There are many others with young orchards and small tracts and the industry is fast becoming a profitable one in the Woodburn district.

LINDY VOLUNTEERS RELIEF SERVICE

headed was inundated late in August and the loes of life was estimated at 100,000 in five counties along the Grand canal. Destruction in that area was so thorough, however, that no means of making a reliable survey have been avaHable.

Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh took a camera, hoping to obtain useful pictures of the flooded area.

At Lindbergh's suggestion, all social functions planned here in honor of Mrs. Lindbergh and himself were cancelled to enable the fliers to devote their full time to flood relief work.

After accepting Lindbergh's offer to help, Soong sent two experts of the flood relief commission from Shanghai to Nanking to confer with the fliers on the most effective way of using their plane.

In view of the fact the Lindbergh plane has a long cruising range, they decided it would be most useful in surveying flood stricken northern Kiangsu.

When the decision was reached the Lindberghs proceeded immediately to Lotus lake here, where they had landed last week after their flight from Fujuoka, Japan, and took off in ten minutes.
