Stayton Club Reports On Oregon Products

Stayton—An interesting meeting was held by the Stayton Woman's club, followed by a Christmas program, on Thursday afternoon. Reports were made by the committee in charge of the Oregon products dinner held recently by the members that a net profit of $56 was made. It was decided that at the next meeting each member would report on some Oregon product, old and new, that she had used, and this suggestion with the name of the member would be posted in the club house for future reference. This is being done in order to keep up the spirit of using Oregon products in preference to out of the state, when quality and price are equalled.

The club also decided to reduce the debt on the building and to purchase a dozen more chairs for the club house.

After the business session a short program was given by Mesdames Sarah Schmid, Josephine Rock, Edith Wright, Ruth Woods and Eunice Tobie. The large fireplace in the club house was a pretty setting for the Christmas scene, together with fir trees, ferns and lighted red candles. The theme of the program was "Review of the Christmas Program," with parts taken by Alvin and Laurence Schmid, Frank Tobie and Darrel Wright, with the aid of the committee. After the program refreshments were served.
