Changes Are Made At Labish Center

Labish Center—Mrs. Charlotte Jones of Salem began her duties Monday as teacher of the first four grades in the Labish Center school. The primary grades had previously been in charge of Erma Duval, practice teacher from Monmouth, for a 12 week period. The school is a one-room school, but when registration mounted to over 60 this year, the cloak room had to be outfitted as a recitation room and additional tables and chairs provided for the younger children. The marked increase in enrollment was due to a great deal of transient labor in the community, and although the attendance has dwindled, two teachers are still necessary.

Silvertown—Mr. and Mrs. Ernest

R. Ekman entertained at a home dinner party Tuesday evening for the pleasure of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Latham, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Stanley and Mr. and Mrs. George Barr.

Quitting Bee Held

Aumville—An all-day surprise quilting bee was given Mrs. Elmer Aiche at her home at West Stayton Tuesday, by a group of women from Aumville. Those helping were Mrs. Theo Mountain, Mrs. Fred Stener, Mrs. Roy Pusey, Mrs. Margaret Martin and Mrs. Aiche. Mrs. Nipple of West Stayton helped in the afternoon.

Belfry At Church Wanted for Bell

Hazel Green—Members of the United Brethren church have moved the church bell given them by Arthur Summons, owner of the Central Hotel church and are now waiting until a tower can be built to house it properly. The bell was first heard New Year's eve when the young folks held a watch party. The weight of the bell is so great that it will be necessary to construct a separate tower for it, the lower part of which will be used for a vestibule. The bell has a mellow musical tone and will be a much needed improvement according to the church members.

MONMOUTH PTA HEARS ADDRESS BY DR. TUTTLE

Monmouth—That youth must suffer the consequence if it is not restrained in its choice of freedom and parents, teachers and leaders must be consistent in their dealings with the boys and girls of adolescent age, was the theme on which Dr. Tuttle of the University of Oregon, who is recognized as an able lecturer and public speaker, based his excellent address on "Discipline of youth" given before a capacity house of the meeting of the Parent-Teachers association Tuesday evening, January 5.

Mrs. J. B. Lorence presided and the new secretary, Mrs. James Gentle read the minutes. Mrs. F. E. Murdoch, chairman of the financial board reported on the finances of the association. The rooms supervised by Miss McClure, Miss Scheffsky, Miss Beardsley and Mrs. Pence each reported one meeting and plans for a second one to be held soon, of the Study club; Miss Walls' room had three meetings and the room under Miss Dallas not any.

The association has received word from the highway department that its request for safety lanes leading to the school, is under consideration. The need of serving warm lunches has been agitated for some time was discussed by Miss Laura Taylor, Miss Lucille Wall and Mrs. A. H. Craven were appointed to investigate and report. Miss McClure's room again won the banner with an attendance of 96-2-3 per cent for the month of December.

The association is sponsoring two short plays, "Old Maid's Convention" and "Comedy of Errors", to be presented shortly under the direction of Miss Francis Snyder.

The program number was presented by the junior high school boys and consisted of two numbers of singing led by Mrs. Florence Hutchison.

The meeting concluded, with tea and wafers being served in the hall by a committee of which Mrs. D. Riddell was chairman.

West Salem Ladies' Aid Planning Tea

West Salem—The Ladies' Aid society of Ford Memorial church held a business meeting Wednesday afternoon at the Edwin Brock home. Mrs. G. C. Larkin, vice president, presided in the absence of the president. Considerable routine business was transacted and activities planned. It was announced that a tea would be held at the parsonage January 20, with Mrs. J. A. Gosner and Mrs. J. R. Bedford as assistant hostesses and that Mrs. E. A. Dickson and Mrs. C. R. Brown would have charge of the entertainment features. There were 12 present and after the business session a short social time was held.
